A Congressman Dead.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.-Congressman James N. Burnes, of Missouri, hesin a critical condition at the Willard, the result of a stroke of paralysis on the liquor for sale on his premises. floor of the house this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The sundry civil appropriation bill was under consideration at the time, and Mr. Butterworth called out to Mr. Burnes that now was the time for him (Mr. Burnes) to offer his amendment about which he had formerly consulted Mr. Butterworth. The answer returned not being audible, Mr. Butterworth approached Mr. Burnes and discovered that he had an impediment in his speech and a sluggishness in his walk. The two left the chamber and proceeded to the outer porch and the fresh air temporarily benefitted him. He and Mr. Butterworth then walked to the appropriation committee room of the house, where Mr. Burnes became rapidly worse. He could ment in the court below, but this is now not speak, and soon lost control of his reversed. left side and became unconscious. He was attended with the greatest care, and Representatives Gallinger, Shaw and Atchison, who are physicians, were summoned from the floor and everything cheap and dangerous medicines, until possible done to revive him. In the me intime his physician, Dr. Sowers, was summoned. The news of Mr. Burnes' SYRUP! It has no superior, and few illness soon became known, and coridors equals. For sale by O. P. AFATAL FIRE.

An Old Man Suffocated by a Conflagration in a Factory.

PALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 24.—A fire yesterday afternoon in the Ananan mill caused the death by suffocation of Joseph Langson, aged 72 years, and damaged the building to the extent of $12,000. The loss is fully covered by insurance. The fire started on the third floor, and the old man stuck to his post trying to quench the flunes with pailfulls of water until overcome by smoke. On the fourth and fifth floors were a large number of operatives including many women and children. They were panic stricken. Most of them made their way down the fire sampes but many were taken out of the windows by the firemen. When the fire persupses but many were taken out of the windows by the firemen. ## The Constable Sustained

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 24. - The supreme court yesterday morning reversed the decision of Judge Kavanah in the case of Edward Wert against G. W. Potts and G. Hamilton, appellants. And again the constables are sustained by the highest tribunal of the state. The action was to recover for injuries resulting from a woundlby a pistol shot inflicted by the defendants while attempting to arrest John Harty, an offender against the prohibitory law. Harty resisted with a ball bat, and in the melee that ensued, Wert, an innocent party standing some distance up the street, was shot in the knee. He sued for damages and obtained a judg-

Curious names are always interesting to the general public, and there are probably few persons who would not throw a second glance from a Broadway car as they passed the dry goods house of Mr. Jxiques, or the barber shop of Mr. Yf. The English speaking public have become more or less accustomed to the odd appearance of German proper names, but there are few persons comparatively who appreciate what peculiar meaning is hidden behind the average jumble of consonants and vowels which forms the Teuton name. One cannot imagine the possibility that the English translations of some German names could be used for the same purpose among an Anglo-Saxon people without at least causing a howl either of indignation or of hilarity. In New York's di-rectory, for example, there are such names beginning with "F" alone, as Feigenblatt, meaning "fig leaf;" Fahnestock, "flagstaff;" Faul, "lazy" or "rotten;" Faust, "fist;" Feuchtwange, "moist cheek;" Fleischhacker, "meat chopper," and Frauenheim, "home for women. And when these facts are considered there arises at once the conviction that Smith, Brown and the rest of them should feel grateful that they are not approached every day and addressed: "How are you, Mr. Home for Women?" etc.—New York Tribune, Exceptions to the Rule. "The maddest woman I ever naw," remarked Conductor Sam Bones, "was one who had just been saved from death. She was an old woman and was standing on the track used by the local trains. The engineer whistled, but she was somewhat deaf and had her ears all muffled up, and did not hear the whistle. The engine came on and on and the old lady stayed calmly on the track, with her back to the oncoming locomotive. Two young men ran from across the street and dragged the old lady from the track just in time to save her life. Well, you would have thought that they had done her an irreparable injury. She stormed and raised a row, and all the thanks the young men got for risking their lives was a torrent of abuse. "That reminds me," said Billy Norton, modestly, "of a little incident out in the San Joaquin Valley. I happened to be there at a little station when a young lady tried to step upon a moving train, and fell under the cais. I dragged her out. After she had collected her wits she flew into a passion because I had spoiled her bonnet, forgetting that her life had been saved in the act."—Oakland (Cal.) Tribune.

A Good Washington Notel.

Actor James T. Powers is the latest practical joker of note. In his last joke Richard Cummings, who plays the part of Wilfred Shadbolt in "The Yeomen of the Guard" road company, was the vic-tim. Cummings, who is an Englishman and unfamiliar with American instituand unfamiliar with American institutions, wanted to know of Powers where he could find a good hotel when their company arrived in Washington last Sunday. "Do you want to put up at a $3 or a $4 or a $5 house?" Powers asked. Cummings thought he would be satisfied with a comfortable $4 house. "The White House is the best $4 house I know in Washington," said Powers, putting on his most serious air. "It's right in the heart of the city and everything nice. I can recommend it." Cummings called a cab, said "White House" to the driver cab, said "White House" to the driver and in ten minutes was having a heated argument with the gatekeeper of the White House grounds. The controversy ended in the gatekeeper's favor and Cummings went in search of Powers with a club, —Philadelphia Times.

What to Wear.

Attention to a few general rules would prevent many strange appearances. For instance, a woman should never be dressed too little, nor girls too much, nor should a woman of small stature attempt large patterns, nor a bad walker flounces; stout throats should not carry feathers, nor high shoulders a shawl. From the highest to the lowest there is not a style of beauty with which the plain straw hat is not on the best of understandings. It refines the homeliest and composes the wildest; it gives a coquettish young lady a little dash of demurement, and the demure one a slight touch of coquetry; it makes the blooming beauty look more fresh and the pale one more interesting; it makes the plan woman look, at all prents, a lady, and the lady more lady like still.—Leisure

Not Exactly Breathless Impetugair.

If I were searching for a simile for slowness, more expressive than those of the snail and molasses, I should use the Washington vehicle of street transportation. Not long since I was right on a car line, and could have ridden where I wanted to go for 5 cents, but I was in a hurry and took a cab, for which I paid 50 cents, telling the man of my anxiety to save time, Many time, called to plied that he couldn't. Finally in desperation I used unusually strong language in demanding why — he could not go faster.

"Because," he said calmly, "the car's in the way." He was following in the track just behind that fine vehicle which I had rejected as slow.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

A Badly Mistaken Bear,

A slichigan girl, while picking black-berries, met a black bear among the briars. She turned to run and tore her dress on a briar so as to expose her pa-tent wire bustle. The bear, mistaking the bustle for a circus cage, struck for the tall timber, leaving the girl to do without hugging until a dry goods clerk closed his store at 9 o'clock the next evening—Peck's Sun evening.-Peck's Sun.
