CONGRESS opens today and the congressmen have been arriving by every train.

THREE months from tomorrow the democrats step down from the executive branch of the government and from the house of representatives.

THIRTEEN is certainly an unlucky number—for the democrats. Three republican congressmen in West Virginia were elected by that majority.

The fifth railroad bridge to span the Missouri river between Iowa and Nebraska, and the second bridge over that river controlled by the Chicago & Northwestern system, will be formally opened at Sioux City tomorrow.

DAKOTA is on her good behavior. But if she does not receive encouragement pretty soon for early statehood, she will send a blizzard eastward that will make the teeth of the politicians chatter all the way from Maine to Key West.

The republican policy as to the admission of new states is a very simple and practical one. Such admissions will be made just as fast as the territories give a sufficient guarantee that they can be depended upon for anti-democratic majorities.

It is to be hoped that Cleveland's message will be short; but it would be just like him to make it the longest one on record, as he will never have another chance to write a document which the newspapers will have any inducement to publish.

It is rumored that the democrats will make a strong effort to admit Dakota as one state during the session of congress that opens today. But the democrats are to late, they have sinned away their day of grace and we will now have two republican states instead of one.

A JUDGE in Janesville, Wisconsin, has decided that it is perfectly legal to have the bible read in the public schools, and parties who sought to prevent the practice by means of an injunction have been non-suited.

It is nip and tuck between Kansas and Pennsylvania which shall be the banner republican state, but Kansas is about 500 ahead at the last accounts. Here are two states giving over 80,000 republican majority each, supposedly of very different interests—one an eastern manufacturing state, the other a western agricultural state—joining in an emphatic protest against the British free trade tendency of the democratic party.

HOW IT SEEMS TO THE ENGLISH

The Wolverhampton (England) Express and Star, commenting on the result of the late presidential election, says that "It is an indication, to some extent at least, of a preponderating anti-English feeling. It is equally a blow to the rising free trade party of the republic. Further it discloses the continuing importance of Mr. Blaine as a factor in American politics. But beyond all else it establishes the invincible supremacy of the Irish vote."

The standard remedy for liver complaint is West's Liver Pills; they never disappoint you. 30 pills 25c. At Warrick's drug store.

Everything necessary for furnishing a house can be purchased at H. Boeck's.

MANUFACTURING RECORD.

The report from various manufacturing industries show that the general state of activity is not only sustained, but that every week adds its quota of mills, furnaces and factories in which fires are being started.

The iron trade holds its activity. The output of pig iron is contracted for till the end of the year, and the indications are further orders. Steel rails, while still low, are in better request. The machine shops continue busy. The textile mills are well employed, the outlook for cotton goods being satisfactory, while some of the woolen mills are running their machinery over-time.

A Wonderful Offer.

For many years the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy have offered, in good faith, $500 reward for a case of Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists at only 50 cents. It has fairly attained a world-wide reputation. If you have dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges galling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; if the eyes are weak, watery and inflamed; if there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with sores from ulcers, the voice being changed and has a nasal twang; the breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility, you are suffering from nasal catarrh.

—Men are but the whiskers on the cheek of known as life.—Lincoln Journal.

2500 Reward, We will pay the above reward for any case of liver complaint, dyspepsia, sick headache, indigestion, constipation or costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with.

Don't go to Omaha when you want to get your beautiful parlor and bed room sets but go to Henry Boeck's furniture emporium where you can get every thing in the furniture line that will go to make your home beautiful and comfortable; and above all you can get it cheap. Remember that he who sells most can sell cheapest.

What Am I To Do?

The symptoms of biliousness are unhappily but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and diarrhea or constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy.

WHAT ONEARTH

Is the reason people will not, can not, or do not see any difference in cheap nostrums put up by Cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at equal price? No medicine in the world is giving such unparelleled satisfaction for purifying the blood as BEGG'S BLOOD PURIFIER & BLOOD MAKER, and ever bottle that does not do its work will cost you nothing. FACTS ABOUT CATARRH.

A DISAGREEABLE DISEASE WITH WHICH MANY ARE AFFLICTED.

It Originates in Different Causes—Not as Serious as Often Represented—Easily Cured Under Proper Conditions and Treatment.

