It is announced that two more brick blocks are to be built in this city yet this season, and that in addition to the bank building and the Hatt & Co. If such be true the news is good indeed.

An individual overloaded with benzine or some inflammable material broke forth into song on the street yesterday evening and showed that he needed the kind and protecting care of a policeman.

The HERALD was misinformed the other day in regard to the brick supply for the new bank building. Mr. Valentine Raufen is the individual who furnishes 100,000 of his choice brick for the new structure.

He left the town.

Miss May Dundy, of Omaha, was the guest of her friend and former schoolmate Mrs. Carrie L. Wilson, last night, and left for Lincoln this morning where she will visit with Mrs. L. C. Burr. It is nearly two years since Miss Dundy visited our growing city, and she is still the embodiment of all that is attractive in mind and person. Miss Dundy is still unmarried, but we trust she will some day place one of our craft in a position to make her a good, true and considerate husband.

The "immensest" lie of the season (barring politics) comes from York. It is as follows: During the late hail storm which was so severe in that neighborhood, a German farmer, living a few miles from York, heard a noise in his stable and got up and went out in his bare feet. The hail was lying at least two inches deep on the ground, and before he could get to the stable and return he froze both of his feet and is now confined to his bed. This is a hard story to tell with the thermometer ranging in the nineties.

Bennett & Lewis.

Among the many enterprising business houses in this city none show a more marked and successful career than the house of Bennett & Lewis, one of the most substantial and leading grocery houses in Plattsmouth. This firm from a comparatively small and limited commencement in the old Permeic building on lower Main st., has increased and enlarged its stock and sales in every line of their trade until now there are few grocery houses in the State that carry a larger or more complete stock or whose books show larger sales during the year.

This firm will, in a few days, move into a new and spacious store room, one that is being fitted up for their special use and convenience. When they are located in this room they will have all the space and conveniences their rapidly increasing trade demands and they will enter upon a more prosperous career even than they have heretofore enjoyed. Bennett & Lewis owe much of their success to the fact that they have always aimed to keep the very best quality of goods, and in addition all the expensive and epicurian grocers' sundries that might be called for or in demand, all of which has earned for them the title of "The Leading Grocers."

The Cattle Disease.

The prompt action of the governor, as well as that of the railroads of the state, in their efforts to control the cattle plague which is now known to prevail at Maxwell and Ogallala, will do much to lessen the loss of cattle and prevent the disease from spreading. It is understood that the Union Pacific railroad will refuse to receive shipments of cattle from Texas for the next forty days, or until the arrival of frost. The B. & M. railroad has also consented to co-operate with the Union Pacific in quarantining the state against Texas cattle. Governor Dawes has received a message from Manager Holdredge saying that notice had been given to all B. & M. connections that no further shipments of Texas cattle would be received from them. The stockmen themselves are also doing all they can to prevent the disease from spreading, and it is now believed that the plague will soon be stamped out, and that further loss will not aggregate more than a few head, in localities already infested.

Where are They?

On Saturday last four young men and an elderly man, all residents of South Omaha, purchased a keg of beer and went out on the river to fish.

They left in a boat and started down the stream. Since that time nothing has been seen or heard of any of the party. Their friends are becoming very anxious about their strange disappearance, and beginning to make many inquiries, but as yet have heard nothing of their whereabouts. Some surmise that they took too freely of the beer, and after having become drunk they got to rocking the boat to and fro, capsized it, and as all were too drunk to help themselves, were drowned, and that their bodies are concealed within the muddy waters of the Missouri.

Whatever may have become of them they are gone, and their friends have grave apprehensions for their safety. This furnishes another case for would-be detectives to work on and as there are five persons missing the case is an unusually interesting one.—Omaha B. O.

HALVERSON'S BODY.

His Wife Will Have the Remains Dignitously Buried at Plattsmouth.

Coroner Maul was visited by a lady yesterday, who announced herself as Mrs. Halverson, the wife of the man whose body was found at Plattsmouth about the 6th of July. Although separated from her husband for nearly a year, and having as she claims, ample reasons for leaving him, Mrs. Halverson says she does not propose to allow his remains to rest in a pauper's grave. She will go to Plattsmouth today, buy a lot in the cemetery, and have the remains of the unfortunate man, as she inferred, when shown the clothing at the coroner's Mrs. Halverson identified it immediately as that worn by her husband. The shirt she wanted to compare it with her bed and table linen at her present home in Weeping Water, which is all marked in the same way.—Omaha Herald.

The Cattle Scare.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 31.—Last May a bunch of Texas cattle was herded at Ogallala, 174 miles east of here. The place where they were herded was afterwards fenced in, and there a small herd of native cattle have contracted the disease, and about two hundred have died. So far as the stock association know, there is no case of afflicted Texas cattle in the territory. A bunch of native bulls, which have been grazed at Ogallala, are now affected at Rawlins. Twenty have died and the remaining seventy-five are liable to. As the disease, when contracted by native cattle from Texas is not communicable, no fear is felt here. The Union Pacific railroad pens along the line of the road and all cattle cars have been thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

Chicago, July 31.—No more diseased cattle have arrived at the stock yards today. There was a rumor, which could be traced to no reliable source, that the infected herd originally contained 15,000 head, and that it was the intention to ship them to market as fast as cars could be secured. It was learned that agents of the Texas Pacific in Missouri were refusing to receive cattle for shipment to Chicago and St. Louis. H. M. Hoxie, of the Wabash road was telegraphed concerning the matter and replied that this action was a result of the misunderstanding of orders and that it had been remedied.

Destructive Hail Storm.

TRUMBULL, Neb., July 31.—The most destructive wind and hail storm in the history of the county passed over the western edge from northwest to southeast yesterday afternoon. The damage is confined mainly to the Spring Creek section. Crops are completely destroyed, orchards injured, and houses and buildings partially demolished. It is impossible to correctly estimate the loss from the meagre reports received here, but it will be between thirty and fifty thousand and perhaps more.

Blind Boone.

CONCORDIA, KANSAS, Sept. 29th 1883. To who it may concern.—The undersigned takes pleasure in recommending to you "Blind Boone" who gave two concerts in the Presbyterian church of this place, on the evenings of Sept. 27th and 28th, 1883. We cannot speak too highly of the entertainments given. They were refined in every particular, and such as would be edifying and elevating to the most cultivated ladies and gentlemen. We have given a variety of entertainments for the benefit of our church, but none of them have been attended with actual profit and very few with as little labor and anxiety. We had good houses both nights. ALBIE E. WAYER, President of Ladies Aid Society.

CLIFTON, KANSAS, Sept. 25th 1883. To who it may concern.—The concert given by Blind Boone, at the M. E. church in this city, last Monday night Sept. 24th, far exceeded the most sanguine expectations of our music loving people. Boone is tremendous. His rendition of a storm cannot be surpassed. His performance are far ahead of Blind Tom, or any other professional pianist I have ever heard.—M. P. Hewitt, Ed. Clifton Review.
