CITY CORDIALS.

Don't miss the Catholic fair tonight. Frank Robinson has a very bad hand caused by accidentally injuring it with a pocket knife.

Fitzgerald's hall for fun, frolic and excitable enthusiasm. Go tonight and unmask Comus.

Miss Edith Irland of Omaha came down Saturday evening and is visiting Miss Maggie Oliver.

Miss Minnie Guthmann, who is attending school at Sacred Heart convent, in Omaha, spent Easter at home.

The stock of the C. B. & Q. was quoted in the market before the strike at 175. The last report is 115 1/2.

Judge Russell issued a marriage license today to Mr. John McKay and Miss Ellen J. Johnson, both of Avoca.

Some one has pinned up an envelope in the postoffice about a yard square, on which is inscribed, "Hon. C. W. Sherman, Plattsmouth, Neb."

Dr. Hall received a book yesterday that may interest some of our readers, it is entitled "proceedings of grand lodge of Missouri, A. O. U. W., session of 1888."

The dialogue occurred Saturday: "Mr. — I forget your name — allow me to introduce you to Mr. Steel." Howdo, Mr. Steel, you've a very hard name, but mine's Harder.

About twenty gentlemen from Omaha came down Saturday and attended encampment No. 2, I. O. O. F. A number of candidates were put through and a good time was had.

The following are the names of the Pinkerton men arrested Sunday: M. F. Danneha, W. H. Burt, Jacob Laner, L. N. Richardson, Fred Avery, George Ray, W. Elliot, Oscar Hannigan.

The first indication of spring occurred last night in the form of a Pine blossom weighing ten pounds. The yardmaster found it, and feels to proud to stoop, only to cower.

"Enough to make a saint swear," is an old proverb, and the way the Rev. Alexander has suffered from a complication of "ills the flesh is heir too" for the past month, is enough to make a Methodist swear. Although boiling over with just indignation he stands the test very cheerfully. We wish his speedy recovery.

The assault of the Pinkerton men yesterday took place off the B. & M. right of way in Judge Pottenger's garden. The assault was witnessed by the Judge's son. As the policeman rushed up behind Sullivan to club him, he exclaimed to the boy, "stand back bub." The boy narrowly escaped being hit himself.

There is one young man in this city to whom we referred, about a week ago, as a prodigal son. He has a case now pending in the district court. His last offense was drinking, his present occupation is a great deal more disgraceful. Don't jump out of the frying pan into the fire. "Cease to do evil, learn to do well."

The following are the names of the pupils in Ward 1, Room 1, who have been perfect in punctuality and attendance during the past month: Mark Winans, Fritz Pricke, Eva Lockwood, Abe Peppenburg, Rena Cole, Ella Ruffner, Maud Messersmith, Hayden Hunt, Robert Maury, Conrad Thrasher, Charles Guthmann, Rega Keagel, James Stewart, Arthur Crisman, Mary Heun, Gracie Armstrong, Mary Leonard.

It is well known that the Brotherhood of locomotive engineers is a strong organization. In regard to their resources Chairman Carroll says they have a contingent fund of $300,000 and a building fund of $500,000 which can be used to pay the expenses of the strike if necessary. Then there are 27,500 members in good standing, any of whom can put up $100, making $3,610,000 for "fighting capital."

Easter Bells

Yesterday afternoon we were passing a place of worship and we overheard a pretty young lady trying to teach some boys and girls to sing something that sounded like: "Ring, ring, ring, merry, merry, bells, O, ring sweet Easter bells, we'll sing the loud hosanna, and wave proudly our banner, while the bells of Easter merry, merry ring, while the bells of Easter ring."

The boys didn't appear to be singing as well as the teacher wished and she was showing fulsome flattery to encourage them to do better, but like everything else it became tedious and wearisome. The lady wound up her eulogy of the boys' abilities by saying "Now, boys, I know you can do better if you only try. I am sure you can beat the girls, although you are fond of the girls, and the girls are fond of —" "Oh rats! Give us a song," was the cruel, cutting ejaculation of the boys.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

MARION RICHEY.

