CITY CORDIALS.

Council meets tonight.

There are but few candidates who will gather at the river that flows by the throne of God.

The hollow at the foot of Sixth street hill is being filled up with the surplus dirt which is carried from Main street.

Over fifty men are now employed in grading the streets, and from present indications the work will be completed in a very short time.

The ladies aid society of the M. E. church, will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. A. N. Sullivan, corner 11th and Rock streets.

The Y. L. R. R. A. will give a social at G. A. R. hall, Tuesday Oct. 9. As this will be the last social before closing the room, they will be glad to see all their friends and patrons.

Good butter in the Plattsmouth market at present is far more rare than the gold to purchase it. A butter mine here would yield a rich return. Not one pound could be purchased last Saturday for love or money.

The ladies of the city meet tonight at the rooms corner Main and 4th, opposite post office. The object of the meeting, we understand, is to have all the ladies meet and see what can be done to provide a place of resort for the young men of the city. Every mother, daughter, and sister, of the young men of Plattsmouth should be present.

Mr. J. C. Crawford, an old citizen of Plattsmouth who is now residing at Arcata, California, writes to the Herald, remitting $10 for same. He adds the following few lines of encouragement concerning one of the doubtful states: "Politics beginning to warm up on this coast, California is all right for Harrison and Protection."

Mr. M. D. Polk entertained his supporters of the county convention by an oyster supper on their return from Louisville Saturday night. The supper was served by Mine-host Riddle, of the Riddle house, in his usual first-class style. It is needless to say that a jubilant time was had and the brain food partaken of recruited their much exhausted abilities.

The Hon. J. Sterling Morton, nominee for congress on the democratic ticket, will speak in the Waterman opera house Wednesday night next. As he is the king bee in the Nebraska democratic swarm, there is no doubt but that a large audience will greet him. He will be the only prominent speaker on the platform, and he will occupy about two hours in explaining how they are to overcome the great difficulties now before them.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Nehawka bank, of Nehawka, Neb., which was held on Tuesday, Oct. 2nd, the following gentlemen were appointed directors: Isaac Pollard, Lawson Sheldon, Geo. W. Young, C. H. Parmele, A. P. Weston, S. M. Kirkpatrick, Jas. E. Banning, L. C. Pollard, Andrew Storm. The above directors then appointed the following officers: C. H. Parmele, president; L. C. Pollard, vice-president; C. C. Parmele, cashier.

Messrs. Louis Kohrell and Singer sewing machine agent, Bradt, are in a deplorable condition today. Kohrell is obliged to carry a cane to assist an injured limb, while Bradt has been unable to put in an appearance on the streets at all. Their misfortune was caused by the tipping over of the furniture wagon of Mr. Boeck. They had delivered some furniture to the home of Mr. Bradt, Fifth street, at the rear of the Bonner stables, and they were in the act of turning the wagon around, when it upset with them. Bradt was struck on the head and received several severe wounds, losing part of his hair, while Kohrell had his left leg badly bruised. The horses were checked before they could get away. The accident occurred Saturday afternoon.

The Leap year reinforcements so long held in a secluded locality are about to come upon us in full force and a general outbreak is feared. It is reported the young ladies are about to hold another ball on the evening of the 19th in Fitzgerald's hall. Invitations will be extended in the usual leap year style, and the affair will be strictly private, no lady and gentleman being admitted at the door unless an invitation is shown. The ball will be given in honor of the young lady visitors now in the city. Over sixty invitations will be given. Several young men, since this year is drawing to a close, have become despondent, but when the news reaches them that the young ladies are still in the field, they will, no doubt, brighten up, and by indications within

A Lincoln newspaper man was yesterday asked to read a printed article and give an opinion as to its merits. He read it and denounced it as the worst piece of rot he had read for months, and wondered if the idiot who wrote it was still at large. When he heaped upon it all the contumely he had with him, the man who gave him the article whispered something to him, and the Lincoln newspaper man looked as though he were offered for sale at a junk shop. He stammered and laughed convulsively, and kicked himself real hard. The Lincoln newspaper man had written the article himself a few months ago.—Lincoln Journal.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Realizing that the work our association has carried on for the past four years can more fully and more satisfactorily be continued should we unite our efforts with those of the Y. M. C. A., we have decided to close our reading room Oct. 12, and transfer our reading material, furniture, etc., to the reading room of the Y. M. C. A., in the new Anheuser-Busch building, corner Main and Fourth streets. This room will still be open to the general public, ladies included, for the purpose of exchanging books, one afternoon of each week, (afternoon to be hereafter designated), and all library tickets now out will be honored at the Y. M. C. A. room until the expiration of the time for which they were given.

We expect to continue our organization as heretofore, with the aim in view of adding to the circulating library as our means will permit.

We trust most sincerely that the many who have shown us such kindness will feel the same or greater interest in this new work, which we feel will accomplish much more good than we would have been able to do.

HIS WAY. Love came to the door of the palace, And the door was opened wide; There wasn't a thing to hinder, And they needed him much inside: But he rath'ed his quiver, and said with a sigh, "Can I enter an open door? Not I! Not I!"

Love came to the castle window, And he found a great broad stair; There wasn't a thing to hinder, And he might have mounted there; But he flattered his wings, and said with a sigh, "Can't I p'od up a staircase? No, not I! Not I!"

Love came to the shore of the ocean, And saw far over the strand An inaccessible fortress On a sea-girt island stand. "Who cares for an ocean?" he joyfully cried, And his rainbow wings were quickly plied: "Not I! Not I!"

Love came to a lonely dunceoon, Where window and door were barred; There was none who would give him entrance, Though he knocked there long and hard. Then "Who cares for a bolt?" said the saucy elf, And straightway the warden was Love himself: "Not I! Not I!" —Eva L. Ogden.

Chinese as Opium Smugglers. Who do I think are the most successful smugglers? The sleek faced, moon eyed Celestials, most emphatically. There is no portion of a vessel or its cargo sacred or safe from the manipulations of the rascals. They have the deadly drug planted in their boots, in the cork soles of their clothing, packed in their shoes, in their shoes, and tucked away in the soft, clinging folds of their silk handkerchiefs. They have false bottoms and sides to their camphor wood trunks, false bottoms to their cooking utensils, and they are false all the way through. They will construct material to resemble coal, fill the interior with opium and place it in the coal bunkers until all suspicion is allayed and the steamer discharged; they construct tin boxes to fit around masts and cover their deception with false mast coats well calculated to deceive the inexperienced eye of a landman. They will store it
