ficient to fill this sheet. And yet there are democratic organs which persist in the cry that the tariff is a tax, and that the poor workingman is somehow robbed by the duties imposed on cotton, tools, nails and glassware -N. Y. Tribune.

THOSE FRIGHTFUL TAXES. How many voters realize what the proective system has done for them ? Democratic newspapers are careful not to make known the facts, which are nevertheless abundently established by official records. For example, let the census report on wages testify as follows : A cotton spinner at Cohoes earned $1 in 1860, the last year of a Democratic tariff, and the wholesale price of print cloths was then 5.37 cents. The same spinster earned in the same works $1,75 in 1880, and the price of print cloths was 3,87 cents. A day's work under Democracy would buy 18 yards, under Republicanism 46 yards.

A carpenter earned $1,50 in 1860, the last year of a Democratic tariff and paid $3. for a hand-saw, He carned $2. in 1880, and paid $1. for a better hand-saw. Under Democracy his saw cost him two days' labor, under Republicanism half a day's labor.

A blacksmith earned $1.071 in 1860, the last year of a Democratic tariff, and paid $3.25 per 100 pounds for nails. He carned $1.80 in 1880, and paid in the same market $2. per 100 pounds for nails, Under Democracy his day's work earned 31 pounds, and under Republicanism 90 pounds of nails.

HIS WAY.

Love came to the door of the palace, And the door was opened wide; There wasn't a thing to hinder, And they needed him much inside: But he rattled his quiver, and said with a sigh, "Caa I enter an open door? Not I: Not I! Not I!

Love came to the castle window, And he found a great broad stair; There wasn't a thing to hinder, And he might have mounted there: But he fluttered his wings, and said with a sigh, Can I plod up a staircase? No, not I! Not II Not I!"

Love came to the shore of the ocean, And saw far over the strand An inaccessible fortress On a sea girt island stand. "Who cares for an ocean?" he gayly cried, And his rainbow wings were quickly plied: "Not I1 Not I!"

Love came to a lonely dungeon, Where window and door were barred; There was none who would give him entrance; Though he knocked there long and hard. Then "Who cares for a bolt?" said the saucy elf, And straightway the warder was Love himself! "Not 1 Not I!" -Eva L. Ogden.

Chinese as Opium Smugglers. Who do I think are the most successful lers? The sleek faced. Celestials, most emphatically. There is no portion of a vessel or its cargo sacred or safe from the manipulations of the or safe from the manipulations of the rascals. They have the deadly drug plaited in their queues, quilted in their clothing, packed in the cork soles of their shoes, and tucked away in the soft, cling-ing folds of their silk handkerchiefs. They have false bottoms and sides to their camphor wood trunks, false bottoms to their cooking utensils, and they are false all the way through. They will construct all the way through. They will construct material to resemble coal, fill the interior with opium and place it in the coal bunkers until all suspicion is allayed and the steamer discharged; they construct tin boxes to fit around masts and cover their deception with false mast coats well calculated to deceive the inexperienced eve of a landsman. They will store it away in boxes of tea, cover it up with preserved ginger, and have it they will, despite all efforts to suppress the prac-tice.—New York Star. an' as we had orders to ran 'em out so's the fellers in the main body, on t'other side, could have a lick at 'em an' maybe make 'em s'render, an', as Giner'l Floyd said, "save ourselves waste o' human blood "

W'en we got to that plat I tole the boys to sorter siperate an' keep a sharp look-out, au' w'en the firin' got hot to inke to the logs an' trees. Hke I'd hearn Ginerl Floyd say he allers done.

I crep along up to'rds the bend tell all of a sudden I spied the gyard. That he sot on the bank, an' I couldn't nee 'is han's fur the bushes, so's to tell whather he had a gun or a bow 'n arrer, but I jest knowed he had a gun.

Thinkin' o' the gun made me think of my own, an', by the Blue Jehosaphati I jest tunned pale w'n I thought 'bout hav-in' loaded it with small shot for eat. squir'ls the day afore we started on the march, an' in the excitement I'd fo'got to fire it off an' load it with ball. Well, I was in a predickyment. I did'n' know whether to retreat or not, but, at last, I decided to call up the nighest men, p'int out the savidges-I could see a hulf a dozen heads-an' let every foller pick 'is man, an' I'd take the gyard Then I'd call on 'im to s'render, 'n' ef 'e didn't I'd resk squirrel shot an' a jest cause.

Beckenin' to tother fellers. I got 'en all up close to me what they could see the gyard, an' then I tole 'em to single out their men, but to leave the gyard for me. Then I spoke out loud an' says, "In the name of the state of Georgy I call on you to s'render!"

All of us lay low, fur we 'spected a volley in ans'r, but th' warn't to sich a thing. The Injun did'n' s'much as move

Then says I: "Make ready, boys, 'n' w'en I gin ye the word, tier." All of us got ready, an' I drawed a dend head on the breast of the gyard, an' said "l'ire." Pop! pop! pop! she e bang! what the guns, my old gun hangin disr, an afore ye could say scat, thei' was the ongodiles' yell went up f'om the bushes 'nt ever I hearn in all my life.

"O! Master, Goder'mighty! Help! The Injuns! the Injuns!" and ole Sawnle went tearin' th'ough them bushes like th' old boy 'mself was closte a'ter 'im.

Then we hearn a yell on tother side, an' we could hear Gener'l Floyd a laughin' an' a cussin' cross the creck, an' I never, in all my borned days, felt as mean.

