CITY CORDIALS.

Mr. C. N. Hands and wife, of Lincoln, visited at the home of the latter, here, during Christmas. The city dads did not hold a council meeting Monday evening as a quorum could not be secured. Several Plattsmouth people visited Omaha last night to attend Desie's Adonis which was presented there. The B. & M. Shops were all closed yesterday and all employees apparently enjoyed their Christmas exceedingly well. Mr. C. N. Hands, of Lincoln, representing Max Meyer, of Omaha, sold Mr. Jos. V. Weckbach a very fine piano today. A good number of the Plattsmouth boys attended a ball which was given at Louisville last night. A genuine good time was reported. We did not notice any "Muggs Landing" here today, but if every person will attend another play "Later on" they will surely be satisfied. Another child in the Burke family residing in Wise's addition, died yesterday morning about 7 o'clock. The funeral occurred at 10 o'clock this a. m. Sleights were seen upon the streets early this morning for the first time this season and the merry jingle of the bells made a welcome sound, but it came just one day too late. The Muggs Landing Co. which was to appear tonight, canceled their Lincoln dates on account of sickness. They were to play at Funks Monday and last night. They will probably come later if a new date can be arranged. Several young men who received large packages by mail and express yesterday were unutterably disappointed upon opening them to find small rigged dolls enclosed, accompanied by the best wishes of the senders, who were kind enough to omit their names. A large black dog known as "Nig," owned by Mr. W. D. Jones, has become so familiar with the railroad officials of late that he occasionally jumps aboard trains and spends a day in Omaha, Lincoln or Schuyler and returns whenever an opportunity is afforded. Yesterday he jumped aboard the K. C. and we suppose he spent Christmas in Omaha. Ellis Goolsby, who was so seriously injured several weeks ago while attending to his duties as switchman in the B. & M. yards, was presented with a five dollar gold piece yesterday as a Christmas present from the switchman now at work in the yards. Mr Goolsby's recovery in the first-class condition he will appear, is considered quite a miracle and will no doubt be a feather in the cap of his physician, Dr. T. P. Livingston. The home of Mr. R. B. Windham was the scene of a very pleasant party on Christmas eve. A Christmas tree had been erected for the occasion and a large number of very handsome costly presents were distributed among those present. Mr. Windham presented his wife with a costly seal skin cloak, while she made him the present of a handsome dressing gown. Those present were J. M. Patterson, son, sr., and family; Jas. Patterson, jr., and wife; Tom Patterson and wife, and Lillia Thompson and Mr. J. A. Davies. Mrs. M. B. Murphy met with a very painful accident at her home yesterday morning, which she did not appreciate much as a Christmas present. While standing on a chair arranging window curtains at the top of a window, she missed her step and fell to the floor. In throwing her left arm out to save herself she fell upon it in such a way as to dislocate the wrist, at the same time tearing some of the nerves so that the injury is considered much worse than a break and will require more time to regain its use. At first it was reported that the arm was broken. The Bachelors amused themselves at their hall, which is located in Fitzgerald's block, yesterday and last evening in a very satisfactory style. A Christmas tree was erected and beautifully decorated by a large number of very handsome presents which were distributed among the members of the club. The walls of their room also presented a very attractive appearance. Last night they amused themselves in a praiseworthy manner by a case which was brought up before Judge Sam Patterson. The case was brought up against one of the members who has shown disrespect to the society. The trial occupied nearly the whole night, and it was decided to continue the case until the next term of court. Attorney L. Reinackel for the prosecution and attorney "Frederic" against the defense. We are under the impression that the jury will return a verdict in favor of the society. The City Meat Market is the best place to buy fresh meats, pork chops, poultry and game of all kinds. For lots in South Park apply to WINDHAM & DAVIES. "Why freeze or starve?" is the pointed question asked by the manufacturers of "Garland Stoves;" and we would add: Why buy a poor imitation when for the same price you can get the genuine "Garland?" An Injustice Sharply Rebuked.

