MAJOR MCKINLEY'S ten-dollar suit has been matched in the following advertisement in the Washington Post: 'We invite the Congress of the United States—'including the House and Senate—'and their constituents, comprising the entire population of America, to our exhibit of the best chevots of American make, converted by American free labor into sack and frock suits, (better made and better fitting than any London-made clothes that we have ever seen.)

PROTECT AMERICAN INTERESTS.

If the people of the United States should adopt the free trade idea—should conclude to purchase abroad everything they consume that can be purchased cheaper than at home, is it not plain that two-thirds of our people would have no employment and, therefore, no money wherewith to purchase supplies.

The people of the United States, like the people of all civilized nations, are compelled to contribute to the support of government, and all the male inhabitants of military age are under obligation to risk their lives in defense of that government in the event of war.

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or consumption.

Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself. The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and clear of all obstructions and offensive matter.

Catching Monkeys with Beer. At Darfur, in Africa, the monkeys are said to be so inordinately fond of a kind of beer made by the natives that the beverage is used by treacherous men as a means of capturing their unsuspecting relatives.

PERFECTED.

Touch her still heart, It is so peaceful now, we will not weep, but part. The waves of gold above her face, And long her bright hair down her face.

"THE BITER BIT."

Maj De Laney was sitting at his club in Charles street smoking. He was, for the time being, alone, and not only was his face serious, but he was drawing at his cigar with a certain fierceness which denoted anger and annoyance.

"He would not return to it?" "No, and never will; he changed the notes and started for another country, wherein to begin a new life it is the clearest trick I have ever heard of."

"The major must not go; the money was actually in his office, he would make it twice the sum, if he desired it, upon his note of hand only. He should be so sorry not to do business with him in consequence of such an unpleasant mistake."

"I wish it were with me," sighed Vane. "Come, dine with me, and to-morrow we will go north; let us both forget our troubles."

It was actually dark when Maj De Laney's dog cart turned into the gateway of his pretty little place.

Charles Vane extended his hand and grasped that of his friend. "Major, you're a brick," he said with feeling. "I'll try to be a better fellow, if only to gain your good opinion."

Charles Vane was crossing the lawn, and his footsteps gave back no sound. He broke into a hearty laugh, and there was a suppressed chuckle from the direction of the horse's head.

Charles Vane was a long time making Rose forgive him for what was after all no fault of his, but he could not forget the touch of her ripe lips nor the pressure of her rounded arms.
