A special dispatch from Victoria, British Columbia, to a newspaper in Montreal Canada, says that that city is in a state of great excitement, consesquently upon an order received by the fleet to sail for Behring sea on june 15. The fleet consists of the, Swift, Sure, Amphian and Defender. The Amphian is a twenty-knot cruiser, heavily armored, and 18 one of the most powerful ships of war in the Pacific ocean. Sealing schooners are being assured that every protection will be afforded them. Torpedo boats are being fitted for the protection of the harber. This looks a little as though there might be another war with Engand. As Uncle Sam will have no fooling about Behring Ses.

schools are on the accredited list of the State University after all, and are likely to remain there. Will The Herald kindly make amends by telling the truth .-Journal.

The Journal evidently tries to make out THE HERALD has lied, but it has not. THE HERALD has claimed all along that Plattsmouth was on the accredited list, we went so far as to give the number of the page it could be found on, in the catalogue, THE HERALD only claimed that it did not rightfully belong there. We were shown a letter yesterday, that stated that Prof. Drummond knew what the requirements were and that he could bring our schools up to the grade required, that he had promised to do so, therefore Plattsmouth would remain on the accredited list. This goes to show that THE HERALD was right in its statement that our schools were not up to the requirements and THE HERALD would like to see them brought up to the proper standard.

This same promise was given three years ago. Why were not our schools brought up to this standard before now?

MEMORIAL DAY.

Again Memorial Day has come and gone. The swift round of time, repeating the sweet lesson of love and fraternity, of charity and forgiveness, that the nation is slowly learning, is the herald of its future glory. A change of sentiment in the observance of the day has gradually come with the passing years. The day that was originally dedicated to sorrow by the thousands who brought their flowers to place upon the graves of the soldier dead, were not without bitterness in the grief of personal loss. Wives and mothers, sisters and sweethearts, fathers and brothers, went with minds filled with the thoughts of a vacant place in the family circle. The grave on which the flowers were placed, was treated as the last resting place of the lost son or brother, not as the honorable mound of some dead hero. From those silent mounds the voice of experience speaks to every listening heart; felt not heard. It speaks of dangers past and of duties at hand. Instead of the futile rebellion is the moral revolution.

The soldiers of the Union did not die in vain. The work they did lives after them in greater victories than were won on the battle-field where vast armics bloodily engaged.

THE CLAN-NA-GAEL.

The two hundred representatives of I am a well man. eleven camps of the Clan-na-Gael did well in resolving-

That we, representatives of the Clanna-Gael, place on record our utter detestation of the crime of assassination, and we enter our solemn protest against the evident attempt of the murderers of our brother to place the crime of his death on our order. It is not the spirit nor object of the Clan-na-Gael, and we re- complete in the county.

pudiate it, and hereby pledge our best efforts to the authorities to aid in hunting down the criminals and vindicating law and order.

The country would like to hear a similar resolution from the central organization of the clan and to hear of its being made applicable not only to assassination in America, but also in Europe and in every part of the world.

A foreigner landing in this country, and especially a foreigner who absolves himself by oath from all allegiance to foreign powers and assumes the functions of American citizenship, must conform himself to the laws of the United States. And it is part of that law that no resident or citizen shall conspire against the peace and welfare of a foreign nation with which this country has amicable relations. Sympathy with the cause of home rule for Ireland is well enough, but conspiracy to molest or disturb any European Government or to endanger the life or property of any of its citizens is an act in contempt of the authority of the United States. It is high time that secret societies for the accomplishment of purposes connected with European politics were placed under a ban. "No man can serve two masters." He who truly serves the government of the United States has neither desire nor capacity for serving the purposes of adventurers whose aims and interests are European .-Inter Ocean.

SOME SOLID FYCTS.

COLLECTED ON THE COUNTY COURT HOUSE BOND QUESTION BY THE BOARD OF TRADE AND ADDDESSED TO THE VOTERS'

PLATTSMOTTH, NEB., May 15, 1889. The county commissioners of Cass county having called an election to vote for or against issuing $80,000 twenty-year court house bonds, we desire to lay the actual facts before every property owner and voter in the county, relying upon their intelligent consideration of the same in casting their vote at the coming election, June 8th, 1889.

The total bonded indebtedness of the county is $100,000. These are the railroad bonds, and the interest has been paid as it accrued. The principal is due $20,-000 in June of each of the years of 1890-91-92-93-94. Cash in the sinking fund to pay these bonds is now $50,000, and sufficient cash in the other funds to pay So IT turns out that the Plattsmouth all current expenses. So the real indebtedness of the county is only $50,000 at the present time-

Total valuation county, 1888, $4,743,779, Valuation of Plattsmouth City and Precinct, $1,287,191.

Eighty thousand dollars at 5 per cent will cost annually, . . . $4,000. Nine-tenths of one mill on the total valuation will raise $4,267. More than sufficient to pay the interest

The average valuation on eighty acres of land in the county as shown by the records is about $450, so that the owner of eighty acres would have to pay a court house tax of about 40 cents, or less, each year. These figures are based on the 1888 assessment. The valuation will be greater in 1889, by possibly $300,000, and will increase largely each succeeding

We believe that a new court house should be built, not only for the sake of building the same in our city but for the protection of the records of the county clerk, county treasurer, county register, of the most beautiful parks in the world county judge and the clerk of the district court, in all of which records almost every farmer and land owner in the county is vitally interested.

