CITY CORDIALS.

—If you wish to reap the benefit now and restore your eyesight, with the most brilliant glasses in existence, call without delay at Riddle house before Prof. Strassman's departure. 3t

—Mr. Irvin, an old man about 80 years of age, who resides about 14 miles south of the city, came in today to attend the rally. He is a veteran of 1840, who supported Harrison.

—Mr. W. G. Keefer received a telephone message from a reliable source in Wahoo that over two hundred republicans would take advantage of the excursion to this city and attend the rally here tonight. The train arrives here about 2:40 o'clock.

—All 1840 veterans who voted for Harrison are requested to be at the opera house tonight and take a seat on the speaker's platform. Through negligence, previous invitations have been overlooked, but we hope the majority of the old veterans may receive this invitation in time, and that they will make a good showing.

—The ball and supper given by the young ladies of the Catholic church at Fitzgerald's hall last night proved to be a success, both socially and financially. The floor was crowded, there only being room enough to dance. Oysters were served to all parties desiring them. The ladies realized over $75.

—The brethren and sisters of the colored church here have rented the vacant storeroom adjoining "Joe's" clothing store where they will serve meals today and tonight. The object of this is to obtain money to assist them in paying for their new church. They have had subscription papers in circulation several times, but have not yet succeeded in securing the required amount; but since they are so enthusiastic in their good work they should be assisted by the citizens as much as possible.

—The Young Men's Christian Association will hold a meeting in the new rooms corner 4th and Main for men only, led by Mr. John M. Hazelton of Omaha. The ladies are pushing the furnishing of the rooms, and some time next week the place will be ready for the use of the young men of the city where can be found at all times, all the leading papers and magazines of the day (HERALD included) we have been waiting patiently for this enterprise, but it looks now as if it will soon be realized.

—Not more than a thousand miles from this city of hills dwells a judge who has worked miracles during the period of his judicial life. A case was brought up before his honor by a company against a man who had signed a couple of notes for indebtedness. The man was under the impression that he had no case, but was persuaded by an attorney here to contend it. The appeal was brought up before his honor but through dislike which the official had cultivated for the company the law was not considered in the case and he decided it in favor of plaintiff. For fear the case would be brought into a court of law and justice the plaintiff voluntarily handed the money over to the company's attorney the other day.

—All parties living along the line of march are requested to decorate their residences and windows today, as the club is desirous of making a good showing. Transparencies and lanterns can be purchased for a very moderate price and those would make as complete illuminations as could be secured. We would like to see every republican express an interest in the success of their party in this way. The following line of march will be observed: Forming on Vine street, right on 6th, headed by B. & M. band, will march north on 6th to Locust, west on Locust to 9th, south on 9th to Washington avenue, east on avenue to 7th, south on 7th to Main, west on Main to 10th, south on 10th to Pearl, east on Pearl to 9th, south on 9th to Chicago avenue, thence east on avenue to Granite, thence on Granite to 6th, thence north on 6th to Main east on Main to the opera house. J. C. ECKENBARY, Chief Marshal.

—What's the matter with Waterman's whistle? It's all right.

—The Wahoo and Ashland special arrived as we go to press.

—Every republican must remember to decorate and illuminate tonight. Paint things red.

—Oliver & Range's are building a new sidewalk in front of their meat market on Main street.

—The opera house has been decorated in fine style for the rally tonight. It now presents a very handsome appearance.

—The Young Ladies' Republican friends by a supper tonight to be given in the new Anheuser Busch building.

—A whistle has been invented and a large number have been sold already in use for tonight, which will answer the question "What's the matter with Harrison?" "He's all right."

—Mr. Tom Patterson, who received serious injuries to his ankle in the Grand Island-Plattsmouth game last week, has come out today on crutches to watch his nine match the Wahoo club.

—The base ball team from Wahoo did not arrive until the excursion came in. They play the Plattsmouth team on the ball grounds west of the city. A good game is expected. The visitors defeated the home team in a game some time ago.

—The "Two Cronies," one of the greatest comedies now on the boards, will be played at the opera house on Monday night next. The company is about twenty-five strong and first-class in every respect. Go this time and afford some encouragement to good companies.

—The democratic county convention is being held at Rockwood hall today. The following nominations were made: For representative, Hon. F. E. White, of Plattsmouth, and Mr. J. H. Marquette, of Avoca; Mr. J. C. Gilmore, senator; Mr. Mat Gering, county attorney; Mr. W. D. Jonce, county commissioner. The above gentlemen were nominated by acclamation.

