It must have brought a smile to the face of every saloon keeper in town when they saw by the Omaha Republican Saturday that Polk was represented as saying that he made no anti-submission pledges.

In Saturday's Republican Senator Polk calls attention to the fact that he received a majority of some three hundred, yes, and some of his associates on the ticket especially those who were defeated, have reason to know just what his majority cost them.

Soon after the last campaign closed it was charged that a great increase in the expense of running the Brooklyn navy yard had marked the few weeks before the close of the campaign and that this increased expense was for democratic campaign funds.

We take pleasure in acknowledging a beautiful Scott's Emulsion Calendar for 1889 from Messrs. Scott & Browne, New York. This calendar is entitled "Meditation," representing an attractive little girl, is printed in twelve colors, and is a fine specimen of the lithographic art.

SAMOA.

As time rolls on and things come to light, they show up worse and worse for Germany. It now transpires that the commander of the only American man-of-war that was in the Samoa matters received a dispatch from Mr. Bayard directing him to sail away from Samoa.

ARKANSAS JUSTICE.

There is good reason to believe that the assassins of Col. Clayton are within easy reach if the officers of the law cared to seek them out and bring them to punishment. They must be known to the people of the community in which their infamous crime was committed.

to be certified against him when a majority of the votes were cast for him. The men who perpetrated these rascalities are not hard to find, and it is certainly reasonable to believe that some clew to the actual assassins might be obtained by investigation in that direction.

The fact is, however, that not so much as a suspicion has been brought to light in the matter. It does not appear that the officers have taken any steps to discover the murderers. The legislature has offered a reward of $5000, but nobody appears to be anxious to earn it by giving the desired information.

"A Word to the Wise is Sufficient." Catarrh is not simply an inconvenience, unpleasant to the sufferer and disgusting to others—it is an advanced outpost of approaching disease of worse type.

THE WEATHER PROPHECY.

Who is it that says, when the sun is bright, "It will positively rain before 'tis night?" And when the night has come, yet misty rain Who is it up and babbles cries again, "My friends, ere morning dawns, I know We shall be buried deep in snow?"

The scene of ghostly experience has been shifted to the sea. An English newspaper says the mate of a ship, name not given, ordered some of the youths to reef the maintop.

At length the mate having sent up the whole watch, ran up the shrouds himself, and when he reached the haunted spot heard the dreadful words distinctly uttered in his ear: "It blows hard."

Another of our officers mentioned that on one of his voyages he remembered a boy having been sent up to clear a rope which had got foul above the mizzenmast. Presently, however, he came back trombling and almost tumbling to the bottom, declaring that he had seen "Old Davy" aft the cross-trees.

Max and Moritz were the only male youngsters in the family. The first named one day brought a dog home, a horrid, ugly creature, to the great disgust of the female portion of the household.

ANTS FOR EATING.

They Are Said to Be as Good as Pickles. Some as Large as Foxes. Should a Maine lumberman find a stump of rotten log with thousands of big black ants in it, he scoops the torpid insects from their winter domicile and fills his dinner pail with them.

Ants are said by those who have tasted them to have a peculiarly agreeable, strongly acid flavor. The woodsmen, whose food consists largely of salted meats, naturally have a craving for something sour. "Ants are the very best of pickles," said an old "logger," who confessed to having devoured thousands of them.

Herodotus tells of ants that live in the deserts of India which are in size "somewhat less than dogs, but larger than foxes." These creatures, in heaping up the earth after the manner of common ants, were a very efficient aid to the Indian gold hunters.

Webster's Blue Suit. Daniel Webster went to college in a homespun suit, of which probably every thread was carded, spun and woven by his mother's hand from the wool of their own sheep.

So Webster was fitted out in indigo blue from collar to ankle—unbecoming for his swart skin—and set off grand and sophisticated. Before reaching Harvard, there came on one of those dreary rainy rains which, like the Scottish mist, wet a man to the skin.
