Burned With Powder.

A man in a most distressing condition was taken from No. 7—the Schuyler train—this morning here, and placed in charge of Cass county. He came from Louisville where he was badly used up from an explosion of powder last night. Nothing is known of the accident except as the man tells it himself. From his story, he is a laboring man and arrived in Louisville yesterday in search of employment, having two dollars in his possession. Unsuccessful at night, and not wishing to spend his money for sleeping quarters, he took shelter for the night on some straw in the powder cave at the old stone quarry belonging to Mr. Stout. During the night some one came up to the mouth of the cave, lighted a match, looked in and threw in the match. The bottom of the cave was well spread with blasting powder, having been used for a storage room a long time and small quantities constantly being spilled, and there was immediately an explosion of loose powder which burned the refuge in a terrible manner. Some doubt the man's match story and think he was smoking and caused the explosion himself, but no matter how it was caused, the skin on his hands, wrists and face was burned in a fearful manner. After the accident he succeeded in making his way to the saloon of Gus Nordvall, where a crowd was celebrating the election, and he was given medical care and brought before the commissioners here this morning and sent to the poor farm, to await recovery. His face was swollen so this morning he could not give his name distinctly, but it sounded like "Deetrich." Whoever he is he is a stranger to all in Louisville.

A Sprained Knee.

T. Finnigan, who belongs to one of the steam shovel gangs of the B. & O. of this city, received a sprain to one of his knee joints in the yards this morning. The shovel gang with all necessary equipments for work had their cars made up in No. 29, freight, and were prepared to out on the road to do work at or beyond Lincoln. Finnigan did not board the train till it started, and in his attempt to do so he was thrown from the car and received a severe sprain to a knee joint. He was taken to Dr. Livingston's office and cared for.

April 30, 1889. April 30, 1889.

The costumes of those who will represent different characters in the Washington Inaugural entertainment, will be true to the style of one hundred years ago. The gentlemen's costumes have been ordered from an eastern costumer. There will also be forty maidens dressed in the costumes of the different colonies.

Attention I. O. O. F.

There will be a special meeting tonight at 8 o'clock of Plattsmouth Lodge No. 7, which all Odd Fellows are requested to attend, to make arrangements for the funeral of Brother G. F. Gyger.

B. C. Esq., Sec.

The Cass county bar was increased by one more member this morning. Judge Joseph C. Newberry is the new member. Mr. Newberry is well known in Cass county and has attained enough knowledge of law through all his hardships as a drayman to pass a creditable examination. He was examined by the committee appointed by the court last night and received his certificate this morning. It is Mr. Newberry's intention to sell out and go west to some new field.

Newspapers are generally complaining of the burden the cities are bearing in the way of tramps. The Omaha police armed themselves with shot guns yesterday and raided a favorite tramp neighborhood, but they scattered like a flock of birds only to light somewhere else.

Election excitement is now over and the people are quietly turning their attention and money toward playing for and purchasing tickets to the entertainment to be given Friday night by the philharmonic society, for that will be a rich musical treat.

Fred Gyger, an old resident of Plattsmouth, who has lived in Omaha during the last two years died there yesterday. The remains will arrive in this city on the flyer tomorrow afternoon for interment.

The ladies of the Christian church have planned to give a social at the home of county clerk Bird Critchfield. Invitation to attend is extended to all.

Yesterday was election day at Louisville also. We learn that the same old town board was reinstated. We are unable to give the names.

Eight Mile Grove.

Don't forget Sunday school at 10 a. m., preaching at 11.

Mrs. Effa Morrow of Murray is visiting cousins in this place.

Prof. W. S. White of Pleasant Hill was in the Grove yesterday.

English sparrows are quite numerous throughout this vicinity.

Miss Nora Brown passed through here Sunday going to her school west of here.

An emigrant passed through here last week going to Chase county, this state.

Quite an exciting fight was witnessed last week in the grove. Two bulls met.

Relatives from Lincoln have been visiting at Mr. Richardson's the past week.

Spring wheat is up and is growing nicely considering the dryness of the weather.

Sunday school was well attended last Sunday. We are glad to see the good move made at this place.

We can see almost any evening that we happen to pass, youngsters enjoying a boat ride on Mr. Jenkins' lake.

Mr. T. Smith and his hired man agreed last week to dissolve partnership. Mr. S's new man began work Monday.

An express load of youngsters sailed at Mr. Smith's Sunday evening. We will not endeavor to give their names.

Mr. Beverage has put up his new windmill and there is an abundance of water in the new well to force out each day.

Several parties passed through the Grove this week with hay ladders on their wagons. We are not sure but it was the Hayseed & Co. of Cottonwood.

Our school board met Monday and elected a treasurer for the ensuing term (Mr. Beverage being the lucky man) and performed other duties pertaining to the district. A seven months school was voted.

L. J. Farmer: "A Wisconsin man thinks he has settled the deborning problem.—No more horns! no more sawing of the horns! All breeds may at a nominal cost, be effectively relieved of the demand of nature to grow horns! This is the confident announcement a modest man is almost prepared to make to the world.—Chemistry work wondrous changes.—The world still moves; and inventions still assert her leadership. A chemical compound is now the agent for covering up the points of the young calves head so that the horn is never permitted to begin growth. The solution forms a light, firm crust, which the horn cannot penetrate. After a few generations this treatment will effect a permanent polled condition. This is the new claim, the demonstration of which is awaited with interest. We may give further particulars later."

One of the most widely known as well as one of the most successful specialists in the west is Dr. P. Janss, President of the Nebraska State Medical and Surgical Institute. His untiring energy and his unceasing devotion to his profession has built up for him one of the largest practices in the west and has made him one of the heaviest property holders in Grand Island and Hall county. At the Riddle House Thursday, April 4th.

Ed. Threlkeld was in Omaha yesterday purchasing fruit. Today he has on sale the finest naval oranges to be had.

The Hornbill's Defenses.

A traveler in South America writes: We passed the nests of several hornbill birds. When they are ready to lay the nest is made in a hollow tree; the female goes within, leaving her whole immense bill sticking out, and the male plasters the hole around it up with mud, that hardens at once; she lays her eggs and sits on them until they are hatched, the male feeding her all the time. The monkeys and snakes looking for eggs see this formidable looking beak sticking out of the hole and are afraid to tackle it, so she hatches in peace. The poor male in feeding her gets so poor that he can hardly fly.—Philadelphia Times.
