FOUND A FLOATER.

The Coroner's Inquest and Verdict of the Jury.

This morning John Karnes, who was up the river in a skiff about six miles, discovered the body of a dead man floating in the river. He attached a rope to the corpse and towed it down to this city landing it at the foot of Main street where a number of spectators soon gathered and the coroner was at once notified.

Undertaker Boeck was summoned and after the examination of the body, took charge of it for interment. The dead man was about 35 years of age about 5 feet 8 inches in height with light sandy hair and smooth shaven face.

At an inquisition holden at Plattsmouth in Cass county, on the 7th day of July, 1884, before me P. P. Gass, coroner of said county, upon the body of an unknown man lying dead by the jurors, whose names are hereto subscribed. The said jurors upon their oaths say that the person here lying dead came to his death by some unknown cause but think he was accidentally drowned.

SUNDAY IN CHICAGO.

The Latest Dispatches from the Front, TAMMANY FERNIST CLEVELAND.

Toledo July 6.—Five special trains bearing eastern delegates to the Chicago convention passed through the city this morning. When waiting here Hon. Jno. Kelly and others were called out and spoke briefly.

It is announced late to-night that the King's county delegation has decided to support Cleveland, which will give him, it is claimed, two-thirds of the entire delegation on a caucus vote, and compel the entire delegation to vote for him under the rule adopted at Albany.

It may be said authoritatively, however, that Daniel Manning has IN HIS POCKET A LETTER FROM TILDEN, to meet such a contingency as this, should Tilden's admirers insist on bringing his name before the convention.

Butler's friends are very hopeful today, but his opponents claim that his boom, which was launched so bravely yesterday, is a reedy one on the decline. The reason for this assertion is the position taken, by some of the southern delegates who arrived today.

A "boy preacher" named Norval, struck the sinners of Blair last week, and kicked up an odor because his hearers did not contribute liberally.

If the HERALD is not mistaken this is the boy preacher that Mike Murphy and Morrison played for a short season in this city at the old court house and in Fitzgerald hall; before Norval is convicted as a tramp Messrs. Murphy and Morrison ought to send in their experience to the newspapers at Blair.

PERSONALS.

Jacob Valery, sr. started for Chicago Saturday evening, going with Hon. Jas. E. Boyd, of Omaha, in special coach over the Burlington.

District Clerk W. C. Showalter started this morning for his old home in Iowa, where he will rest and recreate for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Smith were guests at H. J. Straight's, at South Bend, yesterday.

J. W. Barnes arrived home Saturday from Kansas City and the south.

Miss Maggie Swift and Miss Belle Henderson, two of Omaha's fascinating young ladies, were in Plattsmouth over Sunday, guests at the Perkins.

D. V. Stephenson, U. S. Surveyor General, came up from his Falls City farm to attend to duties in this city. He goes to Lincoln this evening.

County Superintendent Alton came down from Greenwood this morning, and is attending to business in his line at the county seat.

Mrs. Doctor Foster was called to Lincoln yesterday on professional business, and will not return until tomorrow evening.

Storm Notes in North Nebraska.

The storm of Wednesday night, the 2d inst., traversed the whole length of the Elkhorn valley, doing slight damage all along the line of the road.

At Neligh the southwest corner of the depot roof was torn off. It was a very narrow escape for the family living up stairs, who were only about ten feet from the corner of the house.

Several houses were blown down at O'Neill, and a few persons hurt, but none seriously.

One house was blown down at Inman and the schute for unloading stock badly wrecked.

Two houses near Atkinson were torn to pieces and few persons injured. The rain fell in torrents and flooded everything.

A school house at Stuart was completely wrecked and some other houses moved from their foundations.

The wind at O'Neill was very severe, the Catholic church being blown to pieces, and some other damage done.

The wind at Ainsworth was not so severe and a heavy rain fell for which the people there were truly thankful, as they had had no rain for three weeks and were needing it very badly.

How She Nailed Him.

"What a beautiful night this is, George," cooed a First ward girl. "The stars are out and the heavens look like the bejeweled handle of a silken-fringed fan."

"Yes," assented George; and then he added, with a feeling of impatience: "In Iceland the nights are six months long."

"Oh, let us go to Iceland, George?" "Why, Jennie?"

"Because," she said, "there is the shade of a possibility that you would pop the question some evening when you called."

Then she blushed and said she didn't mean it. But she had him foul, and he knew it.

The Coming World's Industrial and Cotton Centennial, New Orleans.

We want, for exhibition at the coming "World's Industrial and Cotton Centennial," New Orleans, the best obtainable specimens in sheaf form, winter and spring wheat, rye, oat, barley, millet, timothy, clover and each of all the varieties of our wild native grasses, fax and hemp.

Specimens should be taken just when the plant is full grown and mature, but not "dead ripe," the object being to preserve and exhibit the seeds, as well as plant growth. The specimens should be pulled up, with the roots, to show full growth. They should be tied in bundles and hung up to dry in the shade heads down.

In its season, we will want corn in its stalk, prepared in the same way. Prepare only the very best obtainable specimens.

Any other plant growth of value, not here enumerated, will be desirable. If parties will prepare as indicated and advise us, we will provide for gathering them up and preparing for shipment to New Orleans.

The name of the party producing and the county in which produced, will be attached to each exhibit.

The Kenesaw Cut-off.

Holdrege, Neb., July 4.—Today was completed between Kenesaw and Oxford, the Chicago cut-off of the Burlington & Missouri river railroad.

This road was commenced about ten months ago and its construction has been prosecuted with thoroughness and vigor, until its present consummation. All the appurtenances, including depots, section houses, wells, tanks, coal sheds, etc., essential to the immediate operation of the road are completed at all important stations and it is now prepared to avail itself of the lucrative business of the bloom of summer.

The road is about 80 miles long and is entirely in Nebraska and passes through a beautiful and fertile prairie country which bids fair to become one of the wealthiest agricultural regions west of the Missouri river. Towns have sprung up magic like contiguous to the line with all the surrounding auxiliaries essential to their permanent growth, and prosperity, and a territory only recently redeemed by the pioneer enterprise from the prestige of the Indian and buffalo, will henceforth yield the wealth of husbandry and support a thrifty population.

The Whereabouts of Fell.

James Fell, the prize fighter, whom the Saunders county authorities were not desirous of taking from the mines in Missouri and bringing back to answer to the indictment for prize-fighting, is now where the requisition of Nebraska's governor cannot reach him.

Several weeks ago he laid aside his pick and shovel and started for Canada where he now is. He has been traveling the provinces giving exhibitions in the many art, and his bills one of which was sent to this city a short time ago displays the name of his vanquished, prominent among which are those of O. H. Smith and Jack Hanley, of Omaha, Nebraska.

He is meeting with great success in his line and will probably make himself again one of Victoria's subjects.—Omaha Bee.

Acts Like It

Old negro, to a policeman: 'Yer oughter have mo' speck for a ole man den ter come an' sarch his house for meat; aks like I've stole authin. Man in dis country ain't got no rights no how. Keep on foolin' 'roun' an' somebody'll git yer one o' dese days. Doan know when a man's honcs' an' he doan git no credic, fur it,' and then, as the policeman drew the half of a hog from under the bed, he added: 'Oh, take yer shout of yer wants ter. Put him un'er de bed ter keep de chillun frum gittin' him. Aks like I stold de blame hog.'—Texas Siftings.