The republican nominee for Mayor, is the people's choice. More effectual work was done for the general good of the city during his short term of one year than has ever been accomplished before or since in twice that length of time. The people like Mr. Richey's progressive spirit and are sincere in their desire for his election to that important office. The enemy, however, is up and doing, so that it behooves the friends of Mr. Richey that they should not rest on their oars, as Sam Barker would say; but he is actively engaged in pushing the fight.

L. C. STILES.

Democracy as is its custom, is endeavoring to defeat L. C. Stiles for police judge by a false showing and a misrepresentation of facts.

The unfortunate trouble with the Pinkerton men, wherein seven of them were arrested and brought before Justice Stiles charged with assault and battery; the hearing of which at the request of the attorneys both for the Pinkertons and the strikers was continued until after the election in which the justice had nothing to do but to grant the unanimous request of the attorneys, is to be used against him when he could not do otherwise than grant the request.

Decency and fair play demands that Justice Stiles should not be censured for failing to act both as attorney and court.

THE HERALD has nothing to say in regard to the matter until the court has passed upon it. We predict however, that charges with more sense in reason in them will have to be brought against Mr. Stiles before he can be defeated for the office of police judge, which he is well qualified to fill.

LIMWOOD E. SKINNER.

Mr. Skinner, the republican nominee for city clerk, will receive more than his party vote for that office. He is an exemplary young man, well qualified in every particular for the position to which he aspires. A long residence here coupled with an accommodating disposition, makes Mr. Skinner a strong candidate.

Friend Kelly Fox, will find his legs a little to short to make much of a race with Lim Skinner.

HENRY WATERMAN.

For city treasurer, is an honest, careful man; he is one of the best city treasurers Plattsmouth has ever had; to defeat him would not only be unfair treatment after one term of successful service, but it might prove a bad thing for the tax payers to do.

W. M. WEBBER.

The republican nominee for city council in the Second ward will doubtless receive the support of the party and will be elected.

M. B. MURPHY.

Mr. Murphy needs no encomiums at our hands, he is an honest energetic councilman and will be elected by over one hundred majority.

DR. A. SALLSBURY.

Has many unanswerable claims upon the citizens of the First ward for their support as member of the city council from the First ward. His progressive enterprising spirit coupled with good executive ability will be an improvement on some of the old fossils heretofore foisted on a long suffering public.

E. S. GREUSEL.

Mr. Ed. Greusel is looked upon as being the financier of the city council, his abilities in that direction being unquestioned. THE HERALD has not always agreed with Mr. Greusel on city improvements yet we must say that Mr. Greusel has been a very active and industrious member of the council and at times when his vote was asked for by Mr. Windham in favor of giving lower Main street to the railroad company Mr. Greusel was one of the city's most earnest defenders and was very instrumental in defeating that obnoxious ordinance. The city needs Mr. Greusel's presence in her council chamber and THE HERALD hopes the tax payers of the Fourth ward will see to it that he is returned.

A Unique Composition.

The following unique composition was published in a Philadelphia paper over a hundred years ago. It may be read three different ways. First, let the whole be read in the order in which it is written; second, read the line downwards on the left of each comma in every line; third, in like manner on the right of every comma. In the first reading the Revolutionary cause is condemned, and, by the others, encouraged and lauded: Hark! Hark! the trumpet sounds, the din of war's alarms; O'er seas and solid ground, doth call us all to their ruin is at hand, who with the Congress join, the acts of Parliament, in them I much delight. I hate their cursed intent, who for the Congress fight. The Tories of the day, they are my daily feast; They soon will sneak away, who independence boast; Who non-resistance hold, they have my hand and heart. May they for slaves be sold, who act a Whig; On Massfield, North and Butte, may daily blessings pour; Confusion and dispute, on Congress evermore; To North and British lords, may honor still be done. I wish a block of cord, to General Washington.

Notice.

I hereby announce myself as an independent candidate for police judge, and solicit the votes of everyone.

