—Mr. F. G. Andrews, agent for the Northrup, Brantston & Goodwin Seed Company, has been in the city for the past three days. His sales to Plattsmouth vegetable and fruit growers was quite large, he having disposed of more than $200 worth.
—As Manager Young promised the date asked for by John Dillon, of the Kendall company, he will not be able to bill Plattsmouth's favorite actor, much to the dissatisfaction of many who have rejoiced when they were informed of his coming.
—Mr. J. Goldberg, a popular merchant of Council Bluffs is in the city today making arrangements for the opening of a dry goods store tomorrow (Wednesday) in the opera house building. He is a rustler, and will no doubt be a hard deal on high prices.
—Mrs. Geyger visited Mr. Geyger at Lincoln, Thursday. She reports him having been very sick lately, but that he has improved considerable since he went there. We all hope to hear of uncle Johnny's complete recovery soon.—Wabash News.
—The funeral of Nellie Kincaid, the twelve-year old daughter of Mr. Sylvester Kincaid, occurred this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The girl had been attending school at Beatrice for some time. She had only been sick a short time, and died on Saturday last. The remains were brought to this city last night.
—Opera House Manager Young received word from the Kendall company that they will return to this city on the 15th of this month. Every person who witnessed the play spoke in the highest terms of it, and on their return we bespeak for them a bumper house. Those who enjoy a first-class comedy will surely be satisfied with the play.
—Wabash now has a news medium which will probably come to the front with as bright a face as the sun. The first edition reached us this week, and gives promise of prosperity to the little town in which it is located. With a good live newspaper in a sprouting town the place is sure to come into prominence sooner, and we now bespeak success for the News and its town. We notice that they are short of M's, in their first trip out, but we can't expect too much on the first round.
—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Plattsmouth Canning Factory held last night the directors were authorized to issue bonds to raise $10,000 for the purpose of paying the indebtedness of the company. The following gentlemen were appointed directors for the ensuing year: S. A. Davis, Fred Gorder, J. V. Weckbach, Robt Donnelly, F. P. Guthman, Fred Herrmann, A. N. Sullivan, Henry Hemple and T. H. Pollock. The directors hold a meeting at the office of A. N. Sullivan this afternoon to elect officers.
—A good number of curious people have made numerous inquiries regarding the recent drawing which occurred at the store of Mr. W. J. Warrick, and we are at last prepared to afford them the desired information concerning it. Many were under the impression that Mr. Warrick arranged things to suit himself and that he held the number (936) which called for the lot, and we are glad to inform those interested that he has dealt honestly with his customers, and today handed over the deed to the man who held the lucky number, Mr. C. G. Fleming, a farmer living about three miles southwest of Murray, who is now the fortunate owner of the lot.

New Court House For Plattsmouth.
A court house, or city hall, as it might be termed, for this city, is much needed, as is manifested nearly every day by the desire of all public bodies for more suitable locations than they are obliged to be contented with at present.
The city council and its boards, the courts, and fire companies possess no desirable quarters in which to hold their meetings, and the public feeling at present is, and has been for some time, that better accommodation should be provided.
A city hall, three stories high, would answer all purposes the public would require of it. The lower floor could be used as a station house, hose house, etc.; the second floor for the use of the council, city fire department and for the use of all city meetings. The third floor for court purposes, etc. Such a building would be an ornament to the city and a great accommodation. It would also be an emblem of enterprise, industry and wealth, of which the city could be proud.
Surely, when it is the wish of the citizens of Plattsmouth who would be willing to see such a building erected, it is the duty of the city fathers to grant their petition. Next spring is the time looked forward to by all interested to see the work on this building commenced, and now is the time to make an effort in the right direction and not wait until the coming summer passes by and another winter faces us without any advancement.
Building and Loan Meeting.
The fourth annual meeting of stockholders in the Plattsmouth Loan and Building Association was held in the G. A. R. hall Jan. 7th, for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year. When on first ballot the following gentlemen having received a majority of all votes cast were declared elected, viz: C. M. Wead, D. Hawksworth, Wm. Hayes, Jas. Ritchie, C. L. Hempl, D. A. Campbell, R. B. Windham, Wm. Ballance and J. A. Davies.
Financial report showed the association to be in good standing. Report was received from the audit committee stating that the books had been audited and found correct. Speeches were made by several members after which meeting adjourned to Jan. 18th, 1896.

