CITY CORDIALS.

—Are there to be any arrangements made for celebrating memorial day?
—There are no flies on the STAR CITY of Nebraska, and the night will soon be done away with.
—Last night was the regular meeting night of the fire boys for May. An adjournment was taken till tonight.
—Chas. Hainey's fine and coats yesterday in Justice Pottinger's court for assault and battery on Frank Benfer was $17.75, which he paid.
—It is well to keep it in mind that Plattsmouth is headed to be the STAR CITY of Nebraska. The great B. & M. shops here make a good backbone for a healthy boom.
—The old colored negro know as "John" who was recently taken to the poor farm to be cared for, died yesterday. For a long time he was an invalid, but yet a faithful servant in the Riddle house.
—Yesterday afternoon on account of the death of Joseph Pajzar, at the excavation for the new hotel, J. E. Riley, and architects Burdick and Fanning came down from Omaha on the flyer, and returned in the evening on No. 3.
—The committee appointed by the board of trade to look into the advisability of building a canal from the Platte into this city, for water power, left this morning for Kearney. The committee was made up of Messrs R. B. Windham, Henry Boeck, A. B. Todd, F. M. Richey and Byron Clark.
—Yesterday a wedding ceremony was performed which was especially interesting to the school ma'ams, as one who used to be numbered among them was the bride. Mr. Joseph W. Hendee, of Omaha, and Miss Etta L. Searl were married by Rev. J. T. Baird. Several parties from abroad were present at the wedding.
—"Mixed Pickles" will be the attraction at the opera house Saturday, June 1. Manager Young has just secured J. B. Polk and his company of comedians in the very funny play "Mixed Pickles." Our theatre going public no doubt will remember Mr. Polk, as he appeared here Dec. 22nd, 1887. Don't forget the date Saturday, June 1st.
—Another good game of base ball is on the programme for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It will be played at the ball park west of the city by Plattsmouth vs. West Omaha. Admission will be 25 cents, and with the good transportation accommodations a large attendance is expected. The Plattsmouth nine never fails to make a good game and select good clubs to play with.
—Tonight occurs the fourth annual ball, of Plattsmouth lodge No. 8. A. O. U. W., at Fitzgerald hall. It will doubtless be a grand affair. The reception committee are Frank Boyd, Leonard Anderson, M. Maunz, Harry Coolidge, Herman Spies, and M. Traver. Floor managers: Chas. Hemple, Frank Hager, John Sexton and William Latham. Beautiful programmes have been prepared for the occasion.
—The falling of the Presbyterian church yesterday will change the plans of the hotel as regards the dining room and kitchen. It was planned to use the church for the dining room and to build the kitchen with the same level of floor, which was three feet above the level of the main floor of the hotel, but now the plan will be changed and the kitchen and hotel will be built on the same level with the rest of the hotel.

—Taylor's circus which was in town yesterday was all the go from morning till night. There was a noticeably large attendance of the farming population, and the tents were far too small to accommodate the large attendance. Last night the "last grand" exhibition was not given on account of the threatening weather. The company packed up and moved on to Louisville this morning. They are an overland troop.
—At the council meeting a franchise ordinance was passed by the city council for O. H. Ballou's electric lighting purposes and soon we will have some active street work going on, in the erecting of lighting and motor wires and the laying of a large amount of street railway track. Operations are already lively at the power house and factory building for the Oppermann Electric Lamp Manufacturing Company, and bids are advertised for, for the laying of more track. It is an enthusiastic thought that our city is coming so grandly to the front.
—Courteous in his manner, devoted to his profession, kind and sympathetic in his nature, are the qualifications which have endeared Dr. P. Janss to the afflicted. The poor and rich, the high and low, all receive the same considerate attention at his hands.

THE CORONOR'S JURY
Holds no one Responsible for the Death of Joseph Pajzar by Caving Walls.
Buried in Oak Hill Cemetery at 2 O'clock This Afternoon.