—Mr. Joe Fairfield, of Sidney, Cheyenne, Co., at one time editor of the Morning Mail here, is in the city and will remain for a few days. He was accompanied by his brother, Mack and Mr. F. W. Hughes. Mr. Fairfield gives us the encouragement that Cheyenne will go about 200 strong for Harrison. Two years ago that county returned a large democratic majority.

—Dispatches have been received here today stating that large delegations from Lincoln, Wahoo, Ashland, Glenwood, Weeping Water, Cedar Creek and Greenwood would surely be present to participate in the grand rally here tonight. Word was received from Glenwood that over one hundred ladies would accompany the young men's club, and about fifty are expected from Wahoo. Other ladies clubs are also expected. Several bands are expected to accompany the clubs.

—Mr. John Geger, a delegate from Wahoo to the democratic convention held here today, has become so insane that it was necessary for the authorities to take him in charge. The cause of his insanity is said to be caused by a strain on his mind occasioned by over-reading and too much study. He is said to remember all he reads, and is well posted on every political subject. He was in the act of mailing credentials which he had charge, to Washington, when he was stopped. His whole ambition is to run for the state senatorship.

PERSONALS.

Gov. Thayer, of Lincoln, is in the city.

Mr. John Burke, of Omaha, is in the city today.

Mr. O. Tefft, a prominent politician of Avoca precinct, is in the city.

Mr. J. Callen, traveling correspondent of the Omaha World, is in the city today.

Mr. Frank Dickson, who is now residing at Elmwood, came to the city today to attend the rally.

Cap. Hill, candidate for state treasurer on the republican ticket, came to the city today to attend the rally.

Mr. Richard Rivett, wife and child, formally of this place but now of Lincoln, arrived in the city today.

Mr. J. C. Eikenbary, accompanied by his wife and Mrs. S. A. Davis, drove to Nehawka yesterday to visit friends. A very pleasant time was had.

Mrs. Wm. Hayes and daughter, Miss Mabel, who have been visiting with relatives in Illinois for some time, returned home this morning.

Pay Car Week

will be a great week at the American Tea Co.'s store in the Sherwood block. The manager will have a big Coffee Roast every day and 1,000 hand-painted china plates will be given as presents; already the company's choice brands of Teas and Coffees are bringing them a big trade in Plattsmouth.

FOR SALE.—A good span of matched ponies for sale, they are a number one buggy team. Enquire at this office. 1f Immense.

The laughter-loving part of the community owe a debt of gratitude to Manager Koogh, of the Academy of Music, that they cannot easily pay. The "Two Old Cronies" will linger long and pleasantly in the memories of the people of Charleston. Many musical and comical comedies have been given at the Academy but it is safe to say that nothing like the "Two Old Cronies" has ever been seen here. The play is "immense," so to speak, and the players are not to be surpassed in the line of their work. The audience last night was worthy of the occasion. A more delighted or better pleased audience has seldom been gathered within the walls of the Academy. The "Two Old Cronies" may always count on a hearty welcome to Charleston.—Charleston News and Courier.

The Colored Gentleman's Reason

"Say, Uncle Sambo, is it so that you have decided to vote for the democratic candidate?"

"Yes, sah; I has."

"For what reason? Have you changed your opinion on the tariff question?"

"No, boss, de tariff question don't figger in dis yer campaign. De fact is, er, de democratic candydate has de bigges' chicken roost in de country."

Torches for Tonight.

All republicans are requested to meet at the Wheeler block tonight at 7 o'clock and secure torches for the procession. There is an ample supply there for all and it is hoped that every republican of this city will turn out tonight, and contribute to the success. There is no doubt but that there will be the largest crowd here ever seen in Plattsmouth.

Notice to Republicans.

All republicans living on streets in which the procession will pass, are requested to decorate and illuminate their houses. All are earnestly requested to make a good showing.

WHAT ON EARTH

Is the reason people will not, can not, or do not see any difference in cheap nostrums put up by Cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at equal price? SURPRISED FENCER.

The Lesson Taught a Young American Swordsman—Disarmed.

A young bank clerk in Albany is wiser than he was a year ago. In the bank where he was a clerk a new man was given a somewhat inferior position. The newcomer was a small, slight framed Frenchman, whose English was decidedly lame, but who so seldom spoke that it made little difference. The senior clerk had a decided penchant for fencing, and compared with most fellows of his age and position was unquestionably a good swordsman. In addition to this he was a most insufferable braggart, and his military accomplishment was his one topic of thought and conversation. He had about him a very patronizing air, which he proceeded to inflict upon the inoffensive Frenchman, and his familiar slaps on the back evidently displeased the stranger. Finally a particularly emphatic thump between the little Frenchman's shoulders produced as response a stinging slap in the face, which left the red mark of a small hand sharply prominent against the otherwise deathly pale face of the young American.