Ye see, that cussed old nigger 'd como down to the creek to ketch catfish, an' 'd drapped off to sleep, w'en John diskivered 'im, an' that he sot with a whole passel of cypress knees a stickin' up aroun' 'im, an' hit was jest as good a pieter of Injuna as ve could a drawed.

But I tell ye, I bum't the old scoundrel's belly with them squir'l shot w'en I fiered, an' he jest thought the whole Creek Nation wus a'ter 'im, an' hit wus the only time that he was known to break 'is gait in twenty year.

Giner'l Floyd said I orter be permoted, ef twan't fur nuthin' but skeerin' some life into the cyarkiss of that old nigger. But Bigjawed John had to leave the milish beca'se the boys devitedbacked 'in so bout cypers knees an' wild Injuns .--Montgomery M. Folsom in Atlanta Constitution.

To Choose an Orange.

The very swectest orange and richest is the black or rusty coated fruit. Pick out the dingiest oranges in the box and you will get the best. Another way to choose oranges is by weight. The heavest are the best, because they have the thinnest skin and more weight of juice. Thick skin oranges are apt to be dry; they either weigh less because of having so much skin, or because of the poverty of the juice in these particular specimens A slight freezing on the tree causes this condition in otherwise fine fruit. The "kid glove" oranges are the two varieties "kid glove oranges are the Florida from of small fruit grown in Florida from China stocks respectively brought from Chin and from Tangiers. They are called "Mandarin" and "Tangerine." They They may be eaten without soiling a kid glove, because the skin is loose and the little "gores" or pockets of juice come apart very cleanly and without breaking. All the above applies to Florida oranges. The Jamaica and Havana oranges are much paler yellow, and their juice is usually of more acid quality.—The Caterer.

LOOK out for democratic lies.

THE republican ticket of Cass county cannot be imposed upon.

WORKINGMEN intend to make the sixth of next November the Appomatox of free trade.

THERE are campaign lies being circulated; we advise our readers to look out for them and not believe them, for they contain not one word of truth.

THE Knights of Labor have the mo'to: "An injury to one is the concern of all." It is just this fact in a republic that makes it the general concern that a few shall not follow blind prejudice and vote upon American workingmen a policy that will so reduce them to the level of European pauper labor.

HARRISON and Morton believe in honoring the soldier, and in protecting his helpless widow and orphans. They believe in the stars and stripes as the sole emblem of a united country: and their administration while kindly to all would not install ex-rebels in high places in the government, nor countenance crimes against the ballot. If this policy is wise. vote to restore it in national administration.

PARTIES, like some other things, are known by their fruits. Massachussets where every voter is able to read and write, will give a Republican majority 25,000 to 30,000, while Louisians, where the illiterates number more than half the the use of Boschee's German Syrup. If voting population, will give an overwhelming majority for Cleveland and Thurman. There you have a diagram how it is, themselves. Bottle only 75 showing the relative intelligence and cents. Ask any druggist. character of the two parties. Young voters ought to take this diagram into consideration before casting their political lots in life.

A glass dresser in the O'Hara works at Pittsburg earned $1.50 in 1860, the last year of a democratic tariff, and paid $2.50 per dozen, or about 21 cents each for the goblets he made. In 1880 he earned in the very same establishment $2.50, and yet he paid only 35 cents per dozen, or 3 cents each, for the goblets he made, which were better than any produced in 1860. Under democracy his day's work earned 7 goblets, under republicanism his day's work earned 83 goblets.

VentHation, Water and Food.

There are three things every one should attend to who has a dwelling-ventilation, pure water and unadulterated food. Difficult as the food question is, with due care it can be mastered. Pure air, also, can be measurably secured, even if the residence be in a malarial district. But the problem of all most difficult is how to be sure of pure water. The bacterial germs that produce malignant diseases are most easily introduced into the system by means of apparently pure water. New York city is amazed to find its Croton lake system is now receiving the sewerage of 25,000 people, the largest con-densed milk factory in the world, 10,000 cows, 1,200 horses, 15,000 hogs and forty factories. The absolute selfishness and heedlesaness of many people is shown in pothing more than their people is shown in nothing more than their readiness to pellute streams used or liable to Le used for drinking by human beings. Probably a good deep well, free from possible contamination of sewerage, is our safest resort.-Globe-Democrat.

Sustaining a Prime Minister.

"Mamma's a Radical, but I'm a strong Conservative," said an 8-year-old politician, the daughter of an English lady of rank. "All my dolls are Conservative too; and this" (showing a battered and headless body) "is Lord Salisbury. My cousin, Lady Mabel G...., was here play-ing with me yesterday, and she's a Liberal, so she knocked Lord Salisbury's head off "And what's this tube fixed to the top of his head for?" asked the visitor.

"To feed him with, of course, now that he's got no mouth. Mamma's telegraphed to London to get another head for him, and until it comes nurse and I are going to pour soup and milk into him through that tube to keep him alive."-Harper's Young People.

The Hat Must Go.

The latest danger to civilization is the hat. One of those cheerful medical newspapers has found out that hats, whether of silk or felt, by reason of their stiff, hard margins, "exercise a constricting in-fluence round the head," and compress the blood vessels of the scalp, with results of the direst character. The cautions reader will therefore give up wear-ing hats. He has already, if he has followed the advice kindly offered him from professional quarters, given up meat, vegetables, milk, tea, coffee, fruit, to-bacco and most of his clothes. The pursuit of health, like that of virtue, is not to be conducted to a successful issue without some sacrifices.-St. James' Gazette.
