

The Evening Herald.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

A. Salisbury, Dentist, Rockwood Building, Telephone No. 35.

Dr. Sigling, Office in Gerling's Drug Store, Residence Cor. Sixth and Granite, Telephone No. 42.

Dr. Withers, the Painless Dentist, Union Block, over Frick's Drug Store, Plattsmouth.

CITY CONGREGATIONS.

CATHOLIC.—St. Paul's Church, Oak, between Fifth and Sixth. Father Carney, Pastor. Services: Mass at 8 and 10:30 A. M. Sunday School at 2:30 P. M. with benediction.

CHRISTIAN.—Corner Locust and Eighth Sts. Sunday School 10 A. M.

EPISCOPAL.—St. Luke's Church, corner Third and Vine. Rev. H. B. Burgess, pastor. Services: 11 A. M. and 4:30 P. M. Sunday School at 2:30 P. M.

GERMAN METHODIST.—Corner Sixth St and Granite. Rev. H. B. Burgess, pastor. Services: 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday School 10:30 A. M.

PRESBYTERIAN.—Main, between Sixth and Seventh. Rev. J. T. Baird, pastor. Services: usual hours, morning and evening. Sunday school 9:30 A. M.

FIRST METHODIST.—Sixth St., between Main and Pearl. Rev. W. B. Alexander, pastor. Services: 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday School 2:30 P. M. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

GERMAN PRESBYTERIAN.—Corner Main and Ninth. Rev. White, pastor. Services: usual hours. Sunday School 9:30 A. M.

SWEDESK CONGREGATIONAL.—Granite, between Fifth and Sixth.

CITY CORDIALS.

Remember the W. R. C. will give a supper at the G. A. R. hall the night of the election.

It is useless to make any inquiries as to what is the matter with Grover Cleveland. We all know.

The "Browns," a base ball club of this city, went to Bellevue this morning to play the college nine of that place this afternoon.

The following pun was stamped on a transparency carried in the procession last night at Ashland: "John M. will get Thayer, for he's all right."

The sewer men were engaged in filling up the creek bed at the foot of 5th street hill with concrete to form a solid foundation for the new sewer, yesterday.

The "Cold Day" company has struck several towns and cities in this vicinity. It is said to be a first-class company and if they do come to Plattsmouth, it will probably be a cold day before they come again.

Mrs. M. E. Roberts, of Lincoln, will arrive in the city this evening on her way to Boston to attend a meeting of the Home missionary society. She will remain over Sunday, and the ladies of the Home missionary society here, will give her a reception this evening at the home of Mrs. B. Sparlock. She will address the citizens of Plattsmouth tomorrow evening in the M. E. church.

The work of laying the artificial stone walks in front of several of our prominent business houses has already commenced. In front of the Cass county bank the concrete has been spread. This will make a very handsome and durable walk, which costs little more than ordinary plank. It is hoped that all will secure the services of the mechanics now at work.

The Hon. Albert Watkins, of Lincoln, addressed a small democratic audience for about two hours last night at the Waterman opera house. His theme consisted of about as many untruths as the many democratic orators touch in their writings. Nothing was heard that varied from the same old story which was manufactured not a short time ago by them and has been harped on ever since.

Edwin B. Graham, of Omaha, the prohibition candidate for congress, spoke at the Rockwood hall last night. It is said that his statements were so lengthy and tedious that his own sympathies left the hall. He made statements and threw out challenges during his unwinding, and because there chanced to be no orator present to contradict some of his rank expressions, many present accepted all that he spouted. By all appearances and the turnout at their rallies, it is not at all probable they will elect their president this fall.

The fifteen months old son of Mr. George Godwin died last night after a very peculiar illness. The child has been quite sick for some time and has gradually lost flesh until it is said that the entire body became perfectly discolored and resembled that of a colored child. The doctors report that it was the first case of the kind ever known here before. The cause is unknown. The funeral will leave the parents' residence, 10th and Gold streets, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, after a short service which will be conducted by Rev. J. T. Baird, of the Presbyterian church.

