SIX YEARS OLD.

Six years old—"a great big boy!" How his heart swells with pride and joy! "I'm grown up now!" he shouts in glee—"No more curls nor kills for me!"

The "barber man" has shorn the locks of brown and gold in a way that shocks the mother's heart—yet it had to be, To make him the manly boy we see.

The kilts "must go"—in trousers fine The "little man" doth long to shine. So brave he's grown, I've naught to fear—He will let no harm reach "mamma dear."

God bless the boy! with his heart so true And his wonderful plans of "work" to do Long may he be our pride and joy, Comfort and hope—this darling boy! —Mary Howitt Stevedant.

Appearances Often Decide.

One day last week a Boston business man, who was at work dictating letters to his stenographer, was interrupted by a business call from two well dressed men, who remained in conversation for some little time, and then went out. When they had gone the business man turned to his stenographer and said: "Did you notice the personal appearance of those two gentlemen?" "Oh, yes," "Well, one of them was a well known publisher of this city, and the other was a prize fighter. Now, which was the prize fighter and which was the publisher?" The girl described one of the two—a young man of agreeable appearance and pleasing manners. "That," she said, "was the publisher, of course." "You are mistaken," said her employer. "The man you took for the publisher was the prize fighter, and the man you took for the prize fighter was the publisher." "This was not a case where 'the boy lied,' either."—Boston Transcript.

A Wonderful Lake.

One of the most picturesque and remarkable bodies of water in the world is Henry's lake in Idaho. It is situated on the dome of the continent in a depression in the Rocky mountains called Targers' pass. It has an area of forty square miles, and all around it rise snow capped peaks, some of them being the highest of the continent's backbone. In the lake is a floating island about 500 feet in diameter. It has for its basis a mat of roots so dense that it supports large trees and a heavy growth of underbrush. These roots are covered with several feet of rich soil. The surface is solid enough to support the weight of a horse anywhere, and there are places where a house could be built. The wind blows the island about the lake, and it seldom remains twenty-four hours in the same place.—San Francisco Post.

The Difference.

William M., an Ayrshire farmer, was somewhat remiss in attending divine service, and his parish minister, on one of his pastoral visits, took occasion to refer to it in rather a pointed manner. Willie excused himself on the score of advancing years, but his spiritual guide would not condone the offense on that ground. "That will scarcely do, William, for I observe you are very regular in your attendance at market every Friday." "Oh, ay, sir," replied Willie, "but that's easy explained. You see when we gang to the town we can get what we like, but when we gang to the kirk we has just to tak' what thou likes to gie us."—Scottish American.

Shouldn't Talk About Her.

"Mollie Bawn's to be married next week, Jennie, and I am to be her first bridesmaid." "You don't say so, Clara. You take my largest away. Who will marry that big mouthed thing?" "Oh, you shan't talk that way about her. It is just too lovely for anything. She is to marry George Blissful, don't you know; that simpering idiot I rejected at Cape May last July. And think of it, I'm to be first bridesmaid. Ha, ha, ha!" "Oh, how lovely. Ha, ha, ha!"

Manners of Americans.

The real test of the manners and morals of a nation is not by comparison with other nations, but with itself. It must be judged by the historical, not by the topographical standard. Does it develop? and how? Manners, like morals, are an affair of evolution, and must often be a native product, a wholly indigenous thing. This is the case, for instance, with the habitual American courtesy to women in traveling—a thing unparalleled in any European country, and of which, even in this country, Howells finds his best type in the Californian. What takes the place of it among the Latin races is the courtesy of the high bred gentleman toward the lady who is his social equal—which is a wholly different thing. A similar point of evolution in this country is the decorum of a public assembly. It is known that at the early town meetings in New England men sat with their hats on, as in England. Unconsciously, by a simple evolution of good manners, the habit has been outgrown in America, but parliament still retains it.

Many good results may have followed imperceptibly from this same tendency to decorum. Thus Mr. Bryce points out that the forcible interruption of a public meeting by the opposite party, although very common in England, is very rare in America. In general, with us, usages are more flexible, more adaptive; in public meetings, for instance, we get rid of a great many things that are unutterably tedious, as the English practice of moving, seconding and debating the prescribed vote of thanks to the presiding officer at the end of the most insignificant gathering. It is very likely that even our incessant self criticism contributes toward this gradual amelioration of habits. In that case the wonder is that our English cousins, who criticize themselves quite as incessantly, move so slowly.—Harper's Bazar.

A Large Pendulum.

The longest pendulum on this continent swings in the technological school at Atlanta. It is a heavy pear shaped piece of iron attached to a brass wire forty-two feet long. The upper end of the wire is pivoted in a steel plate so as to cause the least possible friction. The swinging of the pendulum gradually describes a circle on the floor in a direction following the sun, showing in this that "the earth do move."

Directly under the pendulum is a large circle divided into twenty-four parts, of fifteen degrees each, to correspond with the hours of the day. The north pole is placed directly under the pendulum and the meridians of longitude meet there. The parallels of latitude make smaller circles inside the first.

Dr. J. S. Hopkins, president of the school, who made and put up the pendulum, performs the experiment as follows: The iron is brought to the edge of the circle in the meridian of Atlanta and let swing across. Apparently it goes straight across, but gradually it traverses the circle in the direction taken by the sun and opposite to the revolution of the earth. The pendulum not being directly over the axis of the earth, does not move in exactly the same time as the sun, but falls behind some hours a day. It is said that if it were at the north pole, where it would be immediately over the axis, it would traverse the circle in exactly twenty-four hours, and at the equator it would traverse it at all, for gravity would operate to prevent.—Atlanta (Ga.) Cor. Philadelphia Times.

