AT CHICAGO.

The Democratic Hosts Prepare for Battle.

Chicago, July 5.—Delegates to the democratic national convention continue to arrive in straggling detachments, which, in few cases number more than five or six. They have thus far arrived principally as individuals. One half of the Louisiana delegation, however, arrived this morning, and the entire Iowa delegation, numbering 26, came later in the day. Quite a number of the leaders reached the city late last night and their presence caused an activity and animation at hotels which delegates alone could not impart.

Chicago, July 5.—General Butler arrived in Chicago from Boston on the 6:30 train over the Michigan Central road. He was accompanied by his secretary and several personal friends. Upon the arrival of the train at the depot the distinguished visitor was waited upon by a committee representing the labor organizations of the city, headed by Mr. Muldoon, and after a short season of hand shaking the general was escorted to a carriage and driven to the Palmer House. There he was met by a crowd of about a hundred citizens, who greeted him with three cheers. By an adroit flank movement through the side door he avoided the necessity of delivering a speech, which was called for, and retired to his room. On the route through Michigan General Butler was warmly received at various towns along the Michigan road. At Michigan City the mayor boarded the train and introduced Butler to the people. The general then delivered a few remarks, in the course of which he said that the demonstration was evidence that they approved his course. The local labor demonstration in the Butler interest did not take place until nearly 10 o'clock. The labor societies, representing the bricklayers, horse-shoers, seaman and the typographical and various other unions selected Market street as a rendezvous and from there proceeded to the Palmer house by a circuitous route, along which were large, waiting crowds. The marching column numbered about 3,000, speaking strictly, and carried a variety of transparencies, all of which bore the face of Butler supplemented with such sentiments as "Labor Needs a Statesman;" "If I am Not For You, I am Against You;" "Butler to the Factory Czar of Lowell;" "The Workingmen Welcome Butler." Toward the rear of the column was borne aloft a mammoth spoon, on which was inscribed "Butler Will Feed You All." The extreme rear of the line was made up of a broom brigade, displaying the device, "Butler Will Sweep the Country." As the column approached the vicinity of the Palmer house the scene became an extraordinary one. The electric lighted streets for many blocks in every direction were filled with a mass of people numbering fully 20,000, who awaited the appearance of the Massachusetts man. The great crowd may not have been drawn out solely to see and hear Butler, as the location was the focus of all the interest which centers about the approach of the national convention, but the demonstration and the knowledge that Butler was to speak caught and retained the attention of the vast auditory. General Butler was roundly cheered on his appearing, but his remarks were distinct to only those near him.

THE NEW YORK DELEGATION.
Chicago, July 5.—Forty-one of the members of the New York delegation held a conference tonight at the Palmer house. It was intended to have a caucus, but as the delegates could not all be gathered today, some not having arrived, that plan was abandoned. Among those present were delegates for Cleveland and a number of friends of Flower. A Flower delegate was nominated by State Chairman Manning to be temporary chairman of the delegation, and he was elected without dissent. There was no division of any kind, so that no test of the relative strength of the Cleveland and Flower men could be ascertained. It is also stated that neither side appeared at all anxious to bring up any test question at the present time and it may be safely said that the whole delegation, when it meets, will be nearly evenly divided. The conference adjourned till Monday at 11 o'clock, and many of the delegates present seemed to think that a further adjournment would be taken on that day until evening.

THE PENNSYLVANIANS.
Fifteen of the Pennsylvania delegation arrived this evening and started for the Randall boom, with headquarters at the Grand Pacific hotel. Among the prominent delegates were Wm. F. Hamby, B. F. Myers, W. H. Snowden, and John Campbell. William A. Wallace is expected tonight and Samuel J. Randall on Monday. The Philadelphia delegation is expected tomorrow morning.
