CITY CORDIALS.

Lost—A tiger eye cube charm. The finder will be suitably rewarded for its return to Fred Carruth.

Regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. S. A. Davis on Pearl st.

Rev. W. B. Alexander has removed his place of residence from Pearl street to the corner of 6th and Marble streets.

The Old District School will be given the 11th and 12th of December instead of the 13th and 14th as first advertised.

Y. W. C. T. U. Social. Young gentleman without escort will be welcomed at our social Saturday eve, as well as those who have company.

Another attempt was made last night to secure a quorum at the council chamber, but the effort was apparently useless. Our fathers have now adjourned sine die.

Mr. Ed Straight, one of the seven young men who are duty bound to celebrate their birthdays, gave a party to the balance of the club who will become victims within a year, at his home last night. A very enjoyable evening was spent.

The merchants of this city feel grateful to the Q. for running their Omaha passenger trains through here as early as they do. The change is beneficial to them, as a good portion of the ladies patronage given to Omaha now remains at home.

The marriage of Mr. Charles D. Eads and Miss Julia Oliver occurs this afternoon at the residence of the bride-mother, corner of Third and Vine streets. A large number of young friends were present as evidence of their appreciation of the bride and groom.

We are in receipt of an invitation to the marriage of Mr. Louis S. Meyer to Miss Jeannette David at Meridian, Mississippi, on Sunday evening, Nov. 25th, at 8 o'clock. There will be a reception at the residence of Mr. A. L. Rosenbaum, from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Our genial express agent, Mr. E. A. St. John, and our popular druggist, Mr. O. P. Smith, after witnessing a flock of wild geese and a couple of ducks fly over the city this morning in the direction of a clump of trees, became so ambitious for a hunt that they each shouldered a gun and persuaded a couple of dogs to follow.

The gun club, consisting of about twelve members which returned from their annual hunt last week, was entertained to a supper at the Riddle house last night by the side failing to gain the most points in their shooting match during the hunt.

A party of old soldier fishermen of this city are now at work securing fishing poles. When asked for information concerning their work, they informed us that the poles were to send to Grover Cleveland next decoration day.

Mr. George Smith, a former citizen of this city of hills, was shaking hands with his many friends here last night who were congratulating him on his convalescence since his misfortune of last Sunday. For further information see Marion and Ammi.

Errors Seen by Josh Cunningham.

This is probably none of the common branches in which the majority of persons are more deficient than in spelling. It will be admitted that the subject is a hard one, difficult to learn and difficult to teach. More uninviting and devoid of interest than any other in the whole course. The only royal road to proficiency in this branch is the one that brings us in contact with every word in the language. There are a few rules that may be relied upon to some extent, but most of them have nearly as many exceptions as examples, and usually confuse rather than assist the student.

Most young persons while preparing for a business life, are too indifferent in this matter. You may set it down as an unchangeable rule that bad spelling is never excusable. It is always the result of ignorance or carelessness. No one cares to plead guilty to the former and thousands of business clerks answer the criticisms of their employers with the old excuse, "I knew how to spell the word—it is simply a mistake." So much the worse if this excuse will cover bad spelling, it will also do for bad grammar, erasures, blots, soiled and slovenly work of all kinds.

Opinions of the London Press. "Mlle Rhea has remarkable qualities and endowments. A fine and commanding figure, a superbly shaped head, clear cut and very handsome features, a powerful yet musical voice, are all hers, and she has, in addition, an admirable method."

The reserved seats on sale at J. P. Young's book store are rapidly being disposed of, and from present prospects, every seat will be taken before Thursday evening.