OP-NING OF THE NEW STORE
IN THE MORNING.
Weep not so sorely, mother mine,
It is not as if I were dying;
'Twill not be death when I resign
This weary couch, where I'm lying.
The flowers die not when they close,
And no one dreams of heart yearning,
They may not know, but my soul knows
I shall awake in the morning.
Bid him come near who loves me so;
Fear not, I am strong to bear it,
I have a peace he may not know,
And I would that he should share it.
He used to smile when I was gay
Over this poor form's adorning,
He dares not weep to hear me say:
I shall awake in the morning.
A hand to each—mother and Jim—
I know that you both are lovers,
Soils can see when the eyes are dim;
Strange how much dying uncovers.
I never knew the wealth of love,
I had far so little earning,
'Twill not be lost in realms above,
When I awake in the morning.
Friends, tried and true, one last request:
Let me go this promise keeping,
That when this form is laid at rest,
You will not sin in your weeping.
Do some dear one who sent me here
Has spoken for my returning,
The passage is not worth a tear;
We shall all meet in the morning.

The Story of a Bracelet.
"Did you lose this?" inquired a little girl of some strangers who were picnicking near Cypress Point, on the seventeen mile drive out of Monterey, as she held up a pretty gold bracelet. It was during the Chautauquan assembly at Pacific Grove, in 1887, that a party was made up of those who took part in the lectures to enjoy the ride, which is the great feature of a visit to the Ancient City by the Sea. To come to Monterey without making the trip would be on a par with a person going to Saratoga and not drinking at the mineral springs, or spending a vacation at Coney Island without enjoying a surf bath. In response to the child's question a gentleman stepped forward and took the ornament, which he discovered bore the name of one of the young ladies stopping at El Carmelo, together with the further description that it was presented to her by admirers during her engagement at the Haymarket theatre, London. An inquiry as to whether anything had been lost brought a negative reply, but the gentleman, after giving the child some slight reward, carefully consigned the bracelet to his pocket, reserving a pleasant surprise for the evening, and all were apprised of the fact that something would occur after supper which would make at least one heart beat for joy.
The trip home was made without special incident, and at last the looked for time arrived, and one of the litterateurs present, who had been appointed to perform the duty, called on Miss Eleanor Calhoun, the talented young Californian, and returned her lost keepsake, which, it then became known, she dropped the year previous while lunching at the same spot, and there it had lain hidden in the sand to be turned up by an unknown child's foot during the owner's next visit.—San Francisco Bulletin.
James McNeil, of Cambridge, carries in his leg a piece of money which, when an eight-year-old boy in Prince Edward Island, he swallowed while running.

Jeff Lewis has got a $1,500 job on his hands. A young girl of eight or ten pounds called there on Sunday, Jan. 6th, to be fed clothed and educated.
A change was made last week in the use of school books in our school. The New Revised Eclectic Series was adopted including readers, spellers, geographies and grammars. The change we think is a good one, especially the spellers. They are a great improvement over the old books for a great many words are defined.
George Hendrickson bought a yoke of oxen last week, that is broke to drive like horses. They are harnessed with a horse collar and harness, with small chains for tugs, and have a regular horse bit in their mouths, with small ropes for lines and are guided the same as horses. When this fashion becomes universal it will be good bye to the old way of gee Buck or haw Bright.

THE CHINESE IN CONVULSIONS
They Believe the Earth Will Be Burned into Ashes.
Tremendous Comet in the Heavens
A terrible ball of fire has recently been discovered in the Heavens, and is said to be approaching the Earth at the rate of one hundred and seven million miles per day. Astronomers are somewhat alarmed as to the direction in which it is centered, and tell us that it does not change its course, it will surely be the destruction of the earth. It is estimated to be twelve times larger than the great planet Jupiter, which is the largest planet of the Universe. Astronomers tell us it will soon be visible to the people of this continent. It can be easily observed by the people of China and it is said that the Chinese by close observation have discovered upon the tail of the great comet printed in roman letters