Mr. Editor:—I notice a remarkable comment in the Journal of Dec. 24th derogatory to the jury which tried the Oliver case vs the C. B. & Q. R. R. Co. Mr. Editor I have, I suppose, in common with my fellow citizens a contempt for deadbeats and blackguards and as long as that specimen of the human race keeps out of the public prints and lets alone respectable honest men, I am disposed to think the less notoriety he gets by notice from the public the better for the public morals; yet, that was a very dirty, libelous attack, in the Journal comment, on perhaps twelve as honorable, good, citizens as the thirty odd thousand inhabitants of Cass county contains. Let the public see the names of these men and read those names along side the name of the blackguard who attempts to throw rotten eggs at them. Geo. E. Dovey, Andrew Christensen, Nicholas Holmes, Andrew B. Taylor, Edwin Davis, Levi Churchill, Henry Eikenbury, Conrad Vallerv, B. Siebold, Jos. V. Weckbach, M. F. Wait and D. C. Tucker. There was scarcely a name among these gentlemen that has not been a household word in Cass county for honesty, sobriety and first-class business qualifications for the past quarter of a century. There is not a man on that jury who is not a gentleman; not one who has not a good name for honesty in his dealings with his fellow men; not one who does not pay his debts, his rent, his grocery bills; not one who has not the entire confidence of his fellow citizens, the respect of the community in which he lives; not one whom you would not trust your pocket book with. Now write the name of Chas. W. Sherman alongside this list of names and apply the foregoing test to him and how does he appear? He is the man who talks of "a fool jury," of "ancient eggs" and such ret. The men composing the jury which the deadbeat of the Journal throws ancient eggs at, were dragged into court against their wills and at a sacrifice of their private business interests, to try the matter between the parties to that suit. They took a solemn oath to decide it as honest men. They discharged that duty—no honest man will doubt, conscientiously and fairly as they heard the evidence and listened to the law, as given them by the court; does any man in this community believe Charles W. Sherman would have one thousandth part of the respect for an oath as any one of these gentlemen? Without venturing an opinion as to the justice of the verdict by these gentlemen, for their names and characters are a sufficient guarantee in this or any other community for their official or private acts. I desire to enter my protest in plain and truthful language against the very dirty attack of the very filthy editor who has been long enough tolerated by decent people in this community, and it seems to me that his vulgar libel upon the gentlemen who sat in the Oliver case is enough to rouse the indignation of all good citizens. A FRIEND OF DECENCY.

Mayer's the leading Clothiers. "H. Gratton Denuelly's three-act musical farce, "Later On," as presented by the comedians, Hallen and Hart, is full of humor. It made a big audience laugh last night at the Grand. There is an amusing story that issued as a plot. The idea is new. Jack Plunger and Jolly Todd (Hallen and Hart), who have a way of their own of getting through the world—mainly by wit and humor—find a pair of pants on the seaside. Discovering no owner for them they assume the responsibility of owning the contents. The sheriff, a queer old Irishman, finds the pants after the robbery and declares there has been a murder or suicide. The plot hinges on finding a verdict, and it is decidedly amusing. Nothing more graceful and pleasing than the light musical novelties, dainty dances and marches, in which the piece abounds, could well be imagined. Hallen and Hart are well up their line of business. "Later On" will be repeated to night.—Omaha Herald, Dec. 25. The above company has also received commendations from all opera house managers in Chicago and other large cities where they have showed, and nearly all have engaged them for a return date. They appear at the Waterman opera house tomorrow night. Reserved seats are now on sale at the usual place and are being disposed of in greater numbers than is customary for an advance sale here. This company is strictly first-class, as all who have ever seen it will testify, and they should be greeted by a bumper house tomorrow night. Stop and price the Ladies' Gold Watches at H. M. Gault's. He has a large stock of watches in the market, at Pricke & Co's drug store.
