CITY CORDIALS.

"All is quiet on the Rialto."
-The Board of Trade meets tonight.

The case of the Pinkerton policeman for assault and battery is adjourned till 1 p. m. tomorrow.

Will our X-road correspondent send us another letter?

My name it is "Cap." Pinneo, "But for goodness sake don't say I told you."

We will publish press comments daily concerning the dramatic ability of Mme. Janauschek.

Several interesting communications that we have received lately will be published in their turn.

A public election of officers will be held in the M. E. church, this evening at 8 o'clock p. m. to which the friends of the "Y's" are invited.

Col. Ed. Foster has forwarded us a letter in which he states that Madam Janauschek will surely appear in this city next Saturday, March 3.

Everybody, whether you are a working man, storekeeper, or banker, should be present at the Board of Trade meeting at 8 p. m. this evening in the G. A. R. hall.

No matter if it rains, snows, or blows a keen biting blast, attend the Board of Trade meeting tonight. On your actions and enthusiasm the future prosperity of Plattsmouth depends.

A stranger visited Dr. Shipman's residence yesterday. The mother is overjoyed, and the father is a man who will safely guide the little treasure-Ship through the shoals of life to an intelligent and lovely womanhood.

An item came over the telephone to this office today. It was in the shape of an electric freak that played a tateo on the telephone bell causing that instrument to emit sparks of affection that were not very acceptable to the itemizer.

W. J. Owens, of this city, shot two beavers near Orepelis the other day. One of them was of an enormous size. These animals are worthy of interest at the present day, as in a few years they will have become as scarce as the Buffalo.

Our subscribers would confer a great favor if they would place a letter-box near their door or gateway, in which the carrier-boy could deposit their paper. As it is now, he is just as liable to throw the paper on the wood-pile as on the roof of the summer kitchen.

In our columns to-day will be noticed a letter received yesterday by our scriptural editor from Staff Capt. Frank Aspinall, Salvation army, Omaha. This ricochet shot has no reference to our innocents self, but is of due importance to the other local fabers and sinners of this city.

W. E. Paul and Ed. Shriver, representing the M. M. Co. of Omaha, have started a branch in this city of selling goods on the installment plan. We knew Mr. Shriver years ago in Des Moines, Iowa, where he always bore a good reputation for honesty, shrewdness, and gentlemanly behavior.

Mr. McHugh was at Omaha last night when No. 6 came into the B. & M. depot. He says the engineer took the engine through the depot with "a full head of steam on," but "reversed" when he had passed the platform. The sudden stop off causing the engine to shake and tremble like an old man with the palsy.

Mr. John Wayman, who has worked in the machine shops in the yards took charge of the engine at the waterworks yesterday at 4 p. m. Mr. M. Travers the former engineer, and a competent man in machine shops on a locomotive, handed in his resignation to Mr. Bush several days ago. This appointment and resignation have no connection with the Brotherhood strike.

Mr. McHugh of Malvern, Iowa, of whom we spoke last Monday concerning the bringing of a manufactory to Plattsmouth, will attend the Board of Trade meeting tonight to consult on the subject. He has already promised employment to two or three machinists of this city and seems confident of coming here, although the people of Malvern have offered him special inducement to stay in their town. We wish him success in his project.

To form a good idea of the appearance of a revolving light in the tower of a lighthouse at sea, a person should stand near the high school on a dark and very windy night and look in the direction of the headlight at Pacific Junction. A bottle in the pocket causes the imagination to be more excited and realistic by the rolling motion of the body. This will convey the idea of standing on a yessels' deck, and the manner in which the lights around town bob up and down, will give the amateur seaman a notion that he is entering the harbor of some large city. We can not vouch for the truth of this article. Ed."

"PRAY TELL THE REASON WHY."

The Peculiarities of the Newspaper Profession.

"THE HERALD was an anomaly yesterday. While the local page was in apparent sympathy with the strikers, the editorial page was full of expression of bitter censure."—Journal.

