A Salisbury Dentist, in Rock-wood Building.

The old depot building still is resting on the river bank so dreary. Why the elements so slow digesting That of which we are so weary?

Judge Chapman goes to Lincoln Monday and Judge Field comes from Lincoln here to hold court.

Last night quite a number of young folks enjoyed the skating which the ice along the river bank affords.

The pay car came in with its usual stock of checks and the shop men are once more happy in their color.

The theory of sending city councils to jail is becoming very popular since Lincoln's experience in that line. Quite a number of afflicted cities throughout the state have been vigorously urging the sending of their home council to jail for the benefit of the town.

The Presbyterian social last evening at the pleasant and hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Windham, was a very enjoyable event. Those present were favored with excellent music both vocal and instrumental, by Miss Clara Paul, Mrs. D. A. Campbell and Mrs. Merges; and also Mr. W. A. Derrick entertained all with some choice solos. The proceeds of the social amounted to over $12.

It is an undisputable fact that Phil Young has the largest and most complete line of dolls, photograph albums, books, Christmas and New Year goods in the city at prices that would defy competition, taking style and quality of goods into consideration we carry no cheap John goods, which we can sell cheap and then make a large profit, but we will sell you goods which are strictly first class. Call and see for yourself.

Judge Russell granted a marriage license to Mr. Theodore Stalk and Miss Wilhelmina Schoning.

The following ladies were elected officers of the W. R. C. last week: Mrs. Kate E. McMakin, Pres.; Emilia Tiffany, S. V. Pres.; Lorina Cooper, J. V. Pres.; Agnes Chapman, Treas.; L. Badgley, Chap.; Sarah Carrigan, Conductor; Maria Ellis, Guard.

The wild man of Nebraska City has turned up in the weird cavernous sides of Honey Creek, near the Winnebago reservation. The daring discoverer who scaled the precipitous ravines of the regions, declares that the w. m. feeds on slices of the Plattsmouth monster, and sharpens his appetite by boring for coal with his toe-nails.—Bee.

Deputy Warden Dan Hopkins, of the penitentiary, is out on the trial of Charley Lincoln, the convict who escaped Thursday evening. When Lincoln left the pen. he drove off with a team of mules and a wagon. The wagon was found five miles southwest of the penitentiary, and yesterday morning one of the mules found its way back to the pen. In the afternoon the warden received word from Hopkins that the other mule had been found in the streets of Courtland, and that Lincoln had been seen dressed in farm clothes. His early capture is almost certain.

Eloped.

"Eloped," at the Grand Opera House last night by the Scorer-Willard Co., was introduced amid almost continual laughter and applause by the audience and is a roaring comedy. The members of the Company are all very clever people, with not a single exception. John G. Scorer, as Bob Cutchins, is a fine actor and very serene with his difficulties. Miss Nina Willard, as the wayward and amusingly affectionate E. B. Fitz, as Simon Wilder, is the best "old man" seen on a Pittsburg stage for years. He is immensely great. Joe Brock as Gluckett stammers and stutters to the intense hilarity of the audience. J. M. Murphy as the president Dan Gilhoo'y, strikes the lovers of fun in the true rollicking style of the wild Irishman. Kathryn Webster, as the Sainly, Sparks is cute, vivacious and sarcastic, while Kate Romaine fills the character of Mrs. pepper Goodwill with more pepper than good-will. The latter sang a solo in very fine style, and in response to a hearty encore sang "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep." She possesses a very sweet voice. Fitz and Webster, in their musical specialties, display wonderful talent, and were encored repeatedly. This feature alone is worth double the price of admission. Murphy and Brock in their songs, and dances brought down the house, and Webster served up a few local jokes in song that kept her happy hearers in a constant roar. The performance was concluded with the production of a most humorous burlesque "Julius Caesar," with a very beautiful Roman Ballet and Chorus by the Company. They will remain throughout the week and will certainly have packed houses.—Pittsburgh Leader Oct. 25, '87. will appear at the Opera House next Monday night.

Plattsmouth.

What is more beautiful than Plattsmouth, situated as she is, among valleys and hills, with the old Missouri rolling down in all her splendor to the east, while to the north the Platte steals silently along until she reaches the Big Muddy to swell her tide? Then again her draws and ravines running in various directions are pleasing to the eye. Scattered promiscuously here and there are many beautiful trees. The hills sloping toward all points decked with cottages and mansions. Let the searcher of beauty ascend the hill to the high school building and from there behold the elegance of the surrounding country. The picturesque scenery off to the southwest to be appreciated must be seen, especially the past few days while the trees were hanging with sparkling particles of frost. Then go with us to the river bank and peer north, south and east and behold the grandeur of all fair nature.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Prof. Drummond was called out to Mercery school one day this week to administer correction to some boys who persisted in bringing a large dog to school and "setting him on" the small children.

Workmen were yesterday getting up storm doors to the front entrance of the high school building. The board thinks they will save a great deal of fuel.

The boiler at the high school is to-day undergoing repairs. The amount of work now being done on the high school heating apparatus certainly indicates that some body is making it "his business to look after it."

The school board have adopted the resolution asked for by the board of health, and now all pupils, who have been sick with a contagious disease, or belong to an affected family, will have to bring a doctor's certificate that there is no danger of contagion before they can reenter school.

I have heard some complaint of a practice, some of the teachers have, of making the pupils remain in, for misconduct, so long at noon and after school in the afternoon. That an unruly pupil should be punished, goes with out saying, but the punishment should not be extreme; and to keep the pupils in an hour at noon or an hour after school is certainly wrong in a physiological if not in a moral sense. Thereupon the system should be deprecated and if possible some other form of punishment substituted.

At the last meeting of the board the wages of three of the teachers (Misses Murphy, Vallery and Wilson) were raised. This is a step in the right direction, and I hope the day may speedily come when Plattsmouth will have the reputation of paying her teachers as high or higher wages than any other city in the state. It will certainly pay. Perhaps not in dollars and cents but in the better education of your children. The time will come when you will have to look to these same children for the master minds which will control the affairs of state. The better our teachers then, the better will be our reward. It is not enough for the teachers to drill her pupils on the three R's, but without neglecting that portion of her duty she has a higher ambition, namely that of raising up for the country defenders, and for the republic citizens. If true patriotism, a patriotism which consists of love and not hate, which consists of maintaining and not altering the well established forms of government, be taught prosperity and thoroughly in our schools the time will come when anything contrary to individual freedom will be classed a relic of barbarism. But while we uphold the principles of freedom we must use caution in the greatest degree, lest we pervert these principles and render our society in a worse condition than while monarchy ruled supreme. It is necessary that our children be taught the value of government where laws are properly executed, and the worse than worthless condition of an improperly executed statute. We should teach that liberty does not mean the right to murder a neighbor and plunder his house; does not mean the uplifting of capital and degradation of labor; does not mean that capital must succumb and labor rule supreme; but rather that liberty embodies the principles of humanity—live and let live.
