CITY CORDIALS.

—The Elmwood schools give a literary entertainment tonight for the benefit of the schools.

—As the weather grows warmer the boys begin to long for a boat ride. Several new boats have recently been launched.

—The anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. to be held at the rooms on Main and Fourth streets on next Thursday evening, will be a grand social event.

—A grand gospel meeting for men only will be held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms tomorrow at 4 p. m. to which all are invited to attend.

—Dr. A. T. Withers, the Union block dentist, has just issued a very instructive and beneficial circular on dentistry, which he distributes free to everybody.

—Strangers in the city are especially welcome at the men's gospel meetings on Sunday at 4 p. m. at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association.

—Gen. Supt. T. E. Calvert, of the B. & M. who was in the city yesterday, sent his sympathy to the bereaved family of E. S. Greusel, with some handsome flowers.

—Hardly a week goes by but what THE HERALD is enquired of for "a house to rent." We always refer to our advertising columns, and if there is any property there advertised it rents, as was the case this morning.

—Several of the streets are settling over the sewer mains, and on Main street the pavement has sunk in several places; but these deficiencies will soon be repaired. The pavement is to be corrected by the contractors.

—The Right Rev. Geo. Worthington D. D., of Omaha, will be at St. Luke's parish tomorrow evening for confirmation. The services will be open to the public and all are invited to be present who may desire to attend.

—Several large dogs were seen with muzzles on today in a group, apparently consoling themselves over the terrible mishap that has come over their "chomppers." They all looked very much humiliated, but seemed to be resigned to their fate.

—An addition of two, with double-barreled shot guns, was added to the force on dog shooting this afternoon, and dogs, a whole litter at a time, are being cleaned out of existence. Everybody is well pleased with the move and it cannot proceed too fast.

—From all over the state the papers talk of "the fine spring"—"unprecedented prosperity," etc. This is all true, doubtless, for Nebraska is one of the garden spots of the world, but there is no place in this "garden spot" that is able to down Plattsmouth this season.

—Miss Alice Shepherd has completed a very fine picture in Crayon work of one Edwin Landseer's game picture. It is now on exhibition in the window of O. P. Smith & Co's drug store. It is well worth $100 in a large city. It will be raffled off for 50 cts. a chance.

—City Marshal Dunn was out in the evening yesterday with a rifle doing bold work among the canine of the city. It was a good move, by order of the mayor, and highly commendable, and most people would like to see every unclaimed cur, and many that are, meet with a like fate.

—Justice Stanley Mathews, associate justice of the United States supreme court since 1881, died at Washington at 10:20 a. m., yesterday. He had been an invalid for more than a year from rheumatism, and died after a severe attack of chills and fever. The amount of local matter today prevents further notice.

—A runaway team on Main street yesterday caused considerable excitement. The black team belonging to C. W. Holmes, driven by Geo. Staley to a closed carriage to meet trains, had been tied to a telephone pole on lower Main street to await the arrival of No. 2. The train was a few minutes late and in some manner during the restless standing the horse hitched to the post slipped the bridle from its head and then the team, breaking from the bridle, made a start up Main street. They got into a pretty good gallop and cleared the street till they reached Fifth street, but there Ed. Johnson, a B. & M. fireman, managed to catch the reins of the animal with a bridle and running along beside the team drew them up to the sidewalk in front of M. B. Murphy's where they stopped. Not a particle of damage was done to the horses, carriage or harness, except the broken bridle.

District Court Today.

The last regular jury case in this term of court has been disposed of, and the jury also—The Champion Machine Co. vs. Fred Gorder. As was stated yesterday in the HERALD, the company sued Mr. Gorder for $314 on machinery, while Mr. Gorder acknowledged this bill and brought into court a larger claim against the company, as rebate on eight machines and for two deficient machines. The case was submitted to the jury yesterday noon. In the evening they rendered a verdict favoring defendant with a judgment of $97.50. In court this morning the attorneys for plaintiff petitioned to have the court set aside the jury's verdict and grant a new trial. The petition, however, was not granted.

The evidence in the case of E. L. Reed vs. School District No. 22, was still being given in this afternoon. The case was taken up yesterday. Reed sues the district for about $800, and there seems to be considerable evidence to come.

Joe's Grand Opening.

Last night a few minutes before 8 o'clock the clothing store of Joe Klein was thrown open to the public to come in and investigate his immense stock of spring goods. A stock of all kinds of clothing and gents' furnishing goods were on the first floor, and on the second were trunks, valises and traveling equipments. The Bohemian band was there and continually kept up sweet strains of music, and extra clerks were on hand to show the great crowd around and answer questions. Long before the doors were opened a large crowd waited patiently on the street, and for an hour or two the store was a jam of spectators from end to end. Little mementoes of the occasion were given to the gentlemen and ladies. A thousand alate memorandums were given to gentlemen, and as many looking glasses to the ladies, and yet they were far short of going around to all, so that the number of visitors was very large.