Children's overcoats $1.25. Boy's overcoats $1.50. Men's overcoats $1.75 at Mayer's Popular Clothing store.

PERSONALS.

Mr. J. B. Stredé, of Lincoln is in the city to-day.

Mr. O. H. Ballou was a passenger to Omaha this morning.

Mrs. S. A. Davis was a passenger to Omaha this morning.

Miss Belle Wendell was a passenger to Omaha this morning.

Mrs. Oliver and daughter went to Bellevue this morning for a short visit.

Misses Annie and Mary Weckbach returned last night from a visit of a few weeks at Hastings and other western cities.

Mr. D. Graves takes his departure for Chicago tomorrow morning. He will remain there for about two weeks and help out the republicans of that district by one good, plump, republican vote.

That Benighted Farmer.

Mr. Editor:—Please tell the Journal

man that when he talks tariff with farmers and then gives account of it in his paper that he ought to be honest enough to tell the truth or else say nothing about it. If he had asked that farmer what good the tariff had done the manufacturer of this country, even if they did sell their goods cheaper here than in England, he would have told him, for the reason that it enables the manufacturers to run their establishments with only the home competition to contend with. It enables those manufacturers to give employment to thousands of people, and to pay them from twice to three times the amount of wages that the same class of laborers are getting in England. And those people when employed in manufacturing industries are consumers of farm products, and thereby greatly increasing the home markets of the farmer; and also that it is one of the traits of human nature for men to live according to their ability to purchase, and when they have good wages they purchase more and live better than when they have poor wages; and also that to take the tariff off of wool was an attempt to destroy an American farm industry of which there are some thirty-four million dollars invested in. That protection to American interests is an American idea and should be advocated by every true American citizen, and free trade is an English idea, advocated by the English, for their interests and by all the enemies of our country who think more of building up English industries than they do of building up American industries. He would have told him that he was for American manufacturers, for American home markets, for American farm products, that he was for the American laborer and believed that the American congress should legislate for American interests, instead of English interests. That he was for anything and everything that America produces, that came in competition with the products of foreign countries. He would have told him that he very much preferred the Republican club of America than the Cobden club of England. That he was very much more in favor of the prosperity of New England than old England, and he would have informed him that such was the feeling that he would have every American citizen, native or foreign born, entertain of the United States.

He would have informed him that he was not like himself, in sympathy with Gen. Dick Taylor of the confederate army, when he wrote to a northern friend as follows:

"We made two great mistakes. Had we avoided them we would have conquered you. The first was that we did not substantially destroy the protective features of the tariff in the winter session of 1857-58 by an act which provided a rapid sliding scale to free trade.

As a democratic measure we could have passed such a law, and held it tight on until it closed the furnaces, workshop, woolen and cotton mills, and steel and bar-iron works of the north and west, and scattered your workmen over the prairies and territories. When the war was ready for you you would not have been ready for the war. You would have been without supplies, machinery and workmen and you would have been without money and credit.

Our second mistake was in withdrawing our senators and representatives from your congress. How we blundered in these two respects I cannot understand except on the hypothesis of an overruling Providence.

As it would have been then, so it would be now, and every intelligent man who has watched the forcing of the Mills bill through the House of Representatives, cannot help but see that the old spirit of revenge still prevails in the south, with which the Journal editor is so much in sympathy.

BENIGHTED FARMER.

Overcoats for men with fur collars and cuffs for $12.50 at Mayer's Popular Clothing Store.

Citizens.

Again I have the pleasure of appearing before you, not as star open tenor singer, as I did a few evenings ago at a recital given in the great opera house in this city. Had I known the dimensions of the stage, upon which I appeared, previous to the event, my melodious voice wouldn't have been heard that evening and never again can my services be engaged in this city as a singer until I have surveyed the surroundings and am satisfied that there will be sufficient room for me to display my angelic form in forty-seven angular positions without crowding some one from the stage.

