A very amusing incident occurred in the neighborhood of Vine and 5th streets this morning. A large bay horse engaged itself in chasing a cow. The horse would start the cow in one direction, head her off and run her into corners and thus worried her for some time and the cow became almost frantic while the horse seemed to enjoy her discomfort hugely, and quite a number of persons were attracted to see the fun, while several boys came to the rescue of the bovine with sticks and clubs and finally separated the animals and gave the cow a chance to escape, after which the horse ran up and down the street apparently in search of the cow.

HEMPLE-BEETISON.

The Wedding of Mr. Charles C. Hempel and Miss Ella A. Beetison an Event of Yesterday.

The handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. I. Beetison one mile south of Ashland, was yesterday the scene of a pleasant gathering of friends and relatives, the occasion being the celebration of the marriage vows of Charles C. Hempel, one of Plattsmouth's estimable young men, and Miss Ella A. Beetison, the charming and accomplished daughter of the host and hostess.

Promptly at two o'clock the strains of the wedding march announced the time for the ceremony was at hand and the bride and groom, accompanied by Mr. Ben Hempel and Miss Teresa Hempel, brother and sister of the groom, entered the south parlor, in which the friends were congregated, and took their places before Rev. Donoway who performed a short but impressive ceremony with his usual good form and taste. After the bride and groom were pronounced man and wife they were greeted with the congratulations of all present.

The party was then invited to the dining room and the usual festivities and dinner were indulged in, fraught with much pleasure.

The presents were numerous, useful and handsome. The newly married pair took the evening train and passed through this city on a joyful wedding tour to Chicago and other eastern points, after which they will take up their abode in Plattsmouth with the welcome of their many friends.

COMING EVENT.

The B. of L. F. have a Ball on the Programme.

An event in which all the society people of Plattsmouth are interested, is set for the evening of November 23rd, which is Wednesday.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Fireman have already won an enviable reputation for entertainments, and they have set up art the above mentioned evening for a ball at the opera house and the extensive preparations have already begun.

The ball given by this lodge of the brotherhood about a year ago, and which is so favorably remembered, will, if possible, be surpassed by the coming event, and no means will be spared to accomplish the point.

The hall will be decorated in railroad colors and the supper will be one that the daintiest epicure would hasten to partake of.

As far as preparations on the part of the boys are concerned, nothing will be spared to carry the ball through to success. Invitations will be issued to all the neighboring lodges, and the HERALD can predict nothing for the boys but a brilliant success.

The Comedy Event of the Season.

Sol Smith Russell is a fellow of infinite jest, the possessor of two eyes so bright and mischievous that he can almost act with them, the smiler of a smile that is warm and genuine, the parader of a pair of legs that vibrate with the spirit of comedy. He sings well, his lines are delivered with quiet intensity of meaning, his turns of expression are quaint. It goes without saying that the Opera House will be packed, and it is needless to advise the admirers of Mr. Russell to be first at the box office at 7:15 p. m. Thursday evening when the doors will be open.

Sol Smith Russell is a great admirer of Bill Nye, the humorist, and that the feeling is mutual is shown by the following characteristic letter to Mr. Ed Kidder, who wrote the play "Bewitched".

New York, Sept. 23, 1887. Dear Mr. Kidder:—I am very much obliged to you for kindly sending me Mr. Russell's P. S. I have always been a great admirer of him, both personally and professionally, and it tickles me very much to know that he reads my simple yet touchful stuff.

I am glad your new play "Bewitched" is so successful and hope to see it soon. The reason I've never been over to Dock-stader's is that I've been busier than the man who has agreed to deliver the address at a county fair, and also to exhibit a prize bull and act as judge of patchwork quilts at the same time. In other words, I'm trying to keep house. Yours truly, BILL NYE.

In Memoriam.

We publish the following memorial of Mrs. Duke which was read by Mrs. Spurlock, at the W. C. T. U. convention which has just closed at Beatrice, as it may be of interest to some of our readers. Jan. 3rd, 1878, Mrs. R. L. Duke was chosen Rec. Sec. of Plattsmouth Womans Christian Temperance Union, which position she filled up to the time of her decease, July, 4th, 1887. To say that she filled this important position in our union for nine consecutive years, with untiring fidelity and prompt executive ability, would give but a tithe of her work.

In addition to her duty as Rec. Sec., she served as Cor. Sec. for about five years. In this capacity, she proved herself the right arm of our auxiliary, for with her, the temperance cause would brook no delays, and all communications were promptly answered. All reasonable requests complied with, and our conventional interests with the work at large, urged with force. While we had the temperance library in charge, she gave her share of gratuitous service, and when it passed into the hands of the young ladies she was their counselor and aid. Her attendance on our regular meetings was more than her meat and drink, yea, for the triumph of our cause she was ready to make any sacrifice. During the long winter of 1886, she opened the church and made it as a comfortable home of her own to which she gave us a warm welcome as we came, one by one. If there was a place of preferment, she refused it, and in honor preferred another. The poor and unfortunate found in her an untiring friend. Her home was the store-house of supplies for the needy, and no night was too dark or day too cold for her to go and administer to the distressed. In our Sabbath afternoon meetings she manifested most intense interest, secured speakers, arranged for music and at times was induced to preside, though she shrank from any platform work or public recognition. Her painful and prolonged illness brought her still nearer to us as a sister beloved. The ladies of the union were her almost constant attendants. She was patient and cheerful to the end, losing none of her mental vigor. And with interest unabated in the cause in which she was willing to spend and to spend she crossed the "river" and is "crowned". According to her request the White Ribbon mothers and daughters helped arrange the details of the funeral rites, preceding the bier to the grave—forming in line on either side whilst all that was mortal of our beloved co-laborer was laid to rest; and beside that open grave we could but exclaim, "in labor she hath been more abundant than we all." Rachel Leah Duke was the lineal descendant of the illustrious Hamilton family with which George Washington was converted. There is of this noble family genealogical record reaching back for many centuries, and one who writes from personal knowledge and research says "Of the numerous tributes I never knew one to be convicted of a penal crime, to be a county pauper or to be accused of being very rich, but their ambitions and aspirations were mostly for godliness and always for refinement of mind and manners and cultivation of the nobler instincts of human nature."

The family name Hamilton is its own interpreter "Hill Fortress", also the family crest, a bunch of quills—and for several generations they have planted themselves on the rock of moral reform. And the last words penned in the new book of records she had just opened proved the truth of the statement "For God and home and native land." "Some trust in chariots and some in horses but we will remember the name of our God." In the name of God we will set up our banner.

What wonder that with such a light gone out the shadow falls heavily on our hearts.

Mrs. Spurlock gave her report on burial service, a resolution was given and adopted to the effect that the national convention be asked to prepare such a service. In the interim the unions in the state should attend the funerals of their W. C. T. U. sisters in a body and wear then and for thirty days thereafter a crepe knot tied by the little white ribbon.

THREE GROVES.
