HERRMANN'S. A Cass County Town Experiences A conflagration of the First Magnitude.

Supposed to be Incendiary Work

DISASTER AT WABATH.

A most unfortunate circumstance befell the little town of Wabash, this county, Thursday night. The town is a small place six miles west of Weeping Water, on the Lincoln branch of the M. P.; is located on the corner of sections 25, 26, 35 and 36, with one section line on Main street, which runs east and west; Depot street runs north and south, and crosses Main street. At the southwest corner of these streets was located a twostory frame building - the first building crected there and was put up with the first lumber sold by Recorder W. H.

Pool after opening a lumber yard there several years ago - the property of Jacobs & Horton, who occupied the first floor with a general merchandise store. The fire originated in or near the oil room of Jacobs & Co.'s store, and when discovered was bursting through the roof. This was about 1 o'clock Friday morning. The whole town turned out with buckets and tubs, but efforts to control the flames were vain. The ice house in the rear of the store caught and there the flames leaped eagerly to Scot Harn's residence and billiard hall which were quickly devoured. The Harn family were rescued in their night clothes and most of the household goods saved.

Then occurred a hard fight for the lum ber yard, e evator and depot. It seemed at times as though they could not be saved, for the wind blew great brands Barker, is quite ill. She is S4 years of of fire am ng the lumber, but careful watching, wet blankets and willing workers triumphed.

No estimate of the value of the merchandise and buildings destroyed can be made. Located up stairs in the Jacobs building were the News printing office, Modern Woodman and Farmer's Alliance, all of which were consumed with all books and records. Emil Holke had just recently opened a jewelry shop in the Jacobs store and lost all. Dr. Dearing had an office up stairs and lost his accounts. Scot Harn forfeited his home without insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is thought the safe in Jacobs' store was attempted to be blown, as large sums of money were at times kept there for the purpose of paying the grain checks of Towle & Shank. Thursday afternoon the firm placed about $200 in the safe, and there was probably $400 in the safe altog-ther. . Mr. Jacobs slept at the store during the winter, but about a week ago moved to the hotel. Geo Smith, the clerk, who closed the store at 10 o'clock. says the fire was all out at that time. The conviction is strong that the burglar theory is correct, and that the store was fired to hide the robbery.

the city call and see them. City Council Meeting.

A special session of the city council was held in the council chamber last night The mayor, clerk, marshal and all councilmen but Weckbach were present,

The first matter to come up was a com, munication from the city treasurer, requesting that the city marshal be appointed deputy treasurer to collect all occupation tax. The matter was discussed for a long time by the council and voted on several times and finally was voted down, the impression seeming to be that the marshal had all authority necessary in the matter of compeling all parties doing business to have a license.

A resolution was introduced and adopted, authorizing the mayor and clerk to make notice of the election April 2, 1889, for the purpose of electing in each of the old wards, one councilman, store, but he halted at the curbstone in and two in the Fifth ward, one front, being unable to lift his feet over for one, the- other for two years; and for two members of the school board for three years each.

The following claims against the city were allowed on the various funds: Citizens bank, room rent for board of public works $60 00 John Fitzpatrick, salary R. Johnson, labor..... 7 50 G. H. Poisall, salary 44 65

A communication from the owners of the water works in Boston was read. It related to the order to lay 3,400 feet more of water main made last July and ture of streets. D. M. The matter was, after some discussion, referred to the committee on are and water. The official bond of the city surveyor, H. C. Schmidt, was read and approved. Mr. McCallen moved an ordinance be drafted ordering the property owners to clean and keep clean the pavement on Main street as there was considerable complaint.

Mr. Murphy replied that the payament Greusel, and Mrs. H. E. Palmer were had not yet been accepted by the city and it therefore had no right to remove the sand, but Riley would remove it and and replace it with the proper material, the city here, not beautiful, but one that and besides, the city could not compel an owner to clean the street, it only book, you will find the largest assort- could forbid him sweeping rubbish into corner lots and -" just then a Nebraska

THE JOKER.

That is what they call him. He is peculiar specimen of humanity, a sort o Yankee journalist; he likes to sing "Swee Home," but is a hard fellow to get any fun out of; wears a long face and a grin like a full moon. When there is any fu. going on, however, he is always there, generally stands around and looks on. but when he gets warmed up he is as lively as any. He never learned any trade, but somehow he always gets enough to eat; for an odd name he has been termed THE JOKER of the family, and through the advice of his friends is going to suit his fancy with an occassional article "in print." He may write in the singular or plural of the first person, or the singular third.

Among the many things that may be termed disgusting and unwelcome to the vision, is a slouchy man with long bushy hair and beard, which only enjoys the carressings of a comb once a month. But last night at the church THE JOKER was crowded into the gallery, and a most perfect retuge from the glare of the chan delier was obtained from behind a man with such a head-dress. Everything is ler began talking the church was full and of some use in its place.

There is some talk in Lincoln of chang ing the names of some of the streets, to avoid confusion now existing. Lincoln just hang on to the names she now has imposed upon her streets, and add a few more, THE JONER believes it possible for belief in their Savior with a word of her to become a resort for the nomencla-

> It is a deplorable fact that some people are green, and that it takes a long while for some from the country to get the green rubbed off of them. A man very green, for so early in the season, fresh from the east, was met at the depot the other evening; he wore a rubber coat and carried a rabies grip, and enquired "where is the ticket opice ?" He was so green that even THE JOKER was touched with sympathy. Instructions were given him from the agent, and after asking every other man around the depot and finally returning to the agent, he found the train for Ashland.

is well located for the future, and I understand a great building boom is just about to break out; I wonder if geveral March breeze came sweeping down the street and wedged four corner lots and eight wagon loads of paving sands into and is there yet taking regular hot and old washes for his mouth. DOWN ON PAUL.

Paul is evidently some unfortunate lad hat the boys are evidently down on. THE JOKER took a strole out in the Secand ward the other evening and stopped to watch some boys at marbles. Another boy came up and started this conversa-

"Paul got a whippin' 'while ago !" "Who?

"Paul Puddin'. "

"Did he ?"

"Yes, he was callin' me 'crazy' and his nother come out and give him a good icken'.'

"That's good, he ought to git a agin." And the boys all seemed to join in the common consent that Paul could not get nore "lickens" than were good for him.

The Largest Attendance Yet at the Revival Meetings Last Night.

Miller for Another Week.

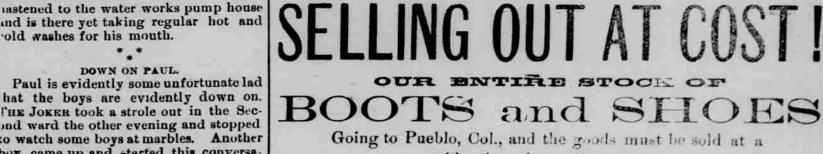

To attempt to get a larger congregation out to hear the evangelist in the Metho dist church, than there was last evening, would hardly succeed. Before Mr. Mil every inch of standing room occupied, while many were turned away at the door. The lesson for the meeting was the para-ble of the King's son — Matt. 22: 1 12. A talk of about twenty five minutes were made by the evangelist, and two solos were beautifully sang, and with much expression. At the close of the meeting the altar was crowded wity those seeking salvation, and a number expressed their large number, probably a hundred. Evangelist Miller has had very success ful meetings during the past week, and last night by a unanimous vote of the congregation it was decided to invite him to remain another week, and Mr. Miller will continue the meetings during that time. Tomorrow he will conduct the meetings at the usual hour, and in the afternoon will lead the singing at the gospel service for men in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association.