The reason of the local editor's sympathy is on account of his being a "Union man," an honorary member of Typographical Union, No. 190. We do not care two straws for the opinion of the strikers by the writers on the staff of this paper, nor their politics, neither do they bother themselves about what we think of the matter. Each writer on a newspaper has a duty to perform, a separate line of thought and sentiment to execute, and is generally "cut out" by nature for the detail he is allowed to perform. A man is not employed on a newspaper because his views coincide with the proprietor or the others on the staff. If he has the ability, he is allowed to belong to any nationality, or have any shade of belief. The only restriction that is placed on his opinion, outside of the regular established newspaper rules, is, that if he is a democrat (like the writer) working on a republican paper, he must keep his politics out of the paper, but is at liberty to talk as much as he likes in the office or out of it. The same rule applies to a republican reporter working on a democratic sheet.

The Journal illustrates this more fully in yesterday's issue as follows:

"Word comes from Chicago by the press dispatches that engineers are as plentiful there as specks in fly-time, and one correspondent tells how fifty candidates for the positions vacated by the strikers passed a successful examination in an hour or two." And yet in almost the very same column it is related how a night express train went over the Burlington was sent out in charge of an engineer whose only qualification for the position was the fact that he had served as a gripman on a cable car.

Another paragraph says: "A row is imminent in the editorial department of that paper."

Those employed in THE HERALD from the proprietor down to the "devil," although, perhaps, differing vastly on many subjects, have the sincerest regard for each others happiness and welfare, and the prosperity of the paper.

Even, if such was not the case, it would be nothing unusual, for the public are not "As moulded like in nature's mist," and therefore appreciate a difference of opinion. When an editor says he "knows all about it" on some momentous question, he is standing on the apex of the north pole supported by his own exhalations.

About 1833-4 two editors run a paper in Indianola, Iowa. The views of these two men were so antagonistic that they seldom spoke to each other, and used to write their articles in separate rooms. Yet the public liked the paper and proved by their increased patronage that they considered it one of the best country newspapers in Iowa.

Janauschek.

"Meg Merrilies" is identified in the minds of most American play-goers with the fame of the greatest of American actresses Charlotte Cushman, whose greatest character in her latter days was the Gypsy heroine of Scott's novel. Such a character as "Meg" is limited in its range and provides less scope for variety at presentation than most well-known dramatic heroines. If this were not the case, and if Cushman had not already pre-empted the reputation to be achieved by a performance of "Meg," Mme. Janauschek's performance of the same character at the Chestnut Street Opera House, last night would entitle her to the same credit that Cushman won. In fact Mme. Janauschek's performance is all the better for standing comparison with Cushman. It was a great performance, resembling, but unlike Cushman's. The great Czech actress puts more tenderness and human sympathy into the character, and was less a witch in appearance than Miss Cushman. There have been few greater bits of acting or of elocution than Mme. Janauschek's rendering of the famous lullaby. In fact, the whole conception and performance were marked by clear, forceful, vigorous and intense sympathy which found its highest expression in her desire to be laid to rest at the door of her ruined dwelling.—Philadelphia News.

Lightning struck the residence of W. Spencer, corner of Seventh and Elm, at 12:30 today. A cistern pipe leading from the outside of the building to a cistern inside was first struck by the electric current, knocking out a large piece of metal. It then danced a fandango along the plaster of the wall of the room in which the family were seated at dinner. Beside the room being littered with large chunks of plaster and a "surprise" to the persons present no damage was done. No one injured.

Architect Voss, Mr. Kruge, Gen. Man., A. B. Brewer Co., and Mr. Naet, contractor, came in from Omaha this morning and have enjoyed all the afternoon in McVey's saloon opening bids for the building of the Anhauser Busch Brewing building in this city. The successful bidder is not yet known.

Judge Vanatta, Capt. Palmer and Mr. H. C. McMaken are in Lincoln attending the state encampment, G. A. R. They had a jolly time with the "Boys" last night at the Commercial house in that city and are expected home tonight.

THE STRIKE.

The Situation Today in Plattsmouth.

No radical change has as yet taken place in the matter of the great strike, both sides still remaining firm.

