CITY CORDIALS.

—During the last few mornings there has been light frosts, and even ice froze on standing water exposed, but vegetation does not seem to have been affected.

—Yesterday afternoon the Washington banquet characters assembled at the opera house in their costumes and had a group picture taken with the beautiful surroundings.

—To the name of Mrs. Merges was ascribed the credit of the training of the Kindergarten for the Inaugural Banquet in last night's HERALD, but it should have been Miss Majors.

—The Old Stadelmann building was placed on the lots at the corner of Pearl and Sixth street today and the lots on Main and Sixth will soon be cleared for the graders to go work.

—In last Saturday night's HERALD a local stated that the board of directors of the Brick and Terra Cotta works had declared a 10% dividend. Instead, the stockholders recommended that the board declare such a dividend. The board meets some time next week.

—Mr. R. W. Clemmons, day operator at Orepolis, is attending court as a witness at Papillion, Sarpy county, in the criminal case of State of Nebraska vs. the tramp accused of pushing Brakeman Tom Sullivan from a train near La Platte on the night of Oct 1, 1888, causing his death.

—The new rooms to be occupied by the Young Men's Christian Association over Bennett & Tatt's store are being neatly finished. The headquarters of the association will be transferred this week. Several beautiful paintings have been furnished to decorate the walls which will be a pleasant addition to the furnishings.

—The HERALD notices a change in the largest law firm in the city. Formerly Covell, Polk & Beeson, but last fall Mr. Covell withdrew from the firm, and recently M. D. Polk gave way to two younger brothers, recently admitted to bar, and Jesse L. Root also came into the firm. The title now is Beeson, Polk Bros. & Root, being the largest firm in the city, for members.

—The cutting of wires and trees on Main street recently, has been something of a reminder of New York city scenes. In moving the Stadelmann house it was found necessary to remove or raise all the wires on Main and Sixth streets, and today the pole chopping was represented on the six large trees in front of the Wheeler property. The tree injunction was to have been heard before Judge Field at Lincoln today, but a large number of affidavits declaring the trees a nuisance had been filed and the suit was last night withdrawn and a contract let to G. H. Poissal for their removal.

—The Washington Inaugural Banquet and May Pole entertainment given at the opera house the nights of April 30, and May 1, by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, were notable successes in the way of entertainments. The banquet, as has been fully detailed, was the grandest occasion ever held in Plattsmouth, and drew a great audience, and compliments from all sides. The May Pole entertainment last night was the finishing of the concern and proved a pleasant place to be for the large number in attendance. The musical performances by the Kindergarten, under the direction and training of Miss Majors, was an emphatic success, and very praiseworthy. Instrumental music was furnished by Miss Martin. The May Pole dance by a number of young ladies and gentlemen was a pretty feature of the evening, and was followed by the serving of refreshments. The receipts on the two evenings were large, and they will long be remembered.

—A grocery delivery team belonging to Alf White ran away on Main street today, but was stopped at Fifth without any damage.

—The board of directors of the street railway company held a meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock to consider the adoption of an electric motor system for propelling the cars. No important action was taken but large developments are looked for soon.

—The end of the world which has stuck out as a prominence on Main street, between Seventh and Eighth for the last fifteen years, is melting away slowly under the shovel of the grading contractor, much to the improved looks of the street.

—Many German people gathered at the German Presbyterian church this afternoon to pay a last tribute of respect to the son of Rev. F. W. Witte, Willie Witte. The pall bearers were Cliff Wescott, Chas. Murphy, Elmer Eikenberry, Ed Streight, Wesley Grassman and F. Richey.

—In nearly every paper nowadays you see the startling announcement that some one has suddenly become a sub treasurer owing to his luck in holding the winning ticket in a Louisiana State lottery drawing. If you are of an observant nature and have opportunities to give your genius plenty of rope you will discover that one of these startling notices generally does duty in every paper in the country before it is finally retired upon a pension to give place to one of fresher attraction. There are about 80,000,000 people in these United States. In the course of a year about 80 of them draw any appreciable prizes in said lottery. Do you want to take your chances for the shoes of the millionth man at a dollar a whirl? If you do, go in for it. There are a number of good places where a fine quality or experience can be had at much more moderate figures.

—The encouragement to come to all kinds of business and enterprises in this city from the establishment of the electric motor, manufacturing and lighting plants, which it is proposed to establish this summer—immediately—and which has been successfully canvassed here, make it a scheme that should be backed by every citizen with influence and capital. The plan has been fully explained in these columns, and liberal support has been had from those to become stockholders. Almost without a doubt the enterprise will develop quickly into the largest plant of the kind in the west. The benefits to be derived will not stop with an electric motor street railway, and arc and incandescent lights, and the manufacturing of incandescent lamps, and the employing altogether of about one hundred people, but the advertisement which it would give to the city would be broader and more acceptable than any other kind conceivable. A meeting of the stockholders will be held as soon as the stock is all subscribed for and active operations will commence.
