CITY CORDIALS.

—Prof. Gaynor, of Omaha, will hold his regular dancing school tonight at Fitzgerald hall.

—Two new consolidated locomotives were received at the shops here today for use on the B. & M.

—Milton Nobles and his company passed through the city this morning on the K. C. en route to St. Joe.

—The only case of diphtheria reported today is that of Mrs. A. W. Johnson, a lady living on Walnut street.

—A social will be given tonight at the parsonage of Rev. W. B. Alexander by the ladies of the M. E. church.

—The Sons of Veterans' ball at Fitzgerald hall last night was a grand success. There were from fifty to one hundred couples danced.

—The boys are trying to sharpen their shates on the sand bar today. Good, clear ice would be a great luxury where they are trying to skate.

—The case, Shoemaker vs. Dunn, will be tried before County Judge Russell this afternoon, and a jury. The suit was brought about for replevin.

—Remember the matinee of "Lost in London" tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon, prices 25 and 50 cents, go and reserve your seats at J. P. Young's.

—Chas. Herkon was arraigned before Judge Clifford this morning for being drunk and disorderly on the streets. He was not able to pay his fine and was sent to jail.

—In Pennsylvania it is said that the aspirants for pre-offices there average up about seven for each office. Plattsmouth and vicinity as far as we have learned, beats the record.

The United Brethren's church, of Nehawka, which has recently been erected, will be dedicated next Sunday. Mr. Brooks, professor of the college at Gibbon, Neb., will conduct the services.

—Don't fail to go to the Family Matinee tomorrow afternoon and see the great Lyric spectator play "Lost in London." Fine scenery, fine singing and dancing. It is a great play for children.

—Mr. H. M. Gault has purchased another fine stallion for his farm to replace the one which was killed by lightning last summer. The horse was purchased by a Mr. Marshall in Wisconsin, for Mr. Gault. It is said to be about as fine an animal as the one he lost.

—The report was circulated this morning that County Attorney Beeson, who had filed suit contesting the late election, had withdrawn. Upon inquiry it was learned that Mr. Beeson had really withdrawn from the contest and that he and Gering have settled the affair amicably.

—Mrs. Morgan, mother of Messrs. Frank and Clel Morgan, is lying in a critical condition, at her home. She has been debilitated for some time, but of late she has been afflicted with erysipelas which has come in contact with her heart. Last night it was feared that her last moments had arrived, but today she is slightly improving, but another attack is expected this afternoon or evening.

—"We desire to return our thanks observed the editor of an Arkansas paper in his last issue, to the members of the Gallusville Cornet Band for a serenade last night. The band can't play for shucks, and the music would have drawn a howl of pain from an Egyptian mummy but it awakened us from a horrible night-mare in which we seemed to be standing at the door of our office defending it against a sheriff who wore horns and hoofs and had come to take possession of it. Notwithstanding the appalling character of the music it was the sweetest sound that ever struck our ear, and we don't lay the serenade up against the boys. They didn't mean any harm and they probably saved our life."

—"We now believe that mischievous rodents can be accused of the most ridiculous tricks and thefts since the following short story has been revealed. Their worthy title has spread far and wide over the continent as a by-word—"Rats," and we were obliged to express ourselves by the same word when we listened to the story. Rats have even been found guilty of stealing a woman's false teeth. The woman who suffered the loss is the wife of a farmer named Levi Cole, living near Rock Bluffs. The man was heard to complain of the trouble caused him by the rats, and he had finally made up his mind since the above misfortune, to extinguish them by "rough on rats," or some other terror to rats. His wife on retiring one night a short time ago removed her teeth and left them on a table. Rats were heard ransacking in the room, but the thought that they would consider false teeth of any value to them, never occurred to her. In the morning the missing teeth were discovered to be missing, and she has not since been able to secure her lost treasure."

A Surprised Young Man.

An instance occurred last night at the Sons of Veterans mask ball which reminded many of such scenes as are frequently revealed upon the sudden break of day which strikes a car load of love makers as they are rapidly pulled from a tunnel. The actions may not have been similar to that, but the hot burning words which were poured from one ear to another certainly corresponded with those let loose under such circumstances. Before the masks were lifted many pleasing conversations occurred between the young men and several supposed-to-be ladies.

A young man who presents somewhat of a female expression even when his countenance is not hidden from view by a mask, attired himself in a low-necked dress, while a stylish hat partially covered streaming golden tresses which reached the waist of this much admired beauty. By the aid of modern science, the young man managed to build additions to himself which, when completed, passed him off in the regular form. He was sized up much by the young bloods who remarked to themselves: "I wonder who she is, I must not go home before meeting her and having a dance. She is a beauty, and I believe she must be a stranger for I do not remember ever seeing that figure on any previous occasion." She danced with several of the young men, and all were apparently much delighted with her company, her graceful dancing, her charming figure and musical voice. One of the mashers danced with this young lady, and being an intimate friend of the disguised, the great secret was divulged to him, which suddenly opened his eyes and he was about to thump the deceiver when he was suddenly hushed up. The two made it up to score a point on a fellow they had "had it in for" for a short time.

The victim was secured and introduced to the young lady, and a more delighted young man could not have been found in the dance hall last evening. He was gradually led on by this treacherous young female until he commenced to open fire. He admired her very much and the taffy which dropped between them nearly fastened them to the floor. The young lover revealed many secrets which he would not have the boys know for any sum. For his sake (for we know he will suffer much as it is) we withheld many of his expressions. When all masks were removed, he was the most miserable of men and especially when given the laugh by the boys. A duel will probably be the result of the hoax.

St. Paul Herald.

Newton Beers has got a play that the masses can see and be pleased. It possesses all the mystery, emotion, and vigorous action of melodrama, and is well acted by a capable company. In the third act is introduced the Rajah of Singapore, also the Pan Pipe Singers who do some fine old English songs, with lightning changes. The play is really lyric spectacular, and is an absolute success. The scenery is all new and beautiful. Especially grand is the scene in the last act representing Job's vision, where the auditor is translated from Ramshackle Cottage into a world of dissolving beauty, in which legions of celestial beings are seen floating in the air. The play is in five acts and the scenic effects are the best efforts of Lafayette W. Seavey of New York city.

Lost in London will be presented at the Waterman opera house tomorrow afternoon and evening. Tickets for both performances now on sale at the regular price.

After The Postoffice.

"As the heart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O postoffice. My tongue thirsteth to lick the stamp, and my loins yearn for the salary of $1,200 a year. When shall it come, and how long shall that unwashed democrat continue to stand behind the boxes and hand out my mail with a sneer? Have I not prayed day and night for the success of the republican ticket, and at the great rally did I not carry a torch, and when someone asked 'what's the matter with Harrison?' did I not shout at the top of my voice, 'He's all right!' When I remember these things, my soul is feverish with impatience, and even in my sleep I cry out, 'How long, O Lord, how long!'"—Ex.

New York's Smokers.

"There does not appear to be any decrease in smoking cigars and cigarettes," said an old tobaccoist to an Evening Sun reporter. "Here are some figures about the manufacture of these goods in this city. The cigars manufactured since Jan. 1 last were 642,638,719; the cigarettes, 491,979,620. In October, this year, the number of cigars manufactured here was 73,069,800, and the number of cigarettes 54,415,000, against 32,747,200 for the same period in 1887.

"The cigars manufactured this year are a little stronger than in former years," continued the speaker. "This is of course due to the fact that the leaves are stronger. I find that the majority of smokers prefer a strong or medium cigar because they contain more flavor and produce a sweeter smoke."
