CITY CORDIALS.

-The stockholders of the B. & M. met for the transaction of business at the de pot yesterday afternoon.

-The stone sidewalk in front of the demolished livery barn, corner of Fourth and Main, cost about $200.

-A dog belonging to Herman Herold severely bit the hand of a child belonging to Mr. Greusel yesterday. The dog was shot.

-"Rip Van Winkle," dramatized from Washington Irying's legend of "Sleepy Hollow" will be performed by the Stuart Co. to-night.

-In the case of Western Cattle Insurance Co., vs. Mr. Jasper, bondsmen for Mr. Bunte, that was tried before the county judge yesterday afternoon, the jury decided in favor of the defendant.

-Marriage licenses were issued today to Hopkins and Margarit F. Tucker, of this city, and to Henry Ricchmann and Mary Dehning who reside in the neighborhood of Louisville, this county.

-The Y. L. R. R. A. are preparing to give a target social at the G. A. R. hall Tuesday evening, Feb. 28. This is a new and novel entertainment. A prize will be given to the best marksman. Come and try your luck.

-The gentlemen connected with the Stuart Theatre Co. visited the drug store of O. P. Smith, after their performance last night, and sang some choice selections in return for the compliments paid them a few nights ago by "Our Glee

-E. N. Warner, representing B. T. Babbit's soap company, of New York, was arrested last night for peddling without a license from the city. He was immediatly released on the production of a permit to carry on his business from the city clerk.

- Mr. A. Campbell, a resident of the south part of this city owns a black Shanghai rooster, also a well, on his premises, 148 feet deep, with eight inches of water at the bottom. The chicken was missed for forty-eight hours, and was discovered yesterday unburt at the ticket. bottom of the well.

-At 7 A. M. this morning a man stood holding the bridles of two horses on the entness ort to be returned to our bredren corner of Fifth and Main. He had come in the south. from Mr. Wiles' farm, about six miles south of town, to secure the services of Dr. Siggins to attend a child of Mr. Wiles, about ten years of age, who was not expected to live.

-Mr. Boeck received 10,000 pounds weight of furniture from Chicago today. The freight charges were $14.50. Before the late cut in rates he would have had to pay about $50 for the same haul. Some time ago the companies charged $2.70 for hauling the same amount of freight that they now get 144 cents for.

-The wives of the members of Stone-Ballast Lodge, No. 328, of the Locometive Fireman's Ass'n of this city, formed an auxillary society to the above yesterday. The following ladies were elected officers: Mrs. H. E. Whiting, pres.; W. M. Callocott, vice-pres.; H. R. Reese, treas.; W. Crelran, sec.; F. A. Smith, asst-sec.; E. W. Carpenter, cor-sec.

-The members of the Glee club honored the occasion of the thirtieth birthday of Mrs. Ritchie, the esteemed wife of Mr. H. C. Ritchie of this city, at their residence last night. A number of old and intimate friends were present who knew this gentleman and lady "ere child hood's flaxen ringlet turned to black and brown on kindred brows." THE HER-ALD wishes you "many happy returns of the day."

-"Five little girls from town," whose jollity reminded one of "three little maids from school" sprinkled sparkling rays of sunshine through the darkness of our composing-room yesterday afternoon. Although confusing-and rather embarssing -it still is pleasing-to be using -pleasant phrases-in recording the visit of this constellation, whose names are Hattie and Laura Shipman, Ida Foglesoug, Grace Lucas and Anna Coleman.

-"Little Joe," who performs the duties of this office that entitles him to the appellation of the gentleman with the horns, hoofs and barbed tail, presented his complimentary press ticket at the door of the theatre last night, and for a few seconds excited a great deal of laughter among those, who overheard his reply to the ticket-taker, who gazed on him suspiciously, and inquired gruffly, "who are you?" "I'm the devil, Sir;" answered

-We received an offer for an add for these columns today from L. L. May & Co., nurserymen of St. Paul, Minn., which | paugh, of New York City: Mr. and Mrs. we refuse, for the simple reason that we have a nurseryman (Mr. Leesey) residing Mrs. E. L. Loock, Diller, Neb.; and Miss in this town who can supply all the farmers in Cass county with good stocks at partaking of a sumptucus dinner the bride low rates. Another reason is that we cannot recommend Mr. May to our farmers because he has owed the writer of this, $11.65 for about six years and refuses to lor, where they will be at home to their pay it.

"Reward of Merit."

In the course of a "rounder's" career he witnesses a good many stage performances, but it is very seldom that he hears such applause as the Stuart Co. received at the end of the second act of "Uncle Dan'l." last night. The curtain was Feast of Tabernacles. "The women of the raised and lowered six times in obedience | white Jews are extremely fair and their skins to the hearty applause of the audience, and then they receivep a "call" before the drop scence. Immediately after the ceremony the children of the said John Murfin's second daughter, Mrs. H. I. Harris, of Cass county, and the child of John Murfin's third daughter, Mrs. E. L. Loock, Diller, Jefferson county, Neb., were baptized. Among those present were J. Murfin Factoryville, Neb.; Mrs. E. S. Al-H. I. Harris, of Cass county; Mr. and Eva Hall, of Shenandoah, Iowa. After and groom, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Loock, left for a short wedding trip, and will return to their future home at Superfriends after March 6th, 1883.

KEEPING UP "THE BOY."

Brain-Keen Exhilaration.