Understanding the above by close observation you will see that I am a composer of songs as well as a singer. The following is one of my late compositions, entitled "The Holidays are Coming." Hoping you will accept this little song making it one of your favorites and every time you sing it think of me, the composer.

The holidays are coming.

In the sweetest way and by.

And I have made preparations

For the demand to supply.

With watches, clocks and jewelry

In silver, gold and steel.

And thousands of other jewels

Too numerous to enroll.

So far as being a jeweler

It is useless to remark.

For I have a reputation

That never can be beat.

By none of my competitors.

As long as I have my health.

For every day I live on earth.

I am growing into wealth.

My prices are do me slow.

I am the jeweler accept on the

Geo. W. Vasa.

The Rally at Ashland.

The special was advertised to leave the depot here at 6:30 last evening, but as all preparations for the departure could not be made by that time, the train did not pull out until after 7 o'clock.

It is estimated that from four to five hundred people went from here. The young ladies club here turned out about fifty strong and looked very charming with their dark blue dresses with white star decorations. The young men's republican club also turned out in fine style, with the B. & M. band at their head. The whole crowd became quite enthusiastic before the train pulled out; all were evidently bent on having a good time.

Delegations were picked up at different towns along the line, and before reaching Ashland, the cars were crowded so that it was difficult to find standing room. The train arrived at Ashland about 8 o'clock, and the various clubs which had formed in line near the depot were waiting the arrival of the delegation from Plattsmouth and intermediate points. Shortly afterwards every club had succeeded in forming in line with the procession and commenced the parade.

The crowd was immense, and the illuminations along the line, very attractive. Several were heard to remark as they passed the private residences which were most beautifully illuminated, that they presented the handsomest appearance they had ever seen for any thing of the kind. The procession was formed in the following order:

The Ashland band, ladies' republican club, umbrella brigade and Ashland flambeau club, log cabin with its decorations of coons and conveying the veterans of 1840, Greenwood ladies' club and torchlight procession, Plattsmouth band, ladies' club and torches. It was a grand procession, nearly a mile long, marching through the streets with flying banners and burning torches. The banners bore promiscuous inscriptions, among which were, "It and the red rag vs. Harrison and the American flag," "Nebraska's pride, Chas. F. Manderson, U. S. S.," "Grover's motto: Fish and Crawfish," "Vote for our Tom Pickett for State Senator," "J. M. Thayer the People's Choice."

After the procession, the ladies' clubs were entertained to a supper by the young ladies club of Ashland, in fine style.

It was estimated there were eight hundred in the procession. After the procession came the speaking, which had been arranged for, Senator Manderson at the opera house and Rev. Tate at the rink, both of which were crowded to overflowing. Senator Manderson began his speech by saying that Ashland, with her neighbors, has not painted the town red, but red, white and blue. These vast assemblages were more than marching and speaking; they mean victory. It means that our republic must give way to Grover Cleveland must give way to Ben Harrison. He gave a grand discussion of the tariff question, declaring that unless England succeeded in getting the United States to adopt free trade, she would herself adopt protection, which would prove that the American system of protection was recognized as the most successful way of encouraging our interests and laborers. It has been the grandest demonstration of the campaign, and every republican has gained new encouragement and is determined to work from now until the 4th of November with revived vigor, which will issue a ringing republican victory and the banishment of boodler McShane.

Men's Wool mitts at 25 cents. Men's fur hats $1.25. Men's fur stiff hats $1.50 at Mayer's Popular Clothing Store.

Milton Nobles.

"Love and Law" is superior to any of the London Melodramas which have scored such tremendous success during the past four or five years. The play is intensely dramatic and sensational, and yet is kept well in hand, and the situations are all within the legitimate bounds of the story and its natural surroundings. It is a better play than "The Streets of New York," which had a famous run some years ago, and altogether one of the best American dramas we have. It is well balanced and is cleverly graded to the climax. The supporting company is in every respect excellent. We congratulate Mr. Nobles upon his success. He deserves it the more because he has forced recognition from a part of the public which has looked with disfavor upon his work for years.—Philadelphia Ledger, May 1888.

