The street crossings on Main street are about played out, and since it is not likely the pavements will be laid this fall, new ones would do good service this winter and next spring.

Let's have those sewerage bonds sold immediately and have work begun so that the paving can go down bright and early in the spring, tra la.

Largest and best line of 25, 50 and 75c perfumes in the city at Will J. Warrick's. d 4t

The elegant weather of the past week gave the farmers an opportunity of marketing some of their products to get a little "change," and we are informed by Mr. S. A. Davis that the sale of corn, oats, wheat and rye is quite brisk.

The sale of the sewerage bonds will whoop the ball along. His Honor, the Mayor and Messrs J. V. Weckbach, and M. B. Murphy are the able committee endowed with the power to do so. The sooner they are sold the better yet.

Don't forget the low prices we make on patent medicines. d 4t WILL J. WARRICK.

Best white lead $6 per hundred lbs. and best boiled linseed oil 55c per gallon at Will J. Warrick's. d 4t

There's nothing on the earth or under the earth, (except natural gas) that will boom Plattsmouth so much as to have a system of sewerage and paved streets. The bonds are voted, and sewerage bids accepted. Now let's see the will of the people done and the bonds sold and work begun immediately.

The best mixed paint in the city, will cover one half more surface than any other brand, for sale only at Warrick's. d 4t

The plat for the sale of seats is now open, and this famed and popular comedian will appear in his new play, "Be-witched," at the opera house on next Thursday evening. There is no need of expanding upon this engagement. Sol Smith Russell is known to all, and he is one of the richest comedy characters alive. He will draw a packed house and delight everybody.

Now is the time to buy wall paper before the assortment is broken. d 4t WILL J. WARRICK.

The Milwaukee Barred.

Yesterday morning about 10 o'clock the steamer Milwaukee went sailing down the river at about a 12-mile gait. All went well, and she made the curve this side of the bridge in fine style, until she reached a point about two miles beyond the bridge where she ran chuck on to a sand-bar, and stuck there.

As near as we were able to learn she extricated herself this morning and continued her course, having received a little delay but no injuries from her abrupt stall.

The safety of the public in general, demands that a gong and a man be stationed at the depot. Of an evening, during train time, a person crossing 2nd street to the depot platform is in danger of getting run over unless he takes the greatest caution, and a man in a rush don't do that. As it is, the side tracks and the main line have to be crossed to reach the depot, and in the evening with the headlight on the platform glaring one in the face and the side tracks full of cars so that it is impossible to see an approaching car or engine, and the hissing of the escaping steam and safety valves of the engines near drowning all other sounds, there is real danger of stepping on one of the tracks just as an engine comes sailing out from behind a row of cars, and in getting from the way of that danger, move into the path of another train. There have as yet been no accidents but there have been some close calls recently, and the establishing of a gong and watchman to ring it at the approach of a train, would, during train time, be a safeguard which would be appreciated, and help to release the company from blame in case of an accident.

Last evening Judge Russell issued a marriage license to Mr. F. N. Jenkins and Miss Lizzie S. Wiley. This morning a license to wed was granted to A. N. Burris and Miss Polena Fickler.

The Gun Club Cone.

The Plattsmouth gun club packed about a car load of ammunition, provisions and camping outfit into a wagon this morning and struck out for lake Wau-bausie, Iowa, which is about fifteen miles southeast of here.

They went by wagon and rail and were full of anticipation. Their plan is to assemble at camp and after getting settled, disperse and do their side hunting. The captain and sides remain as given in the HERALD with the addition of one or two members and the inability of several others to be present.

Birthday Celebration.

Judge Russell, of the county court, passed the sixty-third mile-stone in the journey of life to-day.

Mrs. Russell planned and successfully executed a surprise in honor of the occasion. In response to invitations previously sent out, a small company of the judge's intimate friends assembled at his residence on Chicago avenue and Ninth street, and when he went at the accustomed hour, to dinner he was surprised to find them there awaiting his arrival.

The company consisted of the following named gentlemen: J. W. Johnson, McElwain, Wash. Smith, S. A. Davis, J. C. Eikenbary, W. B. Alexander and A. N. Sullivan.

After extending congratulations to Judge Russell upon the success of his journey thus far, and wishing him many future happy birth-days, altogether sat down to a delightful repast, of which they partook to their intense delight. The dinner over, an hour or more was spent in pleasant conversation, during which were related many interesting and amusing anecdotes, and incidents more or less intimately connected with the experiences of those present.

The occasion was altogether a pleasant and interesting one.

Following are some of the facts of interest that were developed:

The oldest man present was the Judge himself, the next oldest was Judge Johnson, the former fifty-two, the latter, thirty-nine, both of them having formerly occupied the place now filled by Mr. Russell. The combined ages of the company was 380 years, the average age being forty-seven and one-half years.

Judge Russell was born in Niagara county, New York and moved with his father's family to Ohio, when nine years old, thence in his twenty-first year he came west, stopping for a year and a half in Iowa, from thence he went to Wisconsin where he worked at his trade of wagon making until he came to Nebraska about twenty years ago. For the last twenty years he has been a resident of Cass county and closely identified with the interests thereof. His popularity with the people, and his character are clearly indicated by the fact that he is now closing his second term in his present official position and has the nomination of the republican party for a third term. He has been a man of uniform good health, never having spent a day in bed from sickness for more than thirty-five years.

Although having reached an advanced age, the prospect is good with him for many years of active service.

