CITY CORDIALS.

—This afternoon the clerks of the supply department and carpenters play a game of ball on "Fitz's forty." Game called at 5 o'clock. —Judge Russell, this afternoon appointed J. T. Marshall administrator of the estate of Alexander Johnson deceased, of Weeping Water precinct. —A canary bird escaped from the house of Rev. M. A. Hampton last evening. Anyone capturing the bird and delivering it to Mr. Hampton, will be conferring a great favor. —The B. & M. band will accompany the democrats on their lonely journey to the sister town, Weeping Water from here. We believe they will need them on the return trip to cheer them up. —Two boy base ball clubs played a game yesterday afternoon on "Fitz's forty." The Light Foot club succeeded in defeating the Swift club known as the Cannon Balls, by a score of 40 to 37. —The following gentlemen were installed in office at the meeting of Encampment No. 3, I. O. O. F. last night: Sol Levi, C. P.; James P. Antill, S. W.; L. Davis, J. W.; J. C. Eikenbary, H. P. —Mrs. Twiss, who went to Omaha a few days ago to have her eye doctored, had an operation performed yesterday which proved to be very painful but she has come through all right. The doctor has been successful in his treatment. —Mr. Lou Craig, a young man who was for a long time in the employ of the B. & M. here in their paint shop, is at present working in Lincoln and has gained for himself a wide reputation at that place as a first-class painter. He has secured the contract of painting all their street cars. —Mr. Geo. Boeck who was so seriously injured the other day by falling from a windmill is not expected to recover for several months if he recovers at all. Besides having two broken ribs and being injured internally he received a deep gash on the side of his head extending from his mouth to his ear. —This afternoon the Jetter & Young club, of Omaha, will meet the Plattsborough club on the base ball ground west of the city. They are reported to be a strong club and it is thought a first class game will be played. A full report of the game with a complete score will appear in the HERALD of Monday. —Great anticipations are being entertained by some of the loud democrats for their rally which is to be held at Weeping Water tonight, and it is hoped by the republicans that their success at this meeting will be a little more marked than it has been at previous meetings, in order that all their hopes may not be dashed to the ground. The Hon. J. Sterling Morton, their great orator, will be on hand and assist the would-be orators of this vicinity. The democrats here claim that the city will be deserted when their club leaves for Weeping Water, but we are sorry some of them cannot stay to see the improvement it will make. —Two ball nines consisting of engineers and firemen held down the diamond on the old fair ground yesterday afternoon. Judging by the score and the number of excellent plays, it proved to be the event of the season. The hard hitting and the sly base stealing on both sides was what swelled the score. The two nines, with Messrs. Rogers and Dill as captains, were efficiently managed, and they deserve great credit for their work. The only man who raised objections to the game in any way was Mr. Curtis, who complained of a sore arm and a severe headache before the game was finished. The score stood 34 to 35 in favor of Rogers' nine at the end of the third inning when the game was called on account of darkness. —Messrs. Claus Brekenfeld and George Weidman have purchased the hardware business of Mr. J. R. Cox and will take possession about the first of next month. Mr. Cox, we are sorry to learn, has made up his mind to leave the city, and it is his intention to go to Denver, shortly. We are sorry to lose such a valuable citizen as Mr. Cox, but we wish him and his family every success in their future home. With his prosperity while here, he has assisted the city to a considerable extent, and has always gained for himself among the Plattsborough people an honorable reputation. When they leave the city, we extend to them our best wishes and also in behalf of many of the citizens, a fond farewell. Messrs. Brekenfeld and Weidman, who are to be the new firm, are both good business men, and the old customers

The Milk in the Cocoon.

The following article from Fred Nye is commended to all working men who have an interest in the future of the laboring classes of America. It contains the proposition, the argument and the logical conclusion, final and irrefutable, upon the great question submitted to the people of the United States. With not a theory, but the actual condition of the people of Great Britain, under the industrial system, which the doctrinaires of the free trade party and their English preceptors, insist upon introducing in this country placed before us can there be a question as to the proper cause of the workingman of America? Can it be possible that he would, by any possibility of an experiment, entail the hard lot of his English brother upon the generations yet to come in this country? Does he want his children to sink to the social level of the English slave? If he does, the democratic party stands ready to lead the way and rivet the chains upon their limbs. Mr. Nye's article is especially commended to our neighbors who are thinking of experimenting by a change from the present industrial system to another. To our way of thinking it is the strongest presentation of the present question that can be made and from the force of which, there is no escape:

ENGLAND.

