OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

A. Salisbury, Dentist, Rockwood Building, Telephone No. 35. Dr. Higgins, Office in Gerling's Drug Store, Residence Cor. Sixth and Granite, Telephone No. 42. Dr. Withers, the Painless Dentist, Union Block, over Fricke's Drug Store, Plattsmouth.

CITY CORDIALS.

The noble dust kickers, who have had a reason to kick for some time on account of dusty streets, can now take a rest.

The St. Lukes Guild sewing society will hold their next meeting Thursday evening, Oct. 11th, at the home of Mrs. Eaton.

Merchants of this city complain of the scarcity of flour of late. All grades have advanced about $1.00 per hundred within the last ten days.

The frost must surely have chased the flies of the country to Plattsmouth for they are indulging in a regular picnic before it calls them away.

The Hon. J. Sterling Morton, the democratic slippery talker of the state, will entertain his most intimate friends at the opera house tonight.

All parties wishing to attend the rally at Omaha tomorrow night are requested to leave their names at the jewelry store of Mr. Frank Carruth.

Mrs. J. H. Young was very agreeably surprised by a large number of her friends at her home on south Sixth street last night, yesterday being her birthday.

There's whiskers on the joke a reporter invariably receives in this town after a rain, when on the search for news items: "It rained last night," or "It's a wet morning."

On our editorial page we publish a statement from James F. McGuigle, Captain of Co. A., 9th Mass. Vols., of which company Patrick Ford, editor of the Irish World, was a member.

Mr. M. D. Polk goes to Omaha tomorrow morning to make arrangements for accommodation and transportation for those here who wish to attend the rally at Omaha tomorrow night.

O. P. Smith & Co. are about to insert an ad. in this paper offering all parties who purchase five dollars worth of goods during the sixty days following, a chance on a fine house and lot, located in this city. Every five dollars worth sold, entitles the purchaser to a chance.

It is hoped that the hoodlums usually in the gallery disturbing the entire audience will have presence of mind enough and keep quiet during the performance at the opera house tomorrow night, and keep their seats at the close until the curtain drops, and not rush down stairs five minutes before the play is over.

Mr. J. P. Young has fitted up the handsome window in the city and has exhibited good taste in so neatly arranging the selection from his first-class stock. He has already received a good stock of holiday goods and there is a still larger lot of goods on the road. He has as fine a display of albums as we have seen in the city.

The social given by the Y. L. R. R. A. last night was largely attended notwithstanding the threatening of the elements. Nearly, if not all the members of the association were present. A very pleasant evening was spent in the usual cheerful way. This social is the last entertainment they intend giving for some time, as they have partially retired from the work and given it into the hands of the Y. M. C. A.

An urchin was seen the other day slyly attaching himself to an oyster can in a lot placed in front of a grocery as an advertisement. When the proper time came and he thought his way was clear, he moved swiftly away with the can lid behind him. He found it much lighter than he had expected and making an examination was much disappointed to find that the end which had been hidden in the box was cut out and the can empty. The boy locked sick.

The silk stocking democracy will be out tonight in full force, while J. Sterling, the chief of the silks, will entertain them with theatrical stories on the beauties of English free-trade. The rank and file will be expected to listen to the old story about tin plate, plate glass and steel rail industries that have made paupers of us all. The cobdennite will tell you that the market which consumes over nine-tenths of our products has nothing to do with fixing the price of the same, but on the contrary, that Liverpool, which doesn't handle the one-hundredth part of our product, is the market that makes all our prices, this may seem unreasonable but you have to swallow it in order to get free trade in all its pristine beauty. Workingmen who think for themselves will probably not be affected by the avalanche of English chestnuts that will be thrown at them tonight. The practical effect of home markets and home industries is too widely known for visionary theorists to make any headway towards upsetting protective tariff ideas among sensible men.

WHEREAS, By the removal thereof large excavations are required to be filled at a large expense, therefore we, the mayor and council of said city of Plattsmouth, do respectfully petition your honorable body to appropriate the sum of not less than $3,000 to aid in said filling, in consideration of the construction of said sewerage and lessening the expense permanently of the county and to that part of the work for the repair of which the county is liable. And we will forever pray."

W. K. Fox, F. M. RIGHEY, City Clerk, Mayor.

After which the board ordered that the prayer of the petition be granted and the clerk ordered to draw warrant for $1,000 and balance as the work progresses.

Resolutions of Respect. To the Commander and Comrades of the Conkist Post No. 45, G. A. R.:—The committee instructed to report resolutions upon the death of Comrade Livingston, beg leave to report the following:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Great Commander of the Universe to call from our midst our beloved comrade, General Robert R. Livingston, in the prime of his matured manhood, it is with heads bowed to the Divine Will and with sorrowing hearts that the comrades of Conkist Post mourn the loss of a comrade and fellow citizen whose heart and hand ever responded to the demands of the Grand Army of the Republic, his comrades, their widows and orphans, and in tribute to his memory we with one accord bear testimony to his blameless and upright life and his death is a loss to the nation, the state, the community in which he resided for so many years and the Grand Army of the Republic of which he was a worthy and influential member. He was a brave, kind and influential citizen and an ornament to his profession at whose head he stood as a surgeon and physician. He was a patriot who had proved his devotion to his country on the field of battle and whose voice was always heard in support of the policy of the nations care for the disabled defenders. Therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of Comrad Livingston, this post has lost a worthy comrade and this community its first citizen and his family a kind and indulgent husband and father, and that the members of this post while they extend their heartfelt sympathy to his widow and children, pledge their support as comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Allen Beeson the Right Man. KEARNEY, Neb., Oct. 8, 1888.

DEAR EDITOR:—In reading the proceedings of the Cass County Republican Convention in yesterday's Bee, I noticed that Allen Beeson, of Plattsmouth, was re-nominated for county attorney and the nomination means that the people of "Old Cass" will do their duty by electing him for a second term. If all the voters of Cass county had the opportunity of knowing him as I knew him while I was a student in his office, his candidacy would meet with but little opposition. Should like to be able to cast a vote in Cass county for him and friend Polk, but will have to content myself with a vote for Harrison and Morton.

Yours Truly, CHAS. L. GRAVES.

A. O. U. W. There will be a reunion of the A. O. U. W. held in Omaha on October 12, and all members and their families are cordially invited to attend. Delegations from all the A. O. U. W. lodges are expected to be present, and preparations for a grand time have been made.

The lean men who won the game played between the fats and leans, have spared themselves since the game to such an extent in making preparations for the grand banquet which the fat players promised to give them, that their case has become chronic. The longer they are pushed aside, the more it will cost the people who are to bear the expense of feeding them. They are anxiously waiting for a look at the table, and until they succeed in getting a squint at the "promised land," contentment will be absent from their breasts. The fats should fulfill their promise and put an end to a long felt want. Some of the spare-ribs have signified their intention of securing the company of their lady friends to help them out, but we learn that the fats will not agree to the proposition, as the desert rattlers alone can get outside of whatever is put before them.

Dr. J. H. Emmons, a prominent homoeopathist, of Cameron, Mo., is in the city making preparations to locate here. He has selected for his residence, a house belonging to Mr. Schildknecht, situated on 9th street, between Granite and Marble, but he has not yet found a suitable office. He is a brother-in-law of Mr. B. Spurlock, of this city.
