Field and the Farmers' Alliance. The following resolutions were passed by the Wabash Farmers' Alliance at its last meeting :

tion of Judge Field in instructing the the latter part of the week. jury to render a verdict in favor of the B. & M. R. R. Co., and request him to resign the office of District Judge. Resolved. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the county papers and to the Omaha Bee and Lincoln Democrat for publication. B. F. Allen, Sec. The foregoing resolutions were receiv- to-day. ed by THE HERALD for publication, accompanied by a letter from Mr. B. F. Allen, of center precinct, secretary. The only mention THE HERALD desires to make of these resolutions at this time is to suggest to our Alliance friends that in our opinion their action is hasty, illadvised, and unwarranted by the facts surrounding the "bridge case." The question of the liability of the R. R. bridge for purposes of local taxation, is purely a legal question, and if Judge Field is correct in his interpretation of the law, and he, not the Alliance, is the judge whose sworn duty it is to interpret the law as he finds it upon the statute book, then he was warranted in instructing the jury just as he did. The question was this: Was the B. & M. or C. B. & Q. R. R. Co. entitled to have the west end of their bridge assessed for purposes of taxation as a part of their "main line." If they were and the State Board of Equalization were taxing it as a part of the main line of the R. R. Co., then the local assessors for Plattsmouth had no business to list or return it for purposes of taxation to the local taxing officers of Cass County. Judge Field took the view, which many good lawyers who are entirely disinterested in this matter take, that, it being the duty of the State Board to return the west end of the bridge in controversy for purposes of taxation, the taxation of the same by the local officers of Cass county was unauthorized, and if the Judge rightly interprets the law his instructions were correct. Now then, if Judge Field is wrong in this matter he has simply misinterpreted the statute, and as the case is now in process of preparation for a review of this dicision by our

Supreme Court, where such men as Samuel Maxwell and his associates will pass upon it, it is not asking too much from our Alliance friends to withhold their judgment until they know whether Judge Field is right or not. Suppose Judge Maxwell and his associates say that upon the case made, Judge Field is right, what will B. F. Allen and his Alliance friends say? Will they ask Samuel Maxwell to resign? THE HERALD has been entirely on the side of the county in this contest, teat we do not propose to reverse Judge Field's opinion of the law until we see what our Supreme Court does. The Alliance resolutions are hasty to say the least of them, and THE HERALD believes

Judge Field was honest in his judgment about the matter, and until the matter is disposed of by our Supreme Court we do by the Allianco.

Death of Rev. Joseph Knotts Joseph Knotts was born in Virginia in September, 1832, where he resided till of age. He was the eldest of seven chil dren. He entered the ministry of the M. E. Church in 1851, and in 1855 was united in marriage with Miss Rebecca Hall who was ever afterward an attentive and loving wife. From Virginia Mr. Knotts removed to central Iowa, where he made his home and pursued his work until compelled by failing health to desist from active work in his chesen calling.

He served the churches at Chariton, Des Moines, Indianola, New Virginia, Osceola and Council Bluffs. He was a Presiding Elder of the Des Moines and Council Bluffs Districts. In 1875 he accepted an appointment as consul to the state of Chihuahua, Mexico; hoping there to build up his broken down constitution, and while there became interested in silver mines at Parral, Mexico, and directed his attention to mining, afterward giving attention to silver mines at Mapimi, state of Durango, and in Arizona, and to the Iron Mountain near Durango City. Business affairs in Mexico were very uneven, demanding almost constant attention and it was the evening of Dec. 26th, 1887, that he left Council Bluffs on his last trip, to attend to his foreign affairs.

