CITY CORDIALS.

"Inshavogue" tonight.

A story of the great Irish rebellion of '98, "Inshavogue," opera house tonight.

A number of ladies and gentlemen paid a social visit to Miss May Cramer Saturday evening.

The Christian church will give a supper Wednesday night at Rockwood hall. Tickets on sale at Bert McElwain's.

David Cartright, the old gentleman whose leg was amputated last Friday afternoon, and of which a full account appeared in these columns Saturday, departed this life yesterday morning.

There is an attorney in this city who takes the cake, ingredients and basket for recorde and witty stories. His latest is entitled "Defugely," the particulars of which are not for publication.

Mr. D. O'Rourke has purchased three very unique button-making machines, that are quite a curiosity, and worthy the attention of those interested in the wonderful inventions of this progressive age.

We are informed that fourteen years ago the laboring men in the yards of the B. & M. received $2.50 per day. What is the cause of the reduction? We are willing to offer our columns for a discussion of that matter.

The need of a second class postoffice is demonstrated in the fact that if a lady lingers a few moments in the present building, her apparel is impregnated with sufficient tobacco smoke to kill a potato bug at forty rods.

Will E. Atkinson is business manager for the Stuart Theatre Co. He appears to be a gentleman well qualified to fill that position, which is one that requires much tact and shrewdness combined with courtesy and politeness.

A newspaper must be hard pushed for an item when they publish an "ad" in their local column, "Dry pool, five cents a cue." An editor's duty, no matter how much of a bum he may be himself, is to give a cue to something more elevating.

The merits of the HERALD are being recognized all through Cass county as the following, from Louisville, testifies: Saturday, Feb. 18.—C. A. Maker, daily, J. G. Huber, weekly; C. Lindstrom, weekly. Renewed their subscriptions; David Line, H. E. Pamkonine, August Pomska. Total amount from above, $36.25.

The favorites, Edwin and Lilah Stuart, at the opera house this evening in the great, four-act, romantic Irish comedy-drama, "Inshavogue," or "The Outlaw of '98." The first Irish drama ever produced, Mr. Edwin Stuart in his great characteristic of "Inshavogue," or Brian Maguire, the outlaw of '98," Miss Lilah Stuart as Kate O'Dwyer, the Irish heiress. Secure your seats at Young's Book Store.

We would like some person unacquainted with the location, to take a walk some dark night from Main to Pearl. Just as soon as he or she will pass the Cottage house they will stumble over a step on the sidewalk ("that shouldn't be there"). If you are not killed outright try and crawl to some telephone and call No. 38, and we will cheerfully write a full account of injuries received.

It is all very well for everybody to understand the "manly art of self defense" but when it comes to such a pass that every newspaper in the country are constantly printing paragraphs relating to John L. Sullivan's prowess, it is about time he was canonized and a memorial window placed in some cathedral in which he would pose with Richard K. Fox on one side and the motto "Do unto others as you would they should do unto you," on the other.

In the course of conversation this morning with J. A. Connor, of this city, that gentleman casually uttered some remarks worthy of study and consideration. Said he: "Napoleon once asked one of his favorite marshals if he believed in Jesus Christ. 'No, I do not,' was the reply. 'You should then,' said the great fatalist, for Hannibal, Tamerlane, Alexander, Julius Caesar and myself, have acquired kingdoms by force and bloodshed. We are but the footstools of fortune and our work will die, and perish, and pass away. Christ gained kingdoms by kindness, that will last forever."

"I'll knock the stuffing out of you." Those words were uttered, with a drunk accent, Saturday night at 7:45 by Mr. Roland, a short-time resident of this city aged about forty-five, painter by trade, tall of stature. He had assumed a pugilistic attitude and was addressing a tailor's dummy that stood outside a clothing store on Main street. Policeman J. Fitzpatrick said, "You had better go and get yourself a bed somewhere." As he couldn't be coaxed to do that and wanted to raise a disturbance, he was arrested. On his person was found a plug of tobacco and $7.50 in cash. Today he was assessed five dollars and costs.

—Mr. Cartright was buried this afternoon.

—The K. C. passenger due in this city at 6 a. m., was two hours late this morning.

—The Stuart Theatre Co., consisting of twelve persons, arrived in the city last night.

—T. C. Livesey, lately appointed night operator at the B. & M. depot resigned Saturday night. Cause, somnolence on duty. Future residence not known.

—Mrs. Baker, an old lady who has been an inmate of the poor house for the past ten or twelve years, was buried this afternoon. She had two sons, now residents of Louisville, one of whom was in attendance at the funeral. We are told that the sons have not met their mother during that long period.

Mr. H. Morris and wife, of San Antonio, Tex., arrived in the city Saturday. Mr. Morris was lately married to Miss Nellie Myers, the sister of Mrs. B. Elson, wife of the prominent clothier of this town. This lady was a visitor to this city about two years ago and formed many acquaintances and friends through her courteous and affable manners. Mr. Morris leaves in a few days for New York to purchase a stock of goods for his store in San Antonio. During his absence Mrs. Morris will remain in this city, the guest of her sister, Mrs. B. Elson.