Nowadays, elderly men, in greeting one another, are very fond of the phrase, "How do you do, old boy!" It is a good sign that the title is so popular. There has been too Herman Heitzhansan, of Omaha, is in much foolish discussion in books of physiology as to the date at which one ceases to be a boy and becomes a man. Dates can never E. B. Eden, representing the Omaha settle the question. It is settled by the far more pertinent query, how long in life can you continue to enjoy dancing, rowing, running, swimming, coasting, etc.? Now, careful investigation establishes the fact that the coln last evening, after a pleasant visit American of today can keep up his keen interest in these things just about twenty years longer than the fathers did. Fifty years ago the average man of 45 was ashamed of not Bradley, New York; and E. B. Edwin, of looking old. Cutaway coats and derby hats would have seemed as unfitting for such a stage of existence as the motley garb of a harlequin. If he did not stand on his dignity and abjure childish sports he felt he would lose all authority over his children. One dash with them on a double runner down a hillside would, he believed, finish him forever in their eyes. So, of course, the boy dies young in him. What a change of scene is witnessed to- bids. day, particularly in the newer sections of the country. Let any one take, for example, a winter run out to the great northwest, and see what is going on in cities like St. Paul and Minneapolis. No matter what his age, inevitably will be fall in with some middle aged judge or colonel who will say: "I want you to go out with me to-night to the tohog gan slide; it's grand fun, I tell you." So out he goes, and in due time finds himself on the very edge of a dizzy precipice of glare ice. The first invitation to go down he declines as respectfully as he would an invitation from a maniac to jump off Bunker Hill monument with him. Soon, however, the contagion grows irresistible. The judge's wife and the colonel's aunt tell him what a glorious sensation it is, and, almost before he knows it, he is on the toboggan and whizzing like a rifle bullet through empty space. Losing his breath for a moment, he recovers it as the toboggan strikes the level ice of the lake at the bottom, and then, as he flies across the smooth moonlit surface, the boy of 10 leaps to life in him once more, and he will | See page 4. not believe he is a day older. Then, when at last the party gets back home again, exhilarated with the wild motion, the laughter, the glowing exercise of the pull up hill and the exposure to a fine temperature of zero or under, he says: "This is the way to clear the cobwebs out of the brain and get into fine working trim against to-morrow."

and woe be to the man who ceases to like it, or, at any rate, to feel that his own enpacity for keen exhilaration is dead and gone. the cares of life increase, and the spirits begin to flag, then comes the time when some external stimulus should be on hand, No old fellow can do the thing alone. He would be ashamed, moreover, to go out with a troop of schoolboys, and be treated, perhaps, as the bald headed prophet was, without a single bear on duty to call upon for redress. No, he must have grown up people to enjoy the fun with him. Give him such for company, set his blood tingling with the wintry air and the lightning swift motion, light up the scene with the brilliant colors of the dresses of the toboggan club, and fifteen minutes will be enough to persuade him that the age at which the boy need degenerate into the humdrum, dried up, old man must lie somewhere far out of sight of 60.—Boston Herald.

The English Language Reaching Out. We cannot think that Volapul: solves the problem of a universal language. The sys tem will naturally meet with the largest acceptance in countries which already possess the rest of the Republican rascals out and an inflected language; for the manifest superiority of the Volapuk inflections, in regularity and simplicity, can not but impress those accustomed to the complexities and anomalies of inflection. Speakers of English are happily free from this source of difficulty take the tax of on wiskey wen and to them Volapuk cannot be acceptable. The English language is itself reaching out 7. We like the prohibitionists better toward universality, under the influence of commercial and social necessities. The present form of the language may be considered as classical, and must be allowed to remain substantially what it is. But English is undoubtedly susceptible of modifying simplifications which would easily and perfectly fit it for international use. Let a committee be appointed, consisting of one British and one American member, to investigate the subject and suggest such changes as would remove anomalies, and I feel convinced that they would readily ereate a new and simple tongue in the form of what may be called "word English." This seems to be the most hopeful direction in which to look for universal anguage.-Alex. Melville Bell in

The Jews of Cochin,

At the time of Lord Connemara's visit the white and black Jews of Cochin, who pretend to have settled there since the destruction of the temple of Jerusalem, were holding the look dazzlingly white by contrast with the black and bamboo colored population around them. They dress in fantastic robes with gay cloths about their heads and golden coins about their necks, and look like a certain class of Bagdadis and of Arabs of mixed blood, such as you may see at Bussorah or Mr. Stuart's impressive rendition of the the City of the Caliphs. Their appearance is most striking and can hardly be likened to ing "Skinny Smith," was heartly ap- any more well known class of womankind They keep up some sort of connection with Jerusalem. Two men from the holy city sat close beside us while the sacred books of Moses were being unwound from the interior of silver cylinders capped by erections like imperial crowns. The walls were hung with yellow satin, and hundreds of cocoanut oil lights burned in the small synagogue, intensifying a thousandfold the hot, steamy and oppressive atmosphere with which the Malabar coast pays for "the fatal gift of heauty."-New York Star.

Advertising "Deautiflers,"

One method of advertising, which the horriflers, alias the "beautiflers," adopt, is to have small boys give away small bottles of deadly red liquid, duly labeled with all its claims, uses and properties. Many women who never thought of coloring themselves practice after receiving one of these bottles, HITD I'S BOOK P HOTE and Ba I'S COTSET excusing themselves on the plea that "it was first distribution of bottles a noticeable redness appeared on a large percentage of the faces of the promenaders. Now, when the boy with the bottles is seen he is at once surrounded by an eager crowd of women, who grab at the bottles as though they contained the essence of life, and jostle each other like a gang of scrambling tramps.—New York Press "Every Day Talk."