Speechless with rage, the young man found his desk, and shortly afterward, through a friend, challenged the Frenchman to mortal combat. The latter apologized, in fact did all in his power to undo the mischief of his hasty blow, in vain. "Nothing but blood can wipe out that insult," the young man said haughtily. The details were arranged, the Frenchman, as the challenged party, choosing rapiers. Greatly to the surprise of the hot blooded young challenger, the cashier of the bank, who knew the Frenchman well, acted as the latter's second. The day came and the hour. The principals stepped to position, saluted, and the blue blades crossed with that smooth, gliding sound which is music to the ear of the true swordsman. The Frenchman, whose familiarity with his weapon was evident at the start, confined himself at first, entirely to defense, turning his opponent's point with a grace of movement and absence of fear or nervousness which were poetry in action. The young man grew bolder, his thrusts began to have an air of ferocity which seemed to anger the Frenchman a trifle, and turning aside his opponent's thrust he made a quick lunge, and the young American barely parried.

Another quick thrust and a turn of the wrist were too much for him; there was a sharp snap and the top button of his coat flew across the room. Angry at this evident trifling, the button's owner made a spiteful lunge, which was quickly parried and the next button was snapped away. One after another the shining buttons on his natty blue braided jacket were cut off by the Frenchman's ready point. Decidedly "rattled" at his opponent's skill and the irrepressible smiles of the seconds and surgeon, the young clerk now, with greater rapidity and less caution, made fierce lunges, any one of which would have driven the sharp rapier through the body of the cool Frenchman, while the little man, quietly parrying, with the sharp point of his weapon stripped the front of the young man's jacket to ribbons.

The contest had lasted some twenty minutes when suddenly the Frenchman caught the swiftly advancing point of his opponent, turned it aside, slipped his own sword quickly down along the other's blade, turning it with a quick wrist motion so that it partly wound around it, and with a sharp wrenching motion tore the weapon away and sent it flying across the floor. Then he saluted, threw his weapon down and left the room. It subsequently transpired that the foreigner was—and is—a member of a once famous French family, a captain in the French army, and his teachers have been some of the best swordsmen in France. The young American has not challenged any miscellaneous foreigners since, and is less inclined to talk of his experience or skill. —Albany Journal.

A Crater in Full Blast.

Walking down Tremont street not long ago with a friend we turned into a shop, attracted by the fact that in gold hair pins temptingly displayed. As we stood in blissful contemplation of this golden fruit, forbidden us by the shallowness of our pockets, the spell was broken by some subtle attraction about a woman who was on the point of leaving. Half unconsciously I looked up, but what I beheld restored me fully to realization of the ridiculous. In a stage whisper I mentioned to my friend that she would miss the sight of the season if she did not look around. Whereupon she turned, and turned again, for one glance at the creature of fashion—who, as I supposed, had adjusted a miniature Mount Vesuvius to the rear of her head, out of which streamed great curls of lava—destroyed all the equilibrium of risibles in my friend's possession.

"Seriously," I said, "what has she on?" "Any one would know you had been out of town," was the reply; "did you come in on a hay wagon that you do not know hair done a la Medicil?" "I knew before your burst of information that I had met a jay," was my stern answer, "and I trust the last of that species." But these girls! I presume you are doing it, or will, so why waste words? We moved back to the counter behind which stood the clerk convulsed with inward laughter, that would come out when he caught sight of our grinning countenances. The result was that we tried our merriest, as the whole affair had been irresistible. The hair was a streaky yellow, twisted into a projectile below the crown of the head. At the extreme outer end of this protuberance were fastened what the romanticist would term "a cluster of ringlets," but in my dull, material way I should pronounce false curls of precisely a lava tint. Consequently my first thought was of a crater in full blast.—Boston Cor. Chicago Times.

Looking Ten Years Older.

"There, you look ten years older now," said a dowdy looking barber as he released a man from the meshes of a towel and yelled, "Brush!" To the customer who followed he said: "That was a young fellow who has just started in business here as a doctor. He looked too young, and to get patients he had to grow old in the barber's chair. Can we age a man? Well, I would say that it is a part of our trade. Let me take you in hand and dress your hair and beard my way for a month and you'll look a middle aged man. It's all in the appearance. People won't trust a young doctor if he looks too young, and I am adding years to the appearance of half a dozen young physicians now. Have a shampoo!"—Chicago Herald.
