BORROWED AND STOLEN.

Weather Probabilities.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27, 1:30 p. m.—Indications for Nebraska: Fair weather; light to southerly winds.

Small-Pox at San Francisco.
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—The steamer, City of New York, from China and Japan, arrived yesterday afternoon with three cases of small-pox on board. She has been quarantined.

A Parliamentary Forecast.
LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Standard says it is authorized to state that the procedure measure will be the first business of the coming session of parliament after the adoption of the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

They Give It Up.
ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Owing to the snow all trains on the Elmira, Corning & Northern at this point were abandoned to-day. The passenger train on this road due here at 3:27 yesterday afternoon was stuck all night in a snow bank, and did not arrive until 7:30 this morning.

All Troubled.
BOSTON, Jan. 28.—Reports from various points in New England show that all railroads are suffering much trouble in the operating of trains, owing to snow drifts. At Johnsbury, Vt., the storm is the severest ever known. The passenger train from Keene leaving there yesterday is stalled near Nashua.

Postal Changes.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Harry Brink was yesterday appointed postmaster at Luverne, Kossouth county, Iowa, vice Henry Kleinda, resigned. A post-office has been established at Nenzel, Cherry county, Neb., and George Nenzel appointed postmaster; also at Octavia, Butler county, and James M. Stubbart appointed postmaster.

The Blockade in Dakota.
MILLBANK, DAK., Jan. 28.—The situation here is growing serious, the road was opened to the blockaded train between here and Big Stone yesterday and the train brought in. The train with the eastern mail is stuck at Ortonville, and one from the West at Twin Broom, west of here. This city will soon be short of coal, and there is not a pound of sugar in the dealers' hands.

A Grandmother at 25.
FINDLAY, O., January 26.—Delaware Township reports a colored woman who yesterday became a grandmother when but 25 years old. The woman, Clarissa Jackson, was married when but 11 years old, and in her 12th year became the mother of a daughter. This daughter when 12 years old, married, and yesterday gave birth to a child, the grandmother being two months short of 25 years of age. All the parties are respectable colored people in good circumstances.

Snow in the East.
PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 28.—Five long passenger trains on the Boston & Albany road are snow bound here. The east St. Louis express spent the night in a snow drift near Washington cut, with over 100 passengers on board. The fast mail which left Boston last night for the west spent the night in a drift a mile from Hillsdale. The passengers suffered greatly from cold, and many ladies were prostrated and a number of children badly frostbitten. Freight trains covering nearly a mile of track are snowed in near Shakers, and much perishable freight will be lost. In many places the snow has drifted to a depth of forty feet.

A Romantic Love Affair.
JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 26.—Seven years ago Miss Nannie Wiszowski was one of the belles of Jeffersonville. Her two most prominent suitors were Robt. Frayser and John Bulleton. Bulleton was refused by the lady on account of his extreme poverty, and he left the city shortly after, going to California, where he became the agent of "Lucky" Baldwin. He amazed a fortune and purchased a farm about seven miles from San Francisco. Miss Wiszowski accepted Robert Frayser and they were married. They lived happily until about a year ago, when Frayser died. A copy of a paper containing the announcement of Frayser's death fell into the hands of Bulleton. He immediately wrote the widow, giving a statement of his present circumstances, and renewed his suit for her hand. Mrs. Frayser consented to become Mrs. Bulleton, quickly prepared her trousseau, and left this week for the golden west. She will be met at San Francisco by Bulleton, and they will be at once married.

CAUSED BY A RUNAWAY CRIP.

The Opening of the St. Anthony Hill Branch Marked by a Frigidity Casualty—One Killed and Sixteen Wounded.

