OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

A. Salisbury, Dentist, Rockwood Building, Telephone No. 25.

Dr. Higgins, Office in Gering's Drug Store, Residence Cor. Sixth and Granite, Telephone No. 12.

Dr. Cave & Smith, the Painless Dentists, Union Block, over Citizens' Bank, Plattsmouth.

CITY CORDIALS.

A prominent young painter of the shops will be tendered a "Petten" surprise party at his residence this evening.

Judge Russell issued a marriage license today to Mr. Jones A. Hoggatt and Miss Amanda E. Nix.

Telephone connection has been made today with our sister town, Weeping Water. It will prove serviceable when the county seat is moved.

Senator Manderson telegraphs that the committee has reported favorably on the Plattsmouth bridge bill and that it will pass the senate today.

A meeting of the Plattsmouth Gun Club was held last evening at the Riddle House. Messrs. Riddle and Johns were admitted to the club as members.

Some ambitious artist has painted several portraits of the base ballers who are to play next Tuesday. They adorn some of the windows of the business houses and represent the players in professional style.

The base ball game which is to be played between the barbers and printers of this city, and which was advertised for Monday, has been postponed until Thursday, as arrangements for the game cannot be made before that time.

C. Whopper, of the Journal, who for some time has restrained himself, gave vent to his hidden feelings in a few lines from his condensed vocabulary, and we suppose since he is relieved of such an unworthy burden, that he liveth more contented.

Mrs. and Miss Church, of Omaha, have leased the building formerly occupied by Mrs. Coverdale, and are at present making arrangements to move their household effects in and open it up as a boarding house next week. We welcome them among us and trust that their success here may be unlimited.

Messrs. Guy Livingston and Fred Carruth will leave this afternoon for Ashland. Their manner of traveling would not afford as much convenience and comfort as a palace car as warm a day as this. A tandem, which is to be their vehicle of transfer, has been used for several similar trips recently.

We noticed a large crowd in pursuit of Mr. Jas. Donnelly this morning and all secured cigars before taking their departure. Upon inquiry of Mr. Donnelly, he refused to give any information but treated us in the same way by handing over a cigar. It was learned afterwards that the generosity on his part was occasioned by the appearance of a little girl visitor at his home.

Reports are afloat that in a short time a prominent couple who are each possessed of auburn tresses—a widow and widower—are to be joined in the holy bonds of wedlock. We are not yet prepared to give any further information in the matter, but when the opportune moment arrives, an article will appear giving full particulars and several words of encouragement to the ambitious couple who were once wrecked and are willing to embark on the matrimonial sea again.

The contagious fever which is raging in our midst has taken hold of eighteen more men. It has reached some of the B. & M. employes and broke out among them to that extent. They will appear on the diamond which is located on Fitz's forty this afternoon at 5 o'clock. The clerks of the mechanical department vs. the clerks of the supply department. If the base ball fever is not kept subdued for some time, the base ball grounds of the city will not be numerous enough to hold the invalids.

The editor of the Journal in the issue of that paper last night apparently, by the abusive or sarcastic article he gave publication to, wished to incite what he himself was condemning. Little has been said concerning the sheet spoken of at any time of late, and never a word of criticism appeared in this paper unless it was drawn out by provocation on their part. He untruthfully accused us of using indecent language towards them, an act which the public knows has never been indulged in by us. He is invariably throwing out slurs which he awaits to bring him an answer. For a paper that is always criticising another, the Journal floats a long way into the wrong stream, a stream which has a falls that will carry the Journal and its officious pilot where they will both take a drop to themselves. If the paper did not so decidedly misrepresent things as they happen, and would drop truthful items into its columns occasionally, there might be a foothold for it in its sarcastic criticism; but as it is, some of the untruthful statements published there should not be flung at a paper which has not interfered only when provoked to do so by a misrepresentation of its party.

A club of juvenile base ball players from Weeping Water play a game here today with a club of this city.

John Hogan and Jas. Egan, who were implicated in a stabbing affray which took place here about three weeks ago, were tried before Judge Russell yesterday. A case had been brought against them previous to this, charging them with assault with intent to kill. On the evidence received the case was dismissed, and the case which they were brought up on yesterday only charged them with assault. Hogan was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $20 in all, and Egan was dismissed as no evidence could be secured against him strong enough to convict.

The postmaster of La Platte arrived in the city this morning in pursuit of a young man, stating that he had broken into the postoffice at that place and robbed the office of about $21 in money and the value of about as much in five and ten cent stamps. After an investigation of the city he secured the young man he had been pursuing and indulged in quite a lengthy conversation with him. He gave the fellow to understand that it was his intention to have him arrested, and instead of holding him himself and sending some one in search of an officer, he left the man to take care of himself and started out to look up an officer. The man, seeing such a rare opportunity left open for him, took advantage of it as any one would under similar circumstances. When the postmaster had secured the required assistance and returned for his man, he discovered to his dissatisfaction that he had coolly broked his promise of remaining until his return, and left for parts unknown. He was not certain that the man was the guilty party, but the man apparently did not wish a trial on the matter and skipped to some secluded spot where the police are not to be found, and the pursued can rest.

