The St. Louis Republican is authority for the following: "Cut down expenses is now the hobby on the Union Pacific road. When Messrs. Ames and Adams were west last month, the discharge of 1,000 men was ordered and another 1,000 were to go soon after. The rolling mill at Laramie was recently closed, and the foundry at Omaha has been, or will be soon, the company finding it cheaper to buy than make rail and equipments at current prices. This company had at one time in its employ about 20,000 men, and now has about 10,000."

Last night about 6 p. m., a violent wind storm came up making the dust fly and causing a commotion among the banners that were hanging upon the outer walls. There was hurrying to and fro upon the streets among the pedestrians and anxious glances cast at the sky which seemed void of clouds and people began to wonder whence came the breeze. A little consultation among bystanders regarding the phenomena developed the fact that all were of one mind, and that was that it was Alex. MacIntosh's speech which had just arrived from Rock Bluff where it was delivered earlier in the day.
