CITY CORDIALS.

April 30, 1889, that's what most people are waiting for.

No. 5. was so loaded with passengers this morning that some were compelled to stand.

The ladies of St. Luke's Sewing society will meet at the home of Mrs. R. R. Livingston tomorrow afternoon.

The two young men arrested last Saturday night for being drunk and disorderly, and fined and sent to jail, were utilized today to clean the gutters on Main street, by order of Mayor Richey.

Iowa State Register: "There has never been better singing and acting in Des Moines than that given by the Bensberg company at the Grand last night." This company will be at the opera house tomorrow evening.

At a meeting of the firemen last night all companies were instructed to appear on the streets Tuesday, April 30, at 1 p. m., with their hose carts and the hook and ladder company, in charge of their foreman, uniformed, to participate in the grand procession.

An old man was on the streets yesterday with quite a tale to tell. According to his story he has been living in Pattawatomie county, Kansas, and being without support or money was trying to reach relatives in Cass county, Iowa. He left Kansas a month ago to walk to his destination and had got along all right this far. Besides his tale to tell he carried a valise.

If a person will just have patience these windy days on the street when his hat blows off and rolls down the street, and does not chase it, it will surely come back; as was demonstrated this morning by the post office. The hat of a citizen blew off and led a race at the head of a cloud of dust for the river. A small boy just coming out of the bakery with his arms full of bread, made a break for the hat and after a hundred yard chase captured it, and returned to find the owner, to be praised for his fleetness on foot, which satisfied him for his trouble.

Mr. E. Van Tuyl, tax agent of the B. & M. was in the city today, and left with the county clerk, for his and the county commissioner's use, a complete list of all the real estate of the B. & M. in this city. The lots were separated into two lists, road bed and depot lots (not taxable) and shops and other grounds (or taxable). The company seems to have always had trouble in the real estate assessments here. Some of the road bed would be assessed, and some assessable property would be left unassessed, but this company's statement—of their property (given as a petition to the commissioners) will secure proper assessing of all lots, and be a handy reference.

The Washington Centennial.

One hundred years ago next Tuesday, April 30, George Washington, the first president of the United States, was inaugurated. Every patriotic citizen feels that the day should be celebrated in a becoming manner, therefore the committee having the matter in charge have concluded to have a street parade on that day. It is hoped that every organization of every kind in the city will turn out and help to swell the ranks. All who conclude to do so, will report to J. W. Johnson, marshal of the day, on or before Monday, the 29th day of April, for orders.

The procession will form on Chicago avenue right resting in front of Judge Chapman's residence. The line of march will be as follows to-wit:

Northeast on Chicago avenue to Pearl street, east on Pearl to Sixth street, north on Sixth to Main street, east on Main to Second street, counterturning west on Main to Fourth street, north on Fourth to Vine street, west on Vine to Seventh street, south on Seventh to Main street, east on Main to Second street where the column will break ranks.

All parties will please take particular notice that the bell will ring exactly at 2 o'clock p. m., which will be the signal for all organizations to move promptly out of their respective halls and march directly to Chicago avenue, where they will be assigned places in the column as they arrive on the ground. The procession will move exactly at 2:20.