P. P. GARR.

Pinkerton and Plattsmouth.

It seems strange, but it is nevertheless true, that Sunday cannot pass without an item whether it is about a corpse or a Pinkerton man.

While standing on the corner of Third and Main about 3:30 yesterday afternoon our thoughts were concentrated on the gymnastic actions of a crow that was trying to balance himself on one foot while perched on a telephone wire.

Our pious thoughts were interrupted by rushing footsteps and looking around we observed about six men, on a jog trot, coming from Vine street, down third in the direction of Main.

The first man was J. F. Sullivan, whose head, neck, and coat was a mass of blood. As he arrived at Main street five Pinkerton men reached the southeast corner of Third and Vine.

We immediately interviewed the Pinkerton men, but they all seemed mad and would not answer any questions in any shape or form. The sergeant, after some hesitation, said the men threw rocks at the switchmen.

J. F. Sullivan, after washing the blood from his head, went to the residence of Sheriff Eikenberry and from there to the office of Judge Sullivan and filed an information. Judge L. C. Stiles was called and a warrant issued for the arrest of "eight men dressed in blue uniform." The sheriff then went to the depot, read the warrant and made the arrest aided by Marshal Malick.

The depot was crowded with men and women and a large crowd, which was very quiet and orderly, followed the prisoners to the office of the waterworks company where Judge Stiles was presiding. Judge Sullivan for the prosecution. Byron Clark for the defense. After lots of hard swearing "to speak the truth, and nothing but the truth," it was decided to try the case next Wednesday morning.

The injured man swears on oath that he was standing with some other men at the foot of Vine street overlooking the railroad; that he, with others, shouted to the men switching, "scab!" that, thereupon, eight or ten Pinkerton men ran up to them, one struck him on the back with his club, remarking "get out of here you sons of —"; that three of them pulled their revolvers, and that Sergeant Danneha placed his revolver right under the man's nose and politely remarked, in Pinkerton classics, "git you son of a — or I'll put a bullet through you." Sullivan replied, "shoot, you stinker, you haven't got sand enough to do it." At that moment one of them struck him a blow with a revolver that cut a gash in his skull about an inch long.

Mr. Latham went on the bonds of three of the men, and Dr. Livingston, Sr., on the other five. They were released on $100 bail apiece.

It is a remarkable peculiarity in the history of this country that we never remember hearing of a Pinkerton man being punished for killing or injuring anybody. They say, now, they will be acquitted.

Only a Baby's Shoes.

Tim went out on his run, but before doing so he kissed his wife and the baby. It was a dark night, and the rain bent pitilessly against his rugged face, as he tried to look through the darkness. She was going forty miles an hour.

He struck a "blind washout." The train was a total wreck. The fireman jumped, but Tim stuck to his post, like a true engineer.

The wrecking crew got jack-screws and raised the engine from the corpse of honest Tim.

He was buried.

The brotherhood attended the funeral and done all they could verbally and financially to aid the widow in her distress.

The next sad blow, the baby died, the only light of heaven after Tim's death.

"Oh! heaven, why hast thou forsaken me," exclaimed the widow in her anguish of heart.

Time, which brings forgetfulness, had elapsed, and the lonely woman was hunting through the bureau drawers, when he espied a pair of baby shoes.

Thoughts returned of her darling babe and with unutterable grief she fell back — a corpse.

Neighbors came, burst open the door and had the body removed to the morgue. Her arms were crossed over her breast.

"What's that she's got clasped in her hands?" asked a person of the keeper of the morgue.

"Nothing," was the reply, "only a baby's shoes."

Where You Vote.

The polls open tomorrow at 9 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. First ward: Wm. Neville's office on Sixth street. Second ward: Old Iron foundry on Washington avenue and 10th street. Third ward: W. Richey's lumber yard. Fourth ward: W. P. Cook's barber shop, Main street.

Announcement.

At the request of many voters I hereby announce myself as an independent candidate for the office of councilman in the Third Ward, promising if elected to work for the best interests of the ward and city.