THE NAME AMERICA.

The Popular Idea That It Was Derived From Amerigo Vesputi Disputed.

The Bulletin of the Paris Geographical society, which has just been issued, contains an account by M. Jules Marcon of certain further researches which he has made into the origin of the name "America." As far back as 1875 he published a paper on the same topic, which attracted much attention at the time, and he has since devoted much labor to an investigation of early historical documents in which the New World is named. The popular notion that America was so called from the Christian name of Amerigo Vesputi is, he says, wholly unfounded, and he sums up his conclusions in this way: 1. Amerigo is the Italian name of the mountains between Jungalpa and Liberia in the Province of Chontales, which separate Lago Nicaragua from the Mosquito coast. The word in the Maya language signifies "the windy country," or "the country where the wind blows always." 2. The Christian name of Vesputi was Alberico in Italian and Spanish, Albericus in Latin. This particular name is subject to an enormous number of variations, as the monographs and catalogues of Italian and Spanish saints of the period show; but nowhere is there any variation of Americus, Amerigo, Amerigo, Amerigo, etc., and none of these is either a diminutive of a variation in use in Italy, Spain or France, for Alberico or Alberic. Before 1497, when Jean Basin of Saint Die published the name, it is not to be found in any printed document, nor even in any manuscript of recognized and incontestable authority.

M. Marcon claims that his theory of a native origin for the name America has been accepted in Spain, Spanish America, and with some exceptions, in the United States; in France, Germany and Italy it has excited doubt and surprise, but in the last named he has the support of the eminent Turin geographer, M. Guila Cocco. There is no doubt that Columbus and Vesputi went along the Mosquito coast at the foot of the Sierra Amerigo, and that the name was reported by the officers and men of these expeditions, and Schöner, the geographer, declared in 1515 that the name was already popular in Europe. It is beyond question that one edition of Vesputi's letter on his third voyage has the name Amerigo in the place of the Christian name. Nineteen editions had Albericus, the subsequent Italian editions had Alberico. The one with Amerigo on the title page was published in 1595, but M. Marcon suggests that this was never intended to be a variation of Alberico, but rather an adaptation of Amerigo, a name already known and applied to the New World, to Vesputi's name to distinguish him, as we now say "Chinese Gordon" to distinguish the particular Gordon by suggesting one of his greatest feats.

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. F. Perce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily health and vigor will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors, from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. # Fifteen Thousand Dollars Bonus!

SOUTH PARK AGAIN TO THE FRONT!

The owners of South Park hereby stipulate and agree that in the event of the sale of 200 lots between June the 20th and Dec. 31st, 1889, they will appropriate $10,000 and land in South Park valued at $5,000 as a bonus and inducement for the location of some institution or industry in that part of the city.

2d. Lots will be sold at present prices, viz: $150 for inside and $175 for corner lots, and on monthly payments when desired.

3d. All sales where requested will be made conditional that the $15,000 will be appropriated as stated, otherwise the contracts of purchase be rescinded and money refunded.

The proprietors of South Park believe, that with a bonus of $15,000 an important addition of outside capital can be induced to invest in Plattsmouth, and with that end in view, are opening up an extensive correspondence. After selling 200 lots they will have over 200 lots, to be enhanced in value by the investment, and the general prosperity of Plattsmouth.

Every purchaser of a lot new, gets it at the same price that lots have sold for from the start and before the Park was settled, with the advantages: That it is now well populated, having church and school house privileges; the city water mains extending to its limits, which assures water supply at no distant date; the location of the Fair grounds at a distance of only one-half mile; the extending of the corporate limits south of the Park three-fourths of a mile, leaving it the center of the new Fifth ward with able representatives in the city council; the permanent and rapid growth of the additions immediately surrounding the Park, which is constantly enhancing the value of its lots; and with the unparalleled proposition that unless a large sum of actual cash is invested in some industry for the increasing in value of the lots purchased, by Dec. 31st, your money will be refunded.

Remember, when you buy a lot in South Park for $150 it is now worth as much as lots sold in some other portions of the city for $250. Our policy is, low prices and easy terms, and the interesting of many persons in the Park by liberal means, to enhance the value of our reserve lots.

OTHER REASONS FOR PURCHASING LOTS IN SOUTH PARK.

As a whole they are the finest lying lots in the city. They are shaded with beautiful forest trees. They are located between Chicago and Lincoln Avenues—the two finest drives about the city. They are only a ten minutes' walk from the business portion of the town. They are only a ten minutes' walk from the New Driving Park and Fair Grounds. By reason of their location between the two main thoroughfares into the city, they are more accessible than lots in either addition.

The only addition to the city reached by two established avenues. Will certainly have street car privileges at no distant date. If you wish a fine view of the river, locate on a lot in South Park. To persons in the railroad employ, the eastern portions of South Park is the most desirable locality in the city. To persons desiring a residence on Chicago Avenue, the western portion of South Park is available for that purpose. The B. & M. railroad track runs near the east face of the addition, furnishing good facilities for manufacturing industries which will come at no distant date.

About $15,000 worth of this desirable property has been disposed of within a short period, and no part has been sold to outside speculators, which is solid proof of the substantial growth of this part of the city. More substantial houses were built in South Park during the year 1888 than in any one locality in the city, and the prospects for 1889 building are much greater. Any person or persons purchasing 20 or more lots and paying 1 cash, may have one and two years on balance without interest. The title of this property is perfect and clear from incumbrance.
