THE MATTER OF NEGRO RULE. The attempt to justify the systematic suppression of the colored vote of the south on the ground that such a process is the only way to prevent negrorule will not bear the test of sober and candid examination. It is a well known fact that the colored people have never manifested any disposition to rule the whites. They are not so constituted that they care to exalt their race over the other in any respect. It is to their credit that they recognize their pathetic limitations of intelligence and experience, and are inclined to defer to the superior wisdom of the whites. Their conduct, as a people, ever since the war has tendered to show that they neither seek nor desire to dictate to their white fellow citizens in politics or otherwise. They do not ask, and never have asked, that their race shall monopolize the offices, or frame the laws, SYRUP? It has no superior, and few or regulate the methods of progress. It equals. For sale by O. P. Smith & Co, is a libel to assert that they cherish a relentless prejudice against their former owners, and are constantly watching for chances to despoil and humiliate them. Their record is remarkably free from all indications of such a spirit. They have sought always to live in peaceful and considerate relations with those who have persistantly refused to grant them that privilege. Where they have been allowed to vote they have not insisted upon drawing the color line, but have as readily supported white men as black men.

There is nothing to be gained by misco representing the facts. The danger of negro rule is more a pretext for injustice Shan an honest reason for a sound and troub. ary policy. If the negroes were white to til to voted freely, they would be guided largely by the advice and example of their white friends and neighbors. Tuey are not an aggressive or domineering race. It is their nature to follow rather than to lead. They respond promptly to influences of kindness and persuasion. Those who have been associated with them always and are acgainted with their traits and tendencies would have no trouble to guide them and influence them for good if they would go about it in a just and friendly manner. To exclude them from all participation in politics is to make them more dangerous than they could possibly be if they were allowed to enjoy their legal and taught to respect themselves The south is standing in her en this subject. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, nausea, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. It is carefully compounded by an experienced physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. Purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system.

TEMPORARY MARRIAGES.

Persian Couples That Contract Matrimony

for a Specified Time. A writer in The Philadelphia North American describes one marriage custom among the Persjans which would hardly meet with favor in this country. A Persian couple may enter into honorable matrimony for any specified time—a day, a week, a month, six months or longer. A priest and a written contract are required, as in the usual form, and a dowry and present bestowed. Whether the transaction is entered upon for a matter of days or years, at its termination each one goes their way free of all further obligations toward each other.

This form of marriage is indulged in largely by travelers and men whose vocations take them from place to place. A mixed party of travelers-men, women and children-arrive at a village. The susceptible heart of one of the gentleme is touched by the charms of some rust belle. The village priest is summone forthwith, and the young lady's fath invited to the caravansarai.

"I wish to be united in matrimony your honored daughter, the light of Mo-hammed, oh, my father," says the smit-ten traveler. "Inshallah." "Bismillah!" returns the parent, "for

"For three weeks, oh, my father," says the traveler, "and I will make the settlement ten tomans-five tomans down and live upon our return from Meshed, the holy, three weeks hence, when your daughter shall be returned, thrice blessed from having made with us a pilgrimage to Inman Riza's sanctuary."

how long?

"What! ten tomans - pooh, pooh!" screams the father derisively, and making little of the advantages of the pil-grimage to Meshed. "My daughter is a jewel and the belle of the village. The settlement must be 100 tomans cash

The prospective bridegroom and the father of the young lady in the case now argue and squabble for probably an hour, at the end of which time they compromise on thirty tomans and threequarters. The priest draws up a mar-riage contract then and there, which the groom and the bride's parents sign. In it is stated the exact terms of the mar-riage, the amount of the settlement, and the time the contract is to expire. The priest is fed, the settlement money paid over to the father, and the biushing bride, who has had nothing to say in the matter whatever, is handed over to her husband. She is mounted on an ass or bundled into a kejaveh and ac companies the party to Meshed. Three weeks later the travelers halt at the same village on their return. The bride of three weeks slides off her donkey, kisses her husband's hands and returns to her parents' roof. She is now a charming young widow, and possesses thirty tomans and three-quarters, besides an extra toman or two presented by her husband at parting if he has been pleased with her conduct as a spouse. With this saug sum, and the additional charms of her new condition, she of course very ever, that the young bride takes advantage of the temporary marriage to steal away her husband's heart, and then at the old home a new marriage contract is drawn up and she becomes his lifelong helpmeet. A Woman on Kissing. It has been the gallant habit of men, from time immemorial, to comment unfavorably on the habit which women have of indulging in the useless distribution of kisses among themselves, but it is not often that the animadversion the erring sex itself is visited on the sa: theme. A critical young lady, however. theme. A critical young lady, however, was recently heard expatiating vigorously against this senseless caneed. "Do, for goodness sake," she remarked, "goodness sake," she remarked, "goo —380 kisses worse than thrown away, for probably in ten minutes the whole party would separate into squads and go off talking about each other. When you see one of these very violent miscellaneous kiss-everything-within-sight kind of woman, it is safe to set her down as a fraud, which she generally is. If I had my way, kissing should be confined to family use and for medicinal purposes. Now, don't you put my name to all this or I will him you right on Washington or I will kiss you right on Washington street the very first chance I have." Then the talk ran off on other kinds of kissing, and a story was told of a young lady who kissed a baby held in its father's arms; then in a moment of temporary insanity or abstraction she stood on tip-toe and kissed the papa. Realizing instantiy what a dreadful thing she had done, she wheeled around and kissed the

as they left the house by asking her if she didn't want to go back and finish it by kissing the hired girl.—Indianapolis

It is doubtful if there is any one state in America containing so many pretty women as California and any one con-taining so few as New York. As one walks down Kearny or Montgomery streets in San Francisco, one becomes almost surfeited by the unrelieved ranks of pretty girls, with their round, plump figures, their vivid coloring, and delicate, regular features. They are frequently painted, but they are triumphs of nature over art for all that, and could well afford to discard the rouge pots. They do not dress as well as they might, but their figures are so delightful; they look such thorough women, instead of suggesting a stuffed fashion plate, that one is willing to forgive San Francisco her lack of good dressmakers.—Gertrude Franklin Atherton in San Francisco Argonaut.

Ice Made with Coal, The various cold storage companies now springing up over the south and west promise to work wonders in trade and household affairs. The anhydrous ammonia, which is their cooling agent, comes from the soft coal used in making gas. It is driven off in process of cooling. It costs nothing but for fixtures to refine and make use of it. A ton of coal yields twenty gallons of ammoniated water, from which the ammonia is separated in vapor, then forced into liquefaction by a pressure of about 120 pounds to the square inch. When allowed to the square inch. CITY OFFICERS.