Kimwood Enterprise.

The Elmwood Echo has great gall in announcing the way merchants sell goods out there, as the readers can judge from the following:

"A young gentleman, who works for the Hottle boys south of town, was buying a new hat at one of our stores Saturday when he suddenly staggered back, his eyes lifted heavenward and he fell to the floor as one dead. Dr. Hobbs was called in and soon brought the young man out all right. He had fainted, caused by a rush of blood to the head. This is the doctor's version; but we believe the hat was offered so cheap that it made his head swim; and thus fainted."

Wealth That Was Not.

When John Greye died Monday it was supposed that he had considerable wealth, probably $15,000. Mrs. Fred Goos, of this city, is said to be a cousin, and the members of his father's family all live in Germany. If the man had wealth it is yet a mystery where it is. It seems he never said anything definitely about his possessions before death, and left no will. His effects show besides his property, only about $700 in notes. If other money is out the trace of it has not yet been found. The property will probably be sold and the money sent to relatives abroad.

School Board Meeting.

The school board held a meeting last night, principally to consider bids for printing some school material. The bids of the Journal and Herald were considered, and the contract awarded to the Herald, work to be complete in thirty days.

The resignation of Miss Etta Searl as teacher in room 3 was read but no action taken on it. Several miscellaneous questions came up and were discussed and board adjourned.

No Difference with Death.

Death comes to the young and old all the same. Yesterday an old man, probably 70 years old, named John M. Kinzie, living near the old foundry died. He was buried this morning at Oak Hill cemetery.

This morning an infant child, aged 1 month, of Mr. A. Neleigh, died. Mr. Neleigh is employed in the blacksmith and wagon shop of Mike Schnellbacher.

To Have an Oil House.

Permission has been secured from the B. & M. company by S. A. Davis, Plattsmouth's oil merchant, to erect an oil house on the railroad grounds. 24x40 feet, in which to store oil. About 1,300 barrels per annum are consumed in this city and railroad location would be a great convenience and is a proper thing.

PERSONALS.

T. J. Thomas left this morning for Nebraska City.

Mrs. C. H. Parmele returned from Elmwood this morning.

Miss Hattie Holmes, from near Rock Bluffs, was in the city today.

W. J. Hesser was a passenger to Lincoln last night to visit his daughter.

Frank Clemons, who is a train dispatcher on some western road, arrived in the city last evening to visit at his home.

THE JOKER.

What becomes of the humble bees in the winter time is a puzzling question to a great many minds, but the JOKER notices they are already on deck to be sat down on when the picnic season appears.

The JOKER has observed that questions don't generally bother his mind very much, until forcibly brought to his attention. His shin bone met a board in the sidewalk at right angles, and he has been wondering why the calf of his leg was not put on in front.

From the general bright appearance of the countenances of the Plattsmouth people, and the business move they all wear, the JOKER is satisfied there will be no dies on Plattsmouth this year.

"I tell you it's a fact," remarked an observing juror a few days ago, from the west end, "Plattsmouth is all bustle this spring." The JOKER rejoices in the fact that it is not the kind that gets sat down upon so frequently.

The "straws" which have basked in the warm sunshine of the north side of Main street since last fall, are beginning to move their headquarters across to the shady side.

The JOKER does not set himself up to be any sort of political authority, or even a judge of human nature, but he knows this: That office seekers are not a disappointed race, as he used to supposed. He has never seen one yet who failed to get a position, but declared that he didn't want it. It is lucky for human happiness that men are so constituted.

Even though Easter comes on Sunday it cannot be too careful about making its appearance this year. The JOKER observes the hens are laying for it.

As the city marshal goes about the city searching for unclaimed dogs, a great mob of boys follow him. Around each dog that comes to grief this mob gathers and investigates the course of the bullet and observes the last muscle that moves. The JOKER notices that invariable the inside line of boys are those who are admirers of "Wild Bill" and "Old Ironsides Abroad," and who are sorry that the "Wild West" which they read, about is fast fading away.

WORDS OF SYMPATHY.

[To the bereaved at the home of Mr. E. S. Greusel.]

The sudden visitation of death at your home leaves the remaining ones a great sorrow to bear. The darling was snatched from your arms in such haste that little time was left for your care.

The thought of one kind act, to a dear one distressed is a source of great comfort when away from us. And to be deprived of a chance that act to perform.

Adds sorrow to sorrow at times when we mourn Father, mother, sister and brother. When you pause to reflect on what might have been.

There is still a grand thought for your cheer. Though her sufferings were intense, during the last few hours. And she endured untold pain, she was taken away quickly, and what is your loss.

All have to die, be it sooner or later. None are here left to dwell. And as loss to one is gain to another. We see, in His wisdom, He doeth all things well.
