The murder of Americus Neely was just as much a political assassination as the murder of John M. Clayton. The democratic party of Arkansas is responsible for both crimes.

"AND yet we should be glad to get rid of him," said the Forrest City (Ark.) Times, in an article on Americus Neely, a week ago. Well, they "got rid of him" in the usual way. They (that is to say, the democrats of the vicinity) murdered him.—Globe Democrat.

A WRITER in the "The Pittsburg Post" insists that the precedent we recently quoted, showing that no man had ever been returned to the Presidency after once leaving it, could not be applied to Mr. Cleveland's case, because "no man save Mr. Cleveland has been defeated in the Electoral College with a majority on the popular vote over the successful candidate." "The Pittsburg Post" is mistaken. This has happened before.
The case of the first defeat of Jackson is precisely similar, but it is, nevertheless, true that Jackson had a plurality in 1824 over John Quincy Adams of 44,804, and failed of election, both by the Electoral Colleges and by the House, which chose Adams. A strict parallel to Mr. Cleveland's case, however, may be found in that of Mr. Tilden, who had a plurality on the popular vote of 252,324. But the less said about Mr. Tilden and Mr. Cleveland's popular majority the better. If there had been an honest election in the South last year, Mr. Cleveland would have been in a popular minority of several hundred thousand votes, and his technical majority of 94,601 means nothing whatever.

FOR THE PROMOTION OF TRADE

The American Mail and Export Journal reports at length the statement which Mr. F. G. Pierra made to the members of the Spanish-American Commem-orial, which is described in its articles of the promotion of trade with Mexico, Central and Southern America, the West Indies and the Philippine Islands. A few of the statistics furnished by Mr. Pierra are worthy of consideration. The Argentine Republic exports goods to about the value of $62,000,000 yearly; of these exports the United States takes a very large percentage. The imports of the Argentine Republic average $98,000,000 yearly of which textile productions and clothes amount to $21,000,000; iron and its manufactures to $10,000,000; coal, coke, etc., $4,000,000; railway and telegraphic materials, $3,000,000, and wool and its manufactured products to about $5,000,000. As the largest purchaser from the Argentine Republic we ought, according to the "mutual reciprocity" theory of free traders, to be the greatest seller of goods, but as a matter of fact we are the smallest, the distribution of imports from various countries to the Argentine Republic being in this wise:

England, 33 per cent.
France, 17 per cent.
Germany, 9 per cent.
Belgium, 7.5 per cent.
United States, 7.4 per cent.

These figures knock the free traders' plea of our lack of trade in the Southern republics being due to our "prohibitory tariff" out of the ring. For the tariff of Germany is well nigh as highly protective as our own, while that of England is higher upon the chief exports of the Argentine Republic—coffee, cocoa and rubber, to wit. In fact we admit most of the exports of the Southern republics and of the West Indies and the Philippines duty free, while even free trade England taxes most of them. And yet the freedom of importation does not create a great trade between us and them.

What is lacking? What inducements do England, France and Germany offer to trade between their ports and those of Spanish America which the United States withholds? The answer is plain, subsidies to steamships. Germany, France and England have regular lines of steamships plying to and from Spanish American harbors. The United States has not.
They have such lines because they subsidize them. The United States has no such lines because it refuses subsidies.
That is the case in a nutshell. And it is a shell that shuts out at least a hundred millions of dollars worth of trade from our coast every year.

Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup and Plasters are prescribed by the leading physicians of Michigan, its home state, and are remedies of unequalled merits for Rheumatism, blood disorder and liver and kidney complaint. It comes here with the highest endorsements and recomendations as to its curative virtues.

Nehawka.

EDITOR HERALD:
Not seeing any Nehawka items in your paper I thought a few might be interesting to some of your readers. Nehawka is booming this spring.

F. P. Sheldon the leading merchant is doing big business here. He carries a full stock of general merchandise and clothing.

Oswald Bier keeps a full line of boots shoes and harness also carpets and general merchandise.

Marshall Bros have as fine a stock of hardware as can be found in Cass, Co.

Henry Kropp is doing well in the implement business.

Andrew Sturm reports trade good in the lumber business.

Owing to the increase in his business Mr. Strong has found it necessary to build a two story addition to his restaurant.

Our milliner and dressmaker are kept busy ministering to the fancies of the feminine portion of the population. They occupy the neat little business building recently erected by Wm. Hobson.

The two elevators are doing lively business.

Mr. Barton has fitted out a barn in the latest and most approved style.

Henry Lopp's tonsorial parlor is now open to the public. He is an expert in his line of business.

Mr. Aday has lately reopened a drug store at O. Smith's old stand.

Pete Opp keeps on hand a full supply of fresh and salt meats fish etc.

SOCIETY NOTES

The young people of Nehawka have organized a society known as The Nehawka Endeavor society. The following officers were elected: C. D. Palmer pres.
Miss Anna Carper vice pres. F. P. Sheldon tres. Miss Stella Leach secretary.
The first endeavor of this society will be to give an ice cream and strawberry festival on the evening of the 23rd, at the residence of Mr. Lawson Sheldon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pittmann gave another of their always successful dancing parties last Friday evening.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Pollard went to Nebraska City today.

F. P. Sheldon was an Omaha passenger Monday.

J. D. McBride was in Nebraska City Thursday last.

D. C. West made a flying trip to Weeping Water Saturday.
Mr. Weston has removed from his farm to his fine $20,000 brick residence in Nehawka.

We understand Andrew Sturm is to soon begin his $25,000 residence on Capitol Avenue. Mr. Lee Applegate contemplates building a $6,000 residence in the near future. James Jameson has begun his $5,000 residence on Capitol Avenue.

Misses Anna Gorder and Lena Shroeder of Plattsmouth were visiting friends in Nehawka last week.