The term "catarrh" is from two Greek words meaning "flow," and has its seat in the mucous membranes. Speaking generally, the mucous membrane is structurally the same as the skin. Its office is similar, being a lubricator and excretor in the functions of the body. The disease catarrh is one which, as before remarked, finds its expression in the mucous membrane and the extent of this disease can exist, as there is no part or locality of mucous membrane which cannot and is not affected by the catarrhal condition.

There seems to be a certain predisposition or structural development of the individual, prone to catarrhal attacks. These conditions are characterized by poverty of blood and nutrition, in which the walls of the capillary or minute blood vessels have a feeble tone or power of resistance, while the tissue through which such vessels pass are at the same time soft and yielding. This predisposition to catarrh is strongly marked in scrofula and rickets, and in bronchial catarrh, the morbid condition is a frequent attendant on typhoid fever, measles, whooping cough and smallpox. Effeminate habits also augment the liability to catarrhal affections.

In a consideration of the reasons why any one should suffer from a catarrh, acute or chronic, this condition of the system or susceptibility is the important and determining factor without its presence the existence of catarrh is an impossibility. As in consumption, so it is in catarrh, this predisposition is the result of original organization of the individual, or can be acquired.

The flanking advertisement setting forth the horrors of catarrh is a familiar object, and our ideas of catarrh are more largely influenced by what we read than what we know. While some forms of catarrh are truly of grave consequence and should receive intelligent attention, if this were true in the majority of cases, probably a large part of the population of the large cities would be patients of some physician or specialist. The truth is, outside of the common cold, there are many forms of what may be termed mild catarrh, which are not incompatible with a state of health, and we can probably take the majority of the people in any city and by examination demonstrate that they have, in fact, a mild catarrh. These people are subject to taking cold, easily get a cold, and it is somewhat stubborn. They are usually afflicted during the spring and fall; steady warm or cold weather is beneficial to them, and only when they have a cold are they much inconvenienced. Their general health is good, and influences brought to bear on the general health usually meet with a prompt effect on the catarrh. It is safe to say that, directly, a fatal result from catarrh is a huge and finds no foundation in fact. That much suffering and debility is due to the more or less chronic forms of the disease is true. The commonly received belief among the laity that chronic catarrh is the forerunner of consumption, and is only a question of time, is pure nonsense. If a consumption does follow a catarrh we are safe in saying that the catarrh was the cause, and not the result, and that either the individual had the consumptive taint through hereditary influence, or his habits and surroundings developed it in him and the catarrh was only the first local expression of the consumption. In that form of catarrh in which the disease extends to destruction of tissue and death of bone, we must not saddle the result on the catarrh; while this unquestionably was the immediate exciting cause, there was present and ready for the development of the result a soil so bad and vicious, either by heredity or acquisition, that the death of tissue and bone was perfectly rational and legitimate.

VALUABLE HINTS TO SUFFERERS.

The results of a chronic catarrh are many and varied, and while marked by a high degree of persistency and stubbornness, relief can and should be attained. This is to be accomplished not by local measures alone, but more especially by attacking the individual and relieving the condition which makes the development of the catarrh possible. Treatment locally might be pursued for a lifetime and nothing but relief of temporary character gained. Correct all that is wrong in habits, surroundings and occupation, and you gain a potent influence for recovery. One of the most common causes of catarrh, especially of the nose, is defective nasal breathing or respiration. Again, the structural changes which usually develop in time from long continued and neglected catarrh are other reasons why catarrh is not readily relieved. Notwithstanding these obstacles, relief can and should be attained. The most necessary factor is an intelligent conception of the condition which is the foundation of the disease. Relief for this in most of the cases means relief from the disease.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Common School.

In the earliest days of the settlement of this country, provision was made for the instruction of the children at the public cost, the colonies of Massachusetts and of Connecticut taking the lead in the work, and the object being to give all children free instruction in reading, writing, grammar, elementary arithmetic and geography. When certain commissioners addressed questions on this subject to the governors of the colonies, the governor of Connecticut replied that "one-fourth of the annual revenue of the colony is laid out in maintaining free schools for the education of our children," but Governor Berkeley, of Virginia, replied, "I thank God there are no free schools nor printing, and I hope we shall not have these hundred years."—Historical Digest.