Across the water is starving, misgoverned England: She is the "mother" country who never had a child that she did not attempt to work to death. Ireland, America, India, Scotland—the system has always been the same. England has given birth to many great men. One of them was Charles Dickens, who wrote an immortal book called "Oliver Twist." In that story we read of a man of the name of Fagin—a thief of the tyrannical sort, who levied outrageous tribute upon the labor and character of everything innocent that came under his malevolent influence. Unconsciously Charles Dickens, in the character of Fagin, personalized his country. Great Britain has been the Fagin of nations for several centuries. She has lived upon plunder. At home she has nursed aristocracy and starved poverty. She forced Warren Hastings and his system of brigandage upon India, upon China, free trade and destitution upon Ireland. With her naval and military might she sought to subject the American colonies—to impose upon them the policy of "taxation without representation." The colonies threw all the strength of their life against her and conquered. But England has never forgotten. When we were fighting against rebellion, she helped the rebels. When we were sacrificing everything to free the slave, she reached out a friendly hand to the master and overseer. She has always been against us—against liberty. She has always had one cardinal principle—"the extremity of other nations is the opportunity of England."

Fagin lived a wretched life and died a horrible and ignominious death. His policy was wrong. It was a constant denial of the rights of man and the commands of God. He could not prosper. The greater the energy of iniquity the more complete the ruin. The country which Fagin personified has been equally unsuccessful. It has had temporary periods of fortune, such as Fagin had when little Oliver and his companions were lucky in their enforced labor of pillage—but the irresistible tendency has been toward a miserable end.

Over one million of the inhabitants of the United Kingdom are paupers. In London one in every five of the population dies a pauper.

In continental Europe there are 3,275,000 paupers, with a population of 187,000,000 in the United Kingdom there are 1,071,000 paupers with a population of 35,000,000. There are 30.6 paupers in England to every 1,000 people, in continental Europe there are 12.5 paupers to every 1,000 people.

In London 60,000 families each occupy one room. In England 500,000 persons, or one-eighth of the entire population, belong to the semi-pauper class.

One-fifth of the deaths of London occur in workhouses and hospitals. In the east end of London one-fifth of the children go to school without breakfast.

In Birmingham 100,000 of the 400,000 people live in the back courts. Two-thirds of the people of Scotland live each family in one room and 80,000 of the people of Edinburgh live a family to a room. In Glasgow 41,000 out of every 100,000 live in one-room houses.

To this condition has the national Fagin come. Free trade and other cruelties at home have impoverished her laborers and the tribute levied upon unfortunate dependencies abroad has been wasted. Blood money is accursed. Thrift and brigandage never travel together.

So, destitute, desperate, and with her criminal greed intensified by habit and extremity, is England across the water, waiting for the election of Cleveland—waiting for the passage of the Mills bill—waiting to rob again—waiting to pit her slaves against our free workmen—waiting to fight our prosperity with her pauperism—waiting to hear from her agents who, scarcely less iniquitous than those who years ago tempted the Mongolian with the deadly poison of opium—

Campbell, Miss Hanna Cagney, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Kempster, Miss Lulu Burgess.

—Wonder what the democrats took the band with them for since there has been no music set to the red bandanna and it would never do for them to play the "Star Spangled Banner?" The only music we heard before they took their departure was something after the style of Dixie and a few funeral marches.

—Sherman of the Plattsborough Journal has been styled the editor of the rebel sheet. A short time since he published in his paper the following lines:

BAD BLOOD.

There is not one thing that puts a man or woman at such disadvantage before the world as a vitiated state of the blood. Your ambition is gone. Your courage has failed. Your vitality has left you. Your languid step and listless actions show that you need a powerful invigorator, one bottle of Beggs' Blood Purifier and Blood Maker will put new life in a worn out system, and if it does not it will cost you nothing.