Mrs. John Leach and Mrs. J. W. Shannon drove from Plattsmouth to our city last Sunday.

IMPORTANT TO THE CITIZENS.

A Traveling Man Creates Great Excitement in the Empire House.

INDEPENDENCE, IOWA, Oct. 14, 1888.

Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich.

GENTS:—Your Mr. Brooks came here tonight and registered as agent for Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup, and as he did so it awakened in me an interest never before realized in a guest at my house.
You will not wonder at it when I tell you the story. For years I have been greatly afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism, the pain and soreness of the joints at times being almost unbearable; could move about only with the aid of crutches. In addition to this my stomach became badly diseased, and neuralgia set in, which threatened to end my day.
A traveling man stopping with me gave quite a history of your Syrup, and the peculiarities of its combination, which induced me to try it. I have taken six bottles and no act in my life affords me greater satisfaction than in writing you I am a well man.

It will be a pleasure for me to answer any communications, for I believe it to be the best remedy ever formulated.

A. S. BOWLEY, Proprietor, Empire House, Independence, Iowa.

What a Moslem Believes.

Every Moslem believes devoutly in a personal God, in an overruling Providence, in the mission and miracles of Christ, whom they designate as the Messiah, in the duty of prayer, and the immortality of the soul, in a future state of rewards and punishments, and in the inspiration of the Bible. An educated Moslem, if asked why he does not become a Christian, may not improbably reply that, according to his own interpretation of the New Testament, he is one already. Thus, in a letter recently received from one of my friends, he styles himself "a Moslem and a Christian at the same time."

Though a most pious and sincere Mohammedan, he claims to be one of those "who profess and call themselves Christians," for whom we pray every Sunday that they may be led into the way of truth. They hold that Islam was the latest revelation, perfecting the Christian revelation, just as Christianity supplemented the revelation given to the Jews.
Mohammed may be considered as a reformer of Christianity; like Luther he denounced certain superstitions that had grown up.

The Koran says that God gave the Gospel to Jesus to proclaim, and that He put kindness and compassion into the hearts of those that followed Him; but "as for the monastic life, they invented it themselves." "In the time of Mohammed," says one of my friends, "Christianity had become corrupt, as many of your own writers admit, and it was these corruptions that it was Mo-hammed's mission to reform. We reject the corruptions of Christianity. But we claim to have a final revelation, predicted by your own prophets, just as the coming of the Messiah was foretold to the Jews, who nevertheless blindly rejected him as you reject Mohammed."—Leaves from an Egyptian Note Book.

The Feeling Was There.

In attendance at one of the Indianapolis ward schools is a little colored girl 9 years old. She is miserable, indeed, for at home she is ill treated and the shoes she wears, and often the clothes, are supplied by the teachers or some of her classmates. There is a tender poetic vein in her make up and it found vent in a composition. The teacher took a little pansy plant to school one day and told the pupils of the flower. Two days after she asked them to write a poem of it and gave them the privilege of having the pansy talk and tell the story, and this is what the little colored girl wrote, the word pansy in the copy being the only one dignified with a capital:

"I am only a Pansy. My home is in a little brown house. I sleep in my little brown house all winter, and I am now going to open my eyes and look about.
"Give me some rain, sky, I want to look out of my window and see what is going on," I asked, so the sky gave me some water and I began to climb to the window. At last I got up there and open my eyes. Oh what a wonderful world I seen when birds sang songs to me, and grasshoppers kissed me, and dance with me, and creakets smiled at me, and I had a pretty green dress. There was trees that grow over me and the wind fanned me.
The sun smiled at me, and the little children smelled me one bright morning me and the grasshoppers had a party to wood play with me and a naughty boy pick me up and tore me up and I died and that was the last of Pansy."—Indianapolis Journal.

A Battlefield Trast.

We are in danger of something worse than the Libby prison speculation. It is now proposed by a speculative northerner to purchase all the battlefields of the late war, fence them in, turn them into parks, and show them to visitors at twenty-five cents a head.

It will strike those who are acquainted with the situation that the great American showman will have a big job on hand when he comes to the cluster or bouquet of battlefields around Atlanta.
Our old red hills have good cause to be redder than any other hills that ever trembled through the thunder storm of war.

Nowhere on American soil can there be found a spot that was ever so pounded and mangled and harried and scorched as this same Gate City of ours. All over the world there are men now living whose proudest boast is to say that they went through our forty days baptism of fire or were in one of the many battles fought under our city's walls.

We are not yet ready to sell our blood stained fields of glory to the glib strangers whose only interest in them is to coin money out of them. If we can do nothing better, let us leave the grim fortresses and the frowning ramparts, and fill up the silent trenches once so full of heroic life. Let us cover these scars of war with the blooming industries of peace—Atlanta Constitution.

A Model Dog Story.

A remarkable case of animal intelligence and fidelity has developed in this city. Every one knows the late D.
Watson's little dog Zolla, that used to follow him everywhere and often ride beside him in his buggy seat. He would come every morning to his master's office, and if he did not find him there would run over to the livery stable to see if the doctor's buggy was gone, and if it was he would follow the track until he had found him. When his master was in the coffin little Zolla was held up so he could see his face, and showed signs of intense grief.

He was at the funeral at Woodbine cemetery and was the last one to linger at the new made grave. Since that time he has visited the grave night and morning and is seen sitting upon it keeping watch, as though he expected his kind friend and master. He often wandered alone on the streets at night, and a gentleman whose profile and beard somewhat resemble Dr. Watson's has told us that little Zolla has often walked in front of him and gazed into his face and even followed him home and sat for hours in front of his door waiting for him to come out that he might get one more look at this face so much like the one treasured in his memory.—Jefferson (Ga.) Herald.