He is an honest, upright man, a worthy citizen, and a careful and painstaking official. Long may he live to enjoy life and bless others.

In Memoriam.

Died, October 13th, 1887, Julia Cooley, wife of G. S. Cooley of Cedar Creek; of complicated diseases, at the home of her daughter Mrs. Willard Keefe of Greenwood, aged 56 years, 11 months, and 13 days.

The deceased was of that sturdy puritan stock the ancestry of which date back to the landing of the Mayflower. She was born at Littlefield, Bethel Township, Windsor Co., Vermont, Oct. 23rd, 1831. Her grandfather, General Little of Revolutionary fame fought, and died for the independence of America. His voice was often heard and respected among these wise statesmen and patriots that guided the infant nation through the turbulent times at the close of the Revolution, during its debates and final adoption of our federal constitution.

Her father, General Anso Little, a hero of the second Revolution, lost a lower limb by a cannon ball while gallantly charging the British regulars at the battle of Chippewa, during the second war with Great Britain, (1812). He was a staunch abolitionist, the associate and compeer of Garrison, Phillips, Smith, Sumner, Chase and Greeley, and also an important factor in engineering the "under-ground railroad" during those exciting slavery days.

Her three brothers enlisted in the army for the Union and won distinction on the battle fields of the south. Julius S. Little, captain of the 13th Mich., fell while repelling Wade Hampton's cavalry, on the Great Pedee River in South Carolina. Elias Little was quartermaster of the 10th Michigan and laid down his life for the preservation of his nation. Her youngest and only remaining brother, Justice Little, of Cedar Creek, served throughout the war, and fought with distinction on the battle fields of Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Pittsburg Landing and Appomattox.

The deceased when three years of age moved with her parents to the "western reserve" near Oberlin, Ohio, where she was reared, educated and married Oct. 23rd, 1848, to Grieria S. Cooley, of Cleveland, Ohio, a member of a family who have distinguished themselves in the pulpit, on the bench, at the bar and in the halls of the national legislature.

In 1852 moved with her husband and two small children, Asher Cooley, now of Louisville, Francis A. wife of Geo. E. Sayles of Cedar Creek to Kalamazoo, Michigan, where most of her family were born. Edward G. Cooley, of Weeping Water, Iowa, wife of C. H. Pinckham of Lincoln, Julius S. Cooley an honored member of the Omaha bar, Ma. Ion G. the wife of Willard K. Keefe of Greenwood.

In 1867 leaving behind the comforts of an eastern home, came with her family to live on the bleak prairies of the then infant state—Nebraska. Knowing the advantages of an education herself, looking forward with many forebodings to the education of her children in the new state, yet, by her indomitable will, and perseverance cheerfully seconded by her husband, managed to give her now honored family, the advantages of a collegiate education.

Her two younger children, Agnes and Harry being so young having not yet finished their education most bitterly feel the loss of their mother.

At the early age of eight years she signed the temperance pledge and ever battled bravely for the cause. At an early age she was converted to the cause of the master and reared her family in the faith of her fathers, according to the rites and customs of the Episcopal church. After coming to Nebraska, being deprived of the privilege of attending the church in which she was reared, united with the ever pioneer M. E. church, and has been a faithful follower ever since, believing strongest in the power of Christ to save at the last, craving only at the end, peace—rest—sweet happy rest—to be relieved of her sufferings, having been a patient, uncomplaining invalid—confined to her bed for nearly a year. Her eyes having been closed to the beauties of this world for the past three years will be opened with great joy to behold the faces of the dear ones gone before, a more faithful, kind and loving wife, mother and generous friend could not be found, and most loved and revered by those who knew her best.

Nothing can fill the sad and lonely hearts of the loved ones left behind, unless perhaps a drawing nearer to their mother's God. I sometimes hold it half a sin, To put in words the grief I feel, For words, like mine, are, half reveal And half conceal the soul within.

The funeral services were conducted at the Glendale Methodist Episcopal church by Rev. Campbell of Greenwood, assisted by Rev. Gilmore of Lincoln.

A very eloquent eulogy was pronounced by the Rev. Campbell upon the character and life work of this christian woman who had so nobly worked for the right, Justice and Truth. And just before the sun had set she was laid to rest in the old family cemetery at Glendale by the side of two loved children, amid the universal weeping of old friends and relatives.

Lost.—On Chicago Ave. or on road to Jean school house, last Friday, Oct. 14. A cassimere shall. Finder will return to S. A. Davis and receive reward.

The elegant display of ladies' fine hats, bonnets, laces and millinery goods now being exhibited at Mrs. J. F. Johnson's millinery establishment is by far the choicest ever introduced into the Plattsmouth market. The bonnet styles are numerous and the designs are the latest. Every lady in Plattsmouth should call and examine these goods before they are disposed of.

A Narrow Escape. Clint Richey, who drives a delivery wagon for Richey Bros. Lumber yard, was quite badly used up today just before noon. He was descending the hill on Seventh street near Granite with a load of lumber, driving the single horse and wagon, when lumber slid forward on to the horse causing him to run away. Clint was thrown from the lumber and fell between the wheels which passed over his body. The horse dashed down the hill and ran into the lumber yard fence and against Judge Newberry's express wagon, doing slight damage to one wheel and using a portion of the fence up.

Mr. Richey was picked up and carried to Dr. Schildknecht's office where he was immediately cared for. The examination showed no bones broken, but several bruises. Although no serious results are anticipated from internal injuries, the doctor says he will be very stiff and sore for several days.
