CITY CORDIALS.

—S. A. Davis is erecting his oil house on the B. & M. premises.
—A very enjoyable evening is reported from the W. C. T. U. social last night at the residence of Mrs. C. E. Wescott.
—A number of ex-shop boys left the city yesterday and today, some for their homes, others to look for employment elsewhere.
—Mr. L. E. Karnes has ordered an outfit with which to manufacture rubber stamps, and will soon be able to fill orders in that line.
—Manager Young says that everybody should go to the entertainment tonight at the opera house and those that fail to go will miss a rare treat.
—Don't fail to go to the opera house tonight, and you will be entertained by Prof. West and his wife. Lots of fun and you will all go home well pleased.
—H. F. Lenhoff was in the city yesterday and ordered a stock of apples shipped to his store at Superior by Phillip Krause. Phil's business is branching out considerably.

—Mrs. Ossenkopf, of Louisville, died last night at Louisville. She was an aged lady, mother of John Ossenkopf, a grain dealer there, and Wm. Ossenkopf, a prominent farmer.

—The Clair Patee company is one of the best dramatic companies that has appeared—the work was well applauded.—Omaha Bee. At the opera house, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

—No company which approaches the caliber of the Clair Patee company, in years, if ever before, has played a week's engagement in Sioux City. It was the surprise, the delightful surprise of the season.—Sioux City Journal. At the opera house, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

—The spring opening at the Bazar was held yesterday and today. Through the weather kept many from attending, yet a good number of ladies were out. A fine stock of spring millinery goods was handsomely displayed and many were the expressions of admiration of the new styles in bonnets and hats for ladies and children. The opening will continue tonight.

The Same Old Game.

Nemaha County Herald: Lightning rod swindlers are at present working the farmers of the county. An outfit visited the farm of J. W. Horn in Lafayette precinct last week and agreed to rod his house for $25, a contract for which Mr. Horn signed. After the work was done the men presented an order properly signed by Mr. Horn which called for $80. The fellows were liable to get into trouble and compromised for $30. Beware of them.

TWO GOOD FRIENDS.

They Make an Accommodating Wager that Brings Them into Court.

Blake vs. Pratt.

Justice Pottenger's court was occupied today with a case that is rare in its details, and is much of a case of friend prosecuting friend. From the evidence adduced in the case it seems on the afternoon of February 18, D. H. Pratt made the proposition to Johnny Blake that if he would not drink for two weeks he would purchase a diamond ring of F. Carruth, price $225, but which could be bought for $200 cash, and make him a present of it. Mr. Blake replied that if Mr. Pratt would not drink for ten days he would buy the ring for him. To this Mr. Pratt replied (according to testimony of plaintiff) "and Mrs. Blake shall have the ring." This virtually insured the ring for Mrs. Blake and Blake "set 'em up" and that was the last of it for ten days. After that time the two went to Carruth's jewelry store where Blake gave a check for $200 for the ring which was given to Mr. Pratt. When Mr. Blake thought it was about time for the ring to come into Mrs. Blake's possession, it was withheld, and H. C. Ritchie and Con O'Connor were sent by him to see Mr. Pratt. Pratt replied to their advice that if Mr. Blake would come and respectfully ask for the ring he could have it. This was not done and the case went on and Mr. Pratt finally sent the ring to his wife at Omaha. Through Attorney Gering Mr. Blake then issued a reply at Omaha for the ring, and that brought the case into court. Pratt called Byron Clark to be his attorney and the case came up this morning before Justice Pottenger. Fred Egenberger, bar-tender for plaintiff, Con O'Connor, H. C. Ritchie, Johnny Blake, H. D. Pratt, Riley, the brick mason, and F. Carruth were called as witnesses.
About the statement that Mrs. Blake should have the ring, Mr. Pratt testified that after the agreement was made he said "Mrs. Blake shall wear the ring," but to this Blake generously objected and the proposition was withdrawn.
There was no special bad feeling manifest in any part of the proceedings, but in one or two instances there was an evident forgetfulness of circumstances, which it was not desired to state. A short argument was made by the attorneys and the judge took the case under consideration till 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Death of General Hatch.

Four Robinson, Neb., April 12.—General Edward Hatch, who was so badly hurt by being thrown from his carriage nearly a month ago, sustaining a fracture of the hip bone, died suddenly at Reveille this morning. Up to the time of his death the General was supposed to be improving and on the road to rapid recovery. His sudden demise was a great shock to both officers and privates of the garrison, and the intelligence caused the deepest sorrow. In his sudden death the army loses a most gallant officer, of splendid war record, and his associates a generous and hospitable friend and companion. His military record, from April, 1861, to date, is one of continuous activity on the field, both during the rebellion and since in Indian wars. The general was a native of Maine, but early removed to Iowa. At the breaking out of the civil war in 1861 he became captain of the Second Iowa cavalry, rising to be colonel of the regiment in June, 1862. He was in command at New Madrid, Island No. 10, and Corinth. He commanded a brigade at Iuka and subsequently a division of cavalry in the Army of Tennessee. He was appointed brigadier general of volunteers May 30, 1864, and commanded a cavalry division at the battles of Franklin and Nashville and the subsequent pursuit of Hood's army. He was brevetted brigadier and major general for gallantry in the last two battles. In July 1866, he was appointed colonel of the Ninth United States cavalry. Since then, in Texas, New Mexico and Colorado, he has maintained his reputation of the war in numerous combats with hostile Indians. The army has indeed lost a gallant soldier, officer and gentleman.

FRED HERRMANN. FRED HERRMANN.

H. Boeck's Furniture Emporium
It is a fact that Henry Boeck has as complete a stock of elegant furniture at his block on Sixth and Main streets, as any store in Chicago. Handsome furnishings for home and office can be purchased there from a fine upright piano to a hand looking glass; at present, however, a great demand is being made on his refrigerators, which are such a comfort during the hot summer season. Do not fail to furnish your dining room with one.