His loving wife accompanied him to El Paso, Texas, where they bid final adieu, Mrs. Knotts going to Pasadena. Cal., and her husband going to Durango, Mexico, and then returning to Parral, At the latter place he was taken very ill El Paso, but was watched over by a nephew, L. W. Knotts, who fearing serious results, telegraphed to his uncle's son, A. B. Knotts at Des Moines, Iowa, and started with the sick man to the railway, a distance of fifty miles, where he saw him safely on the cars for El Paso. A. B. Knotts, in reply to the telegram, started Saturday evening for El Paso, but it was too late. The father arrived at that city Monday, a day before the son, and passed from this life among strangers, on the afternoon of that day.

Mr. Knotts, besides his wife, leaves three brothers, two sisters, a daughter, seven sons and one grandson to grieve his loss. At the time of the news of his illness the wife of the deceased was at Pasadena, Cal., the daughter, at Boulder Valley, Mont. T., the two eldest sons, A. B. and T. H. Knotts, proprietors of THE HERALD, were at Des Moines, L. G. Knotts at Council Bluffs, E. F. Knotts at Altoona, Iowa, and the three younger sons, J. E., G. B. and Joseph Knotts, jr., were in Plattsmouth. The fact that the father died alone from his family makes reflection exceedingly sad for them.

While T. M. Fent was coupling cars this morning about 6 o'clock at Pacific Junction, he was knocked down, the car wheels passing directly over his knees, badly crushing and fracturing them; but not to necessitate amputation. His recovery is reported as being doubtful.

Mr. Fent was a brakeman on No. 13, the fast freight that runs from Omaha to Pacific Junction. His home is at New York, Wayne county, Iowa. He was not think it would be in good taste to brought to this place this morning by a ask him to resign. Judge Field will special train and his wounds were dressed hardly resign upon the case as presented by the company's physicians, Dr. R. R. by the Allianco.

N A. S. E. While I have been in quest of this knowledge that I spoke of in my last my mind has dropped upon some of the works of machanics' institutes that are in different parts of the world, to which I may draw your attention to later, but to pursue the theme of my previous article is my intent at present. Associations for the the promotion of science by calm discussion of mooted points, and the reading of short but comprehensive papers on various subjects are among the most useful institutions in the world. They are certainly of great importance, but along with libraries and winter courses of lectures there is one great element that must not be lost sight of; that is personal and general elevation to every individual brother. We mean the personal interests and actions of the members in the National Association of Stationary Engineers in the manner pointed out in our introductory article. In Boston some time ago there was a society of civil engineers which pursued this course, and they have issued some reports which are of no little importance to the scientific world. An institution of the same nature was organized in the State of New York some years ago, but for some reason we have heard nothing of their doings for some time. A good librairy, a course of lectures and a debating society makes up an interesting meeting. To some these things are all very well, almost indispensable, but something more is wanted to enlist the energies and interest of all the members. There are mechanics and artisans in every shop who are capable of throwing a great deal of light upon many subjects, if drawn out to give an opinion, but who have not the faculties or face to engage in a debate. Mere debating societies are generally ruled by the longest winded and loudest talkers, and result in no substantial benefits to their members. We therefore commend the attention of all yoluntary associations for mental improvement and promotion of knowledge to the policy of dividing the association into four different committees. These committees might report or hold their discussions once a month, and thus there would be a meeting of interest every week. Without something of this kind any association labors under the most manifest disadvantages. We have often heard the remark made, "Mechanics never hold long together." We have seen the truthfulness of this remark verified in a great many instances. They seem to advance new porojects relating to their own interests with zeal, but soon fall back into the arms of apathy, or what is worse get into disputes and divide into factions about things that are no greater in importance than the shadows of Above all things we advise our mechanics, in respect to every institution which they may establish, to engraft upon their escutcheon, "Knowledge is power;" "Don't give up the ship." There is no village of any importance in our widespread country but should have an association of the nature set forth above. It should belong to no class, but embrace within its folds all who have the taste for, or take an interest in, the progress of science and art, and the propagation of useful knowledge.

Now as I have given a few of the broad principles upon which we have organized, we deem it our duty to touch lightly upon the individual duties of its members, and the theme which I will commence with will be self-reliance.