In "Love and Law" Mr. Nobles has established his claims to a place among the cleverest of our native dramatists. It is by far the best dramatic work, and will outlive his best previous efforts. The story is interesting and tersely told. The dialogues are very bright in the comedy scenes, and full of vigor and intensity in the more dramatic passages. The principle characters are clearly drawn and well defined, and the various climaxes well conceived and deftly executed. There is not during the entire four acts a minute that is dull or lacking in interest. Mr. Nobles is among our very best natural comedians and character actors, and has never appeared to better advantage than as Felix O'Paff. It is a real pleasure to see an Irish gentleman on the stage. He is a type of dramatic character we have sadly missed since the final exit of dear, genial John Brougham.—St. Louis Republican, September, 1887.

Don't miss seeing them at the opera house Monday night.

A Natural Result.

Political operator (furiously): "Now, fellow citizens, if this man is elected, what will be the result?"

A voice: "His opponent will be defeated."—Lincoln Journal.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

A Natural Result.

Political operator (furiously): "Now, fellow citizens, if this man is elected, what will be the result?"

A voice: "His opponent will be defeated."—Lincoln Journal.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

A Natural Result.

Political operator (furiously): "Now, fellow citizens, if this man is elected, what will be the result?"

A voice: "His opponent will be defeated."—Lincoln Journal.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

A Natural Result.

Political operator (furiously): "Now, fellow citizens, if this man is elected, what will be the result?"

A voice: "His opponent will be defeated."—Lincoln Journal.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

A Natural Result.

Political operator (furiously): "Now, fellow citizens, if this man is elected, what will be the result?"

A voice: "His opponent will be defeated."—Lincoln Journal.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

A Natural Result.

Political operator (furiously): "Now, fellow citizens, if this man is elected, what will be the result?"

A voice: "His opponent will be defeated."—Lincoln Journal.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

State Corn Exhibit.

The Nebraska state board of agriculture will hold their winter meeting and annual corn exhibit at Lincoln, on January 15th, 1889.

PREMIUMS.

The following schedule of premiums and conditions are presented and will prevail:

Exhibits must be grown in Nebraska, the growth of 1888, and have been grown by the exhibitor, or in the county competing.

Statements as to soil, manner of sowing, preparing seed, and time of planting, mode of culture, and period of maturity to accompany each entry. Entries to be at any time before or on the Saturday next preceding the first day of winter meeting.

Premium corn to become the property of the board for distribution, or such other disposition as it may determine.

504 Best 20 ears large yellow Dent corn 5 3 3
505 " 20 ears small yellow Dent corn 5 3 3
506 " 20 ears large white Dent corn 5 3 3
507 " 20 ears small white Dent corn 5 3 3
508 " 20 ears mixed Dent corn 5 3 3
509 " 20 ears bloody butcher Dent 5 3 3
510 " 20 ears calico Dent corn 5 3 3
511 " 20 ears hackberry Dent corn 5 3 3
512 " 20 ears named strains yellow Dent corn 5 3 3
513 " 20 ears named strains Dent white corn 5 3 3
514 " 20 ears yellow Flint corn 5 3 3
515 " 20 ears white Flint corn 5 3 3
516 " 20 ears Sugar corn 5 3 3
517 " 20 ears Popcorn 5 3 3
518 Largest number varieties, and best displayed collective exhibit of 6 or by any one individual, from any section of the state 25 15
519 Largest number varieties, and best displayed collective exhibit of corn by any one individual, from any section of the state 25 15

In each exhibit made under the above list each 20 ears must be accompanied with one half peck shelled, of same corn as ears exhibited. This rule while it would be advantageous and desirable to both the exhibitors and the general exhibit, does not, of obligation, apply to the collective exhibits. Collective exhibits must be separate and distinct from individual exhibits. Parties making collective exhibits can enter and compete for minor individual premiums with same varieties of corn, but not the same specimens. It will be seen that in collective exhibits a scientific test is not resorted to. It is simply the "largest numbers of varieties and best display." Professional commercial seed growers or dealers are not permitted to compete for premiums. Every facility for exhibiting will, however, be provided them, free of charge, and they are invited to make exhibits.