The movements on the rail here are un-frequent. The B. & M. succeeded early this morning in making up a train of emigrant goods and live stock and sending it westward. Passenger trains Nos. 4 and 5 passed through this forenoon 30 and 60 minutes late, respectively; both well filled with passengers. J. J. Hines was at the throttle of No. 5, and a yard switchman at Lincoln drove No. 4. Ten Pinkerton men came in on No. 4 from Lincoln, and eight or nine engineers and firemen came down on her from Omaha. These latter men are said to be recently from Pennsylvania.

Following No. 4, this morning the Schuyler train (detained here since Monday), crossed over to the Junction with several Pinkerton men on board.

The situation at Lincoln and Omaha is reported quiet. Two engines worked all night at Lincoln in the B. & M. yards, and eight more were fired this morning ready for duty.

Here in Plattsmouth all things are quiet and peaceful.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The principle theme of conversation Monday morning among the teachers, was the marriage of one of their number. The question as to who would be the next, was not fully settled. One of them was heard repeating the adage, "It might have been"—But, alas!

Where! Oh, where! Was the teacher who should have had charge of the dinner room Monday! Echo, answer where! She wasn't—there.

One of the steam pipes in room No. 6 sprung a leak Monday; but our janitor with a hammer and chisel soon repaired the damage.

Miss Kerney, teacher in room 3, was taken very sick Tuesday morning and was obliged to go home. Miss Hattie Chapman took charge of the room. This lady has a bright intellect, and performs her duties as a teacher in a manner that might well be taken as an example by others.

Miss Carrie Holloway has charge of East 4th ward room 1, in the absence of the regular teacher, who has gone south on a pleasure trip.

The boys have had the foot ball repaired and foot ball will be all the rage until it bursts again, in the meantime the boys will refrain from marble playing to a great extent. CLARA WILSON No. 2.

City Editor, HERALD, Sir:—In answer to yours, dated 2 28 88, I cannot as yet give the date as you ask, that is, on the opening of the above in Plattsmouth. We have not yet secured a place for that purpose. But we are corresponding with parties in renting a building in view of opening. Will let you know all particulars as soon as possible.

Thanking you for your kind offer to the use of your paper, I am Yours Respectfully FRANK ASPINALL, Adj't.

Eight Mile Grove Notes.

February 28, 1888.

The weather at this writing is very unpleasant. The bird that came forward to catch the early worm had to take a back seat and wait. The protracted meeting that was commenced by Rev. Cline and T. Surface was postponed on account of weather. They will commence again Sunday evening, March 4, we anticipate a grand revival. Mrs. Geo. S. Ruby is on the sick list. We are sorry to note that her recovery is doubtful. She is being waited on by Dr. S. Miller, who is the foremost doctor of this city. The school in the Boeck district, taught by Miss Nora Brown, closes Friday, March 2. She has established a reputation which will be handed down through endless ages. The school in district No. 27, taught by S. M. Kirkpatrick, closes March 9. The remainder of the schools in this section of the country are progressing according as the parents uphold the children or teacher. We notice the smiling countenance of Daniel Kiser on our streets once more. He has just returned from an extended tour in the southeast. May love and prosperity crown his travels. A wedding is rumored in this neighborhood to take place the first of March. For more information on this subject ask Stephen Barker or Etta Perry. Meanwhile we remain as ever, JOHN THE REVEALATOR.

I will no longer be responsible for any acts or debts incurred by Elmer Siebold, from and after this date. B. STREIBOLD, Feb. 27, 1888.

2. They are shaded with beautiful forest trees.
3. They are located between Chicago and Lincoln Avenues, the two finest drives about the city.
4. They are only a ten-minutes walk from the business portion of the town.
5. By reason of their location between the two main thoroughfares into the city, they are more accessible than lots in other additions.
6. The only addition to the city reached by two established avenues.
7. The only new addition to the city reached by water mains and with a prospect of being supplied in the near future with complete water privileges.
8. New sidewalks recently constructed to within a few feet of the addition and will shortly be extended.
9. Will certainly have street car privileges at no distant date.
10. If you wish a fine view of the river, locate on a lot in South Park.
11. If you wish a slightly and picturesque view of Plattsmouth, it can be had from a South Park lot.