A Traveling Man Creates Great Excitement in the Empire House. INDEPENDENCE, IOWA, Oct. 14, 1888.

Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich: GENTS:- Your Mr. Brooks came here tonight and registered as agent for Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup, and as he did so it awakened in me an interest never before realized in a guest at my house. You will not wonder at it when I tell you the story. For years I have been greatly afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism, the pain and soreness of the joints at times being almost unbearable; could move about only with the aid of crutches. In addition to this my stomach became badly diseased, and neuralgia set in, which threatened to end my day. A traveling man stopping with me gave quite a history of your Syrup, and the peculiarities of its combination, which induced me to try it. I have taken six bottles and no act in my life affords me greater satisfaction than in writing you

It will be a pleasure for me to answer any communications, for I believe it to be the best remedy ever formulated.

ISLAND OF MARTINIQUE.

A BEAUTIFUL LITTLE PLACE WHERE THERE IS NO POVERTY.

Whites and Blacks Live Together in Perfect Equality-Women and Doukeys the Common Carriers - The Birthplace of France's Empress, Josephine.

Martinique is a garden of romantic beauty, extending from the edge of the pretty harbor to the foot hills of the France gone astray. Every building is of venerable stone, antique in structure, large and roomy and windowed by deep jalousies. The heavy tile roofs overhang the sills like the eyebrows of man, and are covered with silvery mosses and trailing vines.

The streets are nearly all paved with Belgian blocks, and sparkling water rushes down the middle of each in the gutter, toward which the pavement

Everybody lives out of doors. The harbor is skirted by a wide boulevard. shaded by palm trees and furnished with iron seats, where the populace gather in the evening and chatter like magples. During the day the women sit in the gardens, and at night sleep in hammocks under the verandas, except in the rainy season, when they keep their houses. There is no glass in the windows, and not a chimney in the place. All the cooking is done in charcoal stoves, or upon shelves of stone like a blacksmith's forge.

On an eminence overlooking the town stands a statue of the Blessed Virgin, like a protecting guardian, benignant and serene. There are some fine churches and one old cathedral that is worth a visit. The people are mostly Catholics, but there is a large colony of Jews engaged in banking and trade.

The town of Fort de France, which was known as Fort Royal during the time of the empire, is the seat of the government, where the lieutenant governor lives and commands a garrison of 300 or 400 colored soldiers. It is about twenty miles from St. Pierre and has 10,000 inhabitants, but the latter place is the commercial capital and the fashionable residence. The blacks and whites live together as brothers and sisters of the common family, often intermarrying. Many of the colored families are wealthy and aristocratic, and send their children abroad to be educated.

The upper class wear the latest French fashions and live with considerable comfort, but the colored women of the common class, as elsewhere in the tropics, are clad in a single garment of cotton, without any particular design of concealing or exposing their anatomy. They load themselves with a large amount of jewelry of peculiar designs, and on Sunday and feast days get themselves up in a most elaborate and outlandish manner, men and women both rivaling the plumage of the birds in the myriad colors they assume. There are no poor, no almshouses, no asylum for the indigent.

labor in the sugar mills and in the harbor. There are no carriages or carts, but the women and donkeys are the common carriers.

is known as the Place Bertin, where there is a magnificent fountain of bronze, a graceful water nymph, fourteen feet high, bearing upon her head a basket, from the rim of which jets of water flow.

In August this fountain exhibits what to strangers is a most amazing phenomenon, spouting myriads of little fishes about as large as whitebait, with bodies as transparent as crystal. These are called titire, and come from the mountain streams with which the fountain is fed. In the month of August they start for the sea and are caught by the pipes that feed the fountain. The people, expecting them, come down with baskets, scoop them up, and, taking them home, fry them in oil, when the make most delicious morsels.

Martinique was the birthplace of the Empress Josephine, whose family still live near Fort de France, and their old home, a little one story house, is still to be seen. In the center of that little city a magnificent statue of white marble was erected to her memory by the late Emperor Napoleon III. Josephine was the daughter of Joseph Gaspard Tacher de la Pagerie, a lieutenant of artillery, and at 16 married Alexander de Beauharnais. He was only 19, and after a few years of married life in France the young couple were separated, and Josephine returned to her parents at Martinique. In 1794 Beauharnais died on the guillotine, and two years afterward Josephine was married to Napoleon. The empress was divorced, and died in 1809. The people of Martinique revere her like a saint.-Cor.

A newspaper deadbeat is one of the nuisances the restaurant patron has to contend with. Let a man sit down to the table with the daily paper, and there is always some one near who is watching for an opportunity to get his news for nothing. As soon as the paper is laid on the table it is instantly captured with a suave "beg pardon," and the chance for the man who had purchased his paper to gather the news as he enjoys the meal is lost. Courtesy or ordinary politeness prevents a gentleman from resenting such an imposition, and as a consequence there is nothing to do but gracefully submit. -Kansas City Journal.