Mr. G. B. Kempster, who has resided in the city a short time, has suffered considerable annoyance from burglars or night hawks who infest the city. He has formed a bad opinion of the city and was at the hardware stores this morning evidently making preparations for the next during sneak that should put in an appearance. Thursday night, while Mr. Kempster was absent from the city and his wife at home alone, a couple of men were heard at a window at the north side of the house trying to gain an entrance. The men heard Mrs. Kempster, who was aroused by the noise they made taking out the windows, moving about the room which was directly above them. They made their escape before anyone appeared on the scene. Next morning when an examination of the house was made, it was discovered that the window had been taken out and set to one side, but no further damage had been done and nothing had been taken. The same night it is supposed the same party visited the house of Capt. Palmer in his absence. The men had gained an entrance without arousing anyone. Nothing of any value was carried away by them, but they spent considerable time in the house judging by the appearance of things. They took possession of a dress suit of Mr. Palmer's and had been trying it on. It is supposed they found the suit too large for either of them and left it on the floor. After they had spent considerable time in that way, they secured what eatables they could find and had a free lunch at the front of the house outside. Judging by their style of burglarizing, they were hungry tramps and were contented with what they secured. The gentlemen propose to give their next visitors who appear at such a late hour, a lunch on bullets.

A Problem.

A correspondent sends the following arithmetical problem:

A father—not a millionaire—left at his death a number of children, and a certain sum to be divided among them as follows: The eldest to receive $100 and one-tenth the remainder; the second child $100 and one-tenth of what then remained; and so on, each child to receive $100 more than the one immediately preceding, and then one tenth part of that which still remained. When the division took place it was found that all the children received the same amount. How many children were there, and what sum did each receive?

MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB.

A CAMPAIGN SONG.
Mary had a little lamb,
Of which you've often heard,
Now to that story old,
I wish to add a word.
Mary fed that little lamb,
Till he grew stout and strong,
With many wrinkles on his nose,
And horns twelve inches long.
And in June, when it was warm,
And wool was full of grease,
Then Mary sheared her lamb,
And sold her for the fleece.
In the field behind the barn,
With a big high fence about,
There Mary put a notice up,
The notice said "Keep out."
Now when Grover came that way,
He stopped and said "Ah ha!"
The ram he stopped and stamped his foot,
And said to Grover "Ba!"
"Do you suppose that ram would butt?"
Said Grover to Carlisle.
"Give me that free trade stick of your,
I'll tease the brute a while."
Grover he made at the ram,
And struck a sudden lick,
"Great Oregon!" the fat boy cried,
"I've broke my free-trade stick."
"Pull your red bandana quick!"
The boys together shout,
"And toss it to the sheep, old boy,
And then you scamper out."
Grover swung that hammer red,
And tossed it to the ram,
Who shook his head, as if to say,
"Don't care for that—clank."
"Sheepy, sheepy, rammy, ram!"
But you cannot beguile,
An angry sheep with soothing speech,
Or civil service smile.
"Protect me, George, from Mary's lamb,
Protect me from his bump."
This was the fat boy's last prayer,
To the great and good Mangum.
Then he ran a lusty race,
Across the field he cut,
But before he reached the fence
He knew that sheep could butt. R. C. Flora, Ill.

The fats and leams are going to play ball. And are moving themselves for the fray. To see the lean men double up and the fat men fall. Will be worth double the admission you pay. If an immovable body is struck by an irresistible force, it is said that the result would be fire. If Morley, the barber, should obstruct Cushman's course, What number of hose carts would it require?

Playing a Diplomatic Game.

Prince von Blumacker likes cards, and has left it on record that he once played with a political purpose. He is said to have been at cards with the Austrian plenipotentiary, who in a few days would have to discuss with him the Schleswig-Holstein question. It was his cue to make his opponent believe that he was a rash man, and so he played wildly and staked high. The effect was that when they came to talk politics he found his opponent deeply impressed with the belief that Austria must not provoke a state having in its councils so reckless a minister.—London Telegraph.

He Was Believed.

"I've seen worse cigars than this," said Smith, as he placidly surveyed a Chicasaw, which he had just lighted.
"Well," answered Jones, who had inhaled some of the smoke, "you told me the other day that you had traveled further and seen more than I have, and I believe you, my boy, I believe you."—Boston Courier.

To Her Stepmother.
Maggie (to her stepfather, who is very popular with children)—Oh, I wish you had been here when our father papa was alive. You would have liked each other so much.—Babyhood.

Pronounced a Fraud.
The natives of Venezuela followed a wagon for nearly a week to see if the hind wheels would catch up with the front ones. As this did not occur, the vehicle was pronounced a fraud.—Detroit Free Press.

Every man's life lies within the present, for the past is spent and done with, and the future is uncertain.—Antonius.

There are heroes in every department of life—a faithful servant is one of them.—Uncle Jack.

The present year bids fair to be a disastrous one from tornadoes and wind storms. This is fore-shadowed by the number of storms we have already had—the most destructive one so far this year having occurred at Mt.
