Weckbach was appointed chairman of the meeting, and in a few well chosen words introduced the Hon. W. S. Shoemaker, of Omaha, as the first speaker. In his speech he strongly denounced the actions of the republican party in the adoption of the submission plank, stating that such an act was not necessary. He advanced the argument that the people were sovereigns and had the power to pass any kind of a prohibitory liquor law, and hence on necessity for submitting the question that prohibition in the constitution would not be safe acting. and a law to enforce it would have to be passed. He evidently took the platform with the intention of making a straight democratic speech, as he gave vent to his democratic sentiments very frequently. Prof. E. Geisler, of Omaha then followed with his speech in German. The points made by him were similar to those of his friend. The crowd was as Young Mun," Fred W. Hopper, Kearnoy.