A DASH TO DEATH.
ST. PAUL, Jan. 28.—The St. Anthony hill line of cable cars to-day first began to run with regularity and a most serious accident signalized the occasion. About 1:30 in the afternoon a grip and passenger car, both heavily loaded with passengers, started down the hill. The grip had been inspected before it left the end of the line and seemed in perfect order. But about midway down the hill the grip failed to hold the cable and the train rushed down to a curve half way down the hill, reaching which it had attained a great speed of twenty-miles an hour. The grip could not leave the track but the passenger coach whipped off, turned over and was dragged some distance. Many of the passengers jumped off, but the majority of those included in the car could not do so, and all of them twenty or more were more or less hurt. The only fatality so far is Mollie L. Saunders, who was standing on the rear platform of the passenger car and with another man was thrown against a tree when the car flew the track. He was horribly crushed and died soon after being taken home. The residences of the neighborhood threw open their houses to the injured and the police and physicians were on the ground in a few minutes. Sixteen passengers besides Saunders were seriously injured.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.
Miss McDonald spends to-day and to-morrow in Greenwood.

The examinations are past and the teachers and pupils now breathe easier.

The present senior class comprises the following: Misses Kate Hartigan, Blidie Houseworth, Stella Leach and Laura Twiss, and Messrs. Robert Hayes, Robert Sherwood, Stuart Livingston, Loren Wiles and Frank Cummins.

While the teachers are worked nearly to death during the examinations, still many of the answers are so ludicrous as to cause a ripple of merriment to cross their faces. One or two illustrations: "A broker is one who deals in brokerage."—"The food is conveyed to the stomach through the auditory canal." All pointers will be gratified to know that "all letters in bills and posters must be capitals." We have a curious condensation of arithmetic and grammar in following: "Numbers are classified as nouns, pronouns, verbs, adverbs, etc." In answer to the question, "Name some of the evil effects of alcohol on the human system," we find the following: "Alcohol causes a man to have a heat and liver." If the most veritable old toper had only been to school and learned to what dreadful diseases he is heir, he would forgo the pleasure of an "eye opener" before breakfast and a "night cap" after supper.

There having been considerable talk about the recent case of corporal punishment in our schools, makes it appropriate for me here to make a few remarks relative to the subject. What I should say is gleaned mostly from several works on teaching and school government written by the best educators of the country. "Corporal punishment is the intentional infliction of physical suffering as a reformatory means." And since this punishment is to be strictly reformatory, it behooves the teacher to exercise her best judgment in its infliction. She is for the time being in loco parentis, and may use any means a parent would be justified in using to preserve order. In the ideal school corporal punishment will be unknown, but this world not having reached that idealistic state where teachers and pupils are all angels, corporal punishment must still be retained for its salutary influence even if never brought into use. I think there are none of the laws of the state which gives the teacher the right, absolute, to whip a child, still long usage sanctions it and the law generally accepts the judgment of the teacher; however, the teacher is liable for assault just the same as if committed elsewhere. Public opinion is decidedly against corporal punishment in the concrete, the approving of it in the abstract. In other words it is not the use but the abuse of this form of punishment which should be deprecated. It should be used only in extreme cases, and then in moderation, using a switch, inflicting the punishment upon the back, shoulders and lower extremities, since there is less danger of sustaining lasting injury if inflicted here than upon other parts of the body, but never upon the hands or head. In conclusion I can do no better than to quote a decision of Judge Street, which many courts have since sustained: "It is one of the duties of a school teacher to maintain order in school during school hours, and enforce obedience to reasonable rules. For that purpose, when necessary, the teacher may inflict corporal punishment. What may be reasonable and proper punishment in a given case depends a great deal on the circumstance of each case. In cases of trial on charge of excessive punishment of course the jury must determine from evidence how severe the punishment was, and whether or not, in the given case it was excessive or unreasonable. In every case it ought to stop short of brutality, or serious or lasting bodily injuries. Within such boundaries it may go to the extent of securing the obedience of the scholar and of course, should be measured some what by the degree of obstinacy, disobedience and willful conduct of the pupil even though it leaves some marks upon the surface of the skin or body. As I have said, the law does not sanction brutal punishment, or such as inflicts great or serious or lasting bodily injury; but there may be cases which will cause all right minded persons to regret that physical strength upon the part of the teacher failed to reduce willful disobedient, perverse and obstinate scholars to obedience. Punishment should begin in moderation, and if the child then fails to mind, and becomes perverse, stubborn, insubordinate, and profane, and continues in such conduct, it may be rightly increased, even though it becomes so severe as to cause the pupil punished to wear his stripes."