SCORE OF POINTS FOR EAR CORN.

Length of ear 100

Circumference of ear 100

Evenness of ear 100

Per cent of net grain to cob 300

Color and uniformity of grain 200

Quality and ripeness of grain 150

Weight of net grain compared with legal standard 100

Men's Heavy working boots worth $3, $3.50 and $4.00 selling at half price to close before our removal. S. & C. Mayer the Popular Clothier.

H. M. Gault is receiving some very fine novelties in Oxidized Silver goods for holidays.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts, 40 cents, at Elson's the One Price Clothier.

Gold and silver spectacles at H. M. Gault's.

Elson, the One Price Clothier, is selling the Chicago Hats at $1.99.

If you want a good clock, go to H. M. Gault. He has a large assortment to pick from at prices that can't help but sell them.

Mrs. Johnson has just received one of the finest displays of trimmed hats and bonnets ever brought to the city.

If you want anything in the jewelry line, go to H. M. Gault. He will sell you good goods at low prices and guarantee them as represented.

Gold and silver watches enough to supply the country at H. M. Gault's, cheap and warranted to give satisfaction.

Elson the One Price is selling Chinchilla Overcoats, Beaver Collars and Cuffs, at $15.00.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

A Natural Result.

Political operator (furiously): "Now, fellow citizens, if this man is elected, what will be the result?"

A voice: "His opponent will be defeated."—Lincoln Journal.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

A Natural Result.

Political operator (furiously): "Now, fellow citizens, if this man is elected, what will be the result?"

A voice: "His opponent will be defeated."—Lincoln Journal.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

A Natural Result.

Political operator (furiously): "Now, fellow citizens, if this man is elected, what will be the result?"

A voice: "His opponent will be defeated."—Lincoln Journal.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

A Natural Result.

Political operator (furiously): "Now, fellow citizens, if this man is elected, what will be the result?"

A voice: "His opponent will be defeated."—Lincoln Journal.

A Modern Instance.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

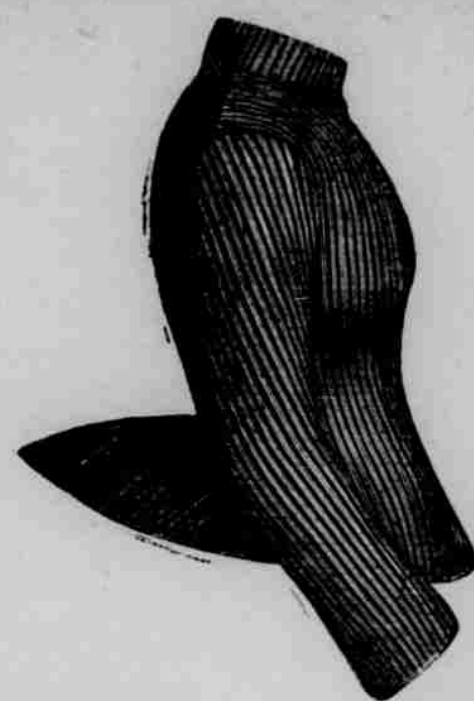

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, who would you support?"

"The same man I've supported for ten years."

"And who is that?"

"My husband."—Lincoln Journal.

CLOAKS! CLOAKS!

Our Stock of Cloaks is now complete and we are showing the Largest Line ever opened out in this city. Ladies desiring a New Wrap this season should not miss looking over our line, for we are showing the Very Latest Novelties at very Low Prices.

Ladies' and Misses' Jackets!

This cut represents our popular $5.00 Ladies' Jacket, made of All-Wool Striped Cloaking, and at the price a decided bargain.

We have Full Lines at $3 to $15, each made up of the very best materials, in solid colors and stripes.