—Mr. Stuart, of the Stuart Theatre Co., met his company at the depot last night on their arrival from Nebraska City. He received word in Lincoln that his mother was not expected to live and immediately left for Boston. From there he went to Portland, Maine, where his mother resided, and arrived just two hours before she departed this life. This incident forcibly illustrates the vicissitudes of an actor's life, where the transition is so rapid from grave to gay. No allowances for trouble, sickness or misfortune are made by the audience, but the comedian is expected to laugh his hardest, no matter how heavy the cloud of sorrow that hangs over his destiny.

—Mrs. F. J. Bicknell and family leave the city this evening for Fairmont, this state. This lady is the esteemed wife of the Mr. Bicknell who lately represented the Singer Sewing Machine Co., and upon whom the Journal jumped so unmercifully, saying that he had "skipped the country," because he left town in poor circumstances and was unable to pay an advertising bill he owed that paper. The debt has since been paid. It would be a simple act of justice for that paper to now apologize for their slur on a man's character, who was willing to do what was right and honest, but prevented by a complaint that effects a good many of us, namely,—poverty.

"A SURE THING."

Plattsmouth's Progress Faithfully Portrayed.

Mr. H. Voss, the architect for the new block to be erected corner of Fourth and Main for the Anhauser Busch Brewery Co., arrived in the city this morning accompanied by Mr. Naek, a well known contractor of Omaha, Mr. Maurier, a popular restaurateur of Farnam street, Omaha, and George Krugs, the general agent of the brewery company from St. Louis. All these gentlemen return to their respective homes tonight. The object of their visit to this city is to complete arrangements for the completion of the building, work on which will be commenced next week if this weather continues. Mr. Voss brought a finely executed sketch of the building which is placed in a frame about a yard square. The drawing will be placed for inspection of those interested, in McVey & Weidman's saloon. This will give the boys who want to "take another" a good excuse.

The building will be 44x90, two stories high, with a basement, entrance to which will be on Fourth street with a railed enclosure. The first story will have a store front and be used by the company. The upper part will be rented for business offices. The structure will be built of brick manufactured in this city and faced with St. Louis pressed brick. The pediments and columns will be of Sioux Falls red granite. The centre of the front of the top of the building will come to an apex or be of triangular form on which will be placed the heraldic device or trade mark of the company, which resembles an eagle and their monogram. The building will be an ornament to the city, costing about $35,000 and a monument to Plattsmouth's enterprise, we hope, to stimulate our citizens to further efforts in that direction. When everything is in running order the company will employ a large number of men.

The company are acting with great magnanimity in the matter and will accept five bids for the erection of the building, three from contractors of this city and two from Omaha. Our earnest wish is, that Plattsmouth "gets there." The old barn will be torn down tomorrow, and Mr. Madole, the county surveyor, has been appointed to superintend the excavation for the new structure. A few more such buildings on our Main street and then we can "blow" in earnest.

There are about a dozen toughs who loiter in the vicinity of the depot every night. They are a cowardly set and when they tackle anybody the party assaulted has to be drunk or feeble. The present police force are powerless in this matter because they cannot stand around that spot all the time, but have to look after the interests of other parts of the city. The remedy lies in appointing another policeman on the night force to watch that location and arrest the "gang" and make them prove how they obtain money to purchase their food and "bowl up" night and day. This matter requires the immediate attention by the city authorities as these vagabonds are not residents of Plattsmouth, but will remain here and prey on humanity until they are compelled to go elsewhere.

—Mr. Joe Swoboddy, a Bohemian by birth, single, was buried this afternoon. He died yesterday morning at his home in the west part of town. He leaves two sisters and one brother, who will receive six hundred dollars from the St. Stanislaus Society, a Bohemian Association of which he was a member. Before his death he was employed in the B. & M. shops and owned the house in which he lived.

—A welcome echo: "The Plattsmouth HERALD is just a getting there, and now gets out, by far, the best daily paper in the country."—Elwood Echo.

Rock Bluff Notice. Dr. Reynolds' little boy Jimmie, of whom we wrote of being so sick, died on Tuesday the 14, aged about five years. The child was buried on Wednesday in Young's cemetery.

Thomas McKay, while chopping wood last Friday on the hill south of town, cut the great toe on his right foot so badly that he was unable to walk home, and he will undoubtedly be laid up for a while.

Ina Cable and Will Hanear took the flyer on Wednesday the 8th and went to Lincoln and got married. After remaining there about five days, Ina went west to Cheyenne county and Will came home and acts just as though nothing unusual had happened.

Robert Fitch is having the annual ill-luck that some farmers seem to have always in waiting for them. During the winter he lost all of his hogs but one small shoat. This week he lost a horse and has three more so lame that he cannot work them. They appear to have rheumatism.

Our mail days have been changed. We now get our mail on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The mail service on this route is a novelty. The mail carrier travels in a circle and always the same way, hence we never have any return mail. And it puts the mail service so out of joint that it takes six days for the postmaster here to get a return postal receipt for a registered letter from Murray, only five miles away. The change in the mail days we think is a great improvement, but the circle service is a square-toed nuisance and works a great injury to the country postoffices.