The man who was killed yesterday by the falling of the east wall of the Presbyterian church was named Joseph Pajzar (pronounced Pazar), instead of Peter Mattous, as given in the HERALD last night. Pajzar lived with his nephew, Andrew Matous, near the shops. He had three children living and grown; one son lives in the old country, another in Wisconsin and a daughter at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, but they were poor and could not come to the father's funeral. He was about sixty years.
The following parties were summoned to the coronor's inquest.
Witnesses: Mr. Vanarnaman, J. Fitzgerald, J. E. Burdick, Laurence Trillity, and Dr. W. H. Schildknecht. Jurors: H. C. Grimes, M. B. Murphy, W. W. Hull, W. D. Jones, H. J. Streight, and Jesse L. Root.
The testimony of the witnesses showed that Architect Voss had instructed that about three feet of dirt be left around the base of the walls, that no excavating had been done under the walls of the building and that it was thought to be perfectly safe there having been no cracks in the foundation or dirt. Dr. Schildknecht's testimony was as follows: "The cause of this man's death was concussion of the brain; there were probably some internal injuries. The shock must have paralyzed him at once. I was one of the first men there, helped to take him out, he never spoke after we got to him; was in front of my office across the road when the walls fell—the east wall fell. The man was lying among the debris, his head was not covered; a big stone lay across his feet as well as some bricks; he was probably hit on the head by a brick. There were no bones broken that I could discover."

THE VERDICT.
The verdict of the coronor's jury was as follows: "State of Nebraska, Cass county, ss. At an inquest held in Plattsmouth, in Cass county, on the 14th day of May, A. D., 1889, before me, Henry Boeck, coronor of said Cass county, upon the body of Joseph Pajzar, lying dead by the jurors whose names are hereto subscribed, said jurors upon their oath do say that the said Pajzar came to his death from concussion of the brain, caused by some heavy substance striking said Pajzar on the head, caused by the falling of the old Presbyterian church; and that said falling was an accident for which we find no one to blame. In testimony whereof the said jurors have hereunto set their hands the day aforesaid." Signed by the jurors and Henry Boeck, coronor.
The funeral of the deceased was held this afternoon. The remains were buried in Oak Hill cemetery, and the funeral expenses borne by J. E. Riley, the builder of the hotel, for which the excavation was being made.

—Mr. W. D. Jones was showing some large photographs around the streets today which were much admired. There were four of them—his fine breeding horses—they had been taken at the fair grounds by Leonard, in charge of their keeper. These horses are noted over the county for their good breeds and they are animals of worth. "Joe F." the trotter, weighs 960 pounds; "Lucky" the clyde, aged four years, weight 1550, and "Duke" the clyde purchased this spring in Iowa, four years old, weight 1700, are all owned by Jones & Fitzgerald. "Cap" the Norman, 8 years old, weight 1600, is owned by W. D. Jones. He will have the pictures framed and placed on exhibition at his stables, for they portray the beauty and grace of the animals in a first-class manner.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sheffer, of whom mention was made in yesterday's issue, died at her home, Main street, at 2:30 this morning, of consumption, after patiently enduring an illness of two years. Deceased has suffered untold agony since her last severe attack which overtook her last Wednesday. She was worthy of the vast circle of friends she had won during her residence of twenty-five years in this city, and all who enjoyed her acquaintance invariably referred to her in the most praiseworthy manner. She leaves a devoted daughter who has the sympathy of the entire community in her sad bereavement.
The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence, where a brief service will be conducted by Rev. J. T. Baird, of the Presbyterian church. The early home of the deceased was at Liberty, Pa. She was 54 years old.

In County Court.
In County Court the replevin suit of C. H. Parmele & Co. vs. Jacob Schneider was held yesterday. The property in question was 30 head of cattle. Mr. Schneider shut up the cattle on a claim of damages for trespass; then notified the plaintiff of his act, who promptly went to the place of the incident, which is near Cedar Creek, and there agreed with Mr. Schneider to leave the question of damage to a board of arbitrators. The board being citizens of the vicinity was readily appointed, and went to the place of damage. Their written verdict, as shown in court, was five dollars to be paid to Mr. Schneider. This sum was tendered by plaintiff, but the defendant refused to accept it; whereupon the plaintiff replied said property. While the cattle were in Mr. Schneider's possession, he allowed one of them to escape and there were only 29 head at the time they were replevied. Furthermore the land, upon which the cattle strayed, is owned by a sand company and has been for more than a year past, and is at present being striped for the substrata soil. The court took the matter under advisement until one o'clock today. Attorney for plaintiff, A. N. Sullivan, attorney for defendant, W. L. Brown. The court found the right of possession of the stock to be in the plaintiff.
