TAURSEAY, MARCH 5, 1891

TO DAY THE HERALD is glad to be able to greet its patrons in a new dress, and that it was badly needed, goes without saying. The proprietors take this occasion to say that they cordially thank a liberal public for a support which justifies them in making the necessary expenditure to put THE HERALD typographically ahead of its competitors. We intend to keep THE HERALD, which is the oldest paper in the county, in the front rank. And we trust that our efforts in the future to publish a live county paper may meet with the same hearty support that we have enjoyed in the past.

JAY GOULD, the wizard of Wall street, is said to contemplate the consolidation of four of the largest railway companies in the country. He is said to have arranged for operating the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific all under one management. One thing is very evident if such a gigantic system of railways could be successfully operated by one man, Jay Gould is the one above all others to do it.

THE most valuable possessions left by General Sherman are supposed to be his war memoirs, which will soon be published as the "Life of General Sherman," which will, it is believed, yield a large sum. It will, of course, cover the entire history of the late civil war and will contain personal correspondence written during the campaign, never before made public. Shortly before his death General Sherman placed his memoirs in the hands of Charles L. Webster & Co. A cheap edition of the memoirs is now in press containing an appendix written by Secretary James G. Blaine. This popular edition will contain about 800 pages and will be handsomely illustrated with steel plates of General Sherman and other officers, and war maps showing the plan of campaigns directed by General Sherman. The edition will be sold at $2 a copy.

THE average democratic statesman not content with advocating British interests as against his own country on the tariff, but he must needs be constantly guarding the interests of Great Britain in other matters. Whether it be on account of the handsome sum of money furnished by these foreigners to carry on the democratic campaigns, or simple love and admiration for aliens is unknown. The latest outbreak of this popular democratic sentiment occurred in the United States Senate this week when the Nicaragua Canal measure was up for discussion. The canal measure is a bill that will authorize the government to assist in the construction of the Nicaragua Canal, which will furnish an important water-way between the Atlantic and Pacific. The bill under consideration proposes that the government shall guarantee the bonds of the company that holds the concessions from Nicaragua and Costa Rica, in order to enable it to raise the necessary money without resorting to European capitalists, as it is desirable that the canal should be under American control. There is a provision in the bill to the effect that the secretary of the United States Treasury shall hold seven-tenths of the stock of the company, in order to procure the repayment of any money that the government may have to pay out in consequence of guaranteeing the payment of the company's bonds. It is also provided that the government shall have the option of buying or subscribing for any part of the stocks held by the treasury, congress being empowered to avail itself of this option at any time before the bonds mature.

The object of the bill is to secure for this country a certain control over a canal which in the event of a war with any European power would be of the first importance to sult of the passage of this bill, although England has not remonstrated except through its paid democratic henchmen. What are the facts about this famous treaty that was made by the democratic party in 1850? As usual everything in sight was bartered away by this party that has never done anything patriotic; and England got what she wanted. Here are some of the terms of that treaty:

It provided that neither England nor the United States should ever obtain or maintain exclusive control over any ship canal that might be built in Nicaragua, and it was further provided that neither country should erect or maintain any fortifications commanding the same or in the vicinity thereof, or occupy or fortify or colonize or assume to exercise any dominion over Nicaragua, Costa Rica, the Mosquito Coast, or any part of Central America.

The first opportunity England had to ignore the treaty, she did, so by colonizing Belize and Honduras, and by fortifying the Mosquito Coast. It would indeed be a nice position for Great Britain, to assume that we should abide by and live up to an agreement which she ignores. No patriotic American would ask it either. But it is peculiarly fitting that the democratic leader in the United States Senate should take the side of England and argue against his own country. His position is one that should make the face of every honest patriot tingle with shame. And to think that a party whose leaders are so untrue to our government would be trusted far enough to have a majority in the next congress is more than surprising.

The Secret of Success.

F. G. Fricke & Co., druggists, believe that the secret of success lies in perseverance. Therefore they persist in keeping the finest line of perfumeries, toilet articles, cosmetics, drugs and chemicals on the market. They especially invite all persons who have palpitation, short breath, weak or hungry spells, pain in side or shoulder, oppression, night mare, dry cough, smothering, drowsy or heart disease to try Dr. Miles' unequalled New Heart Cure, before it is too late. It has the largest sale of any similar remedy. Fine book of testimonials free. Dr. Miles Restorative Nervine is unsurpassed for sleeplessness, headache, fits, etc., and it contains no opiates.

The following advertisement, published by a prominent western patent medicine house, would indicate that they regard disease as a punishment for sin: "Do you wish to know the quickest way to cure a severe cold? We will tell you. To cure a cold quickly, it must be treated before the cold has become settled in the system. This can always be done if you choose to, as nature in her kindness to man gives timely warning and plainly tells you in nature's way, that as a punishment for some indiscretion, you are to be afflicted with a cold unless you choose to ward it off by prompt action. The first symptoms of a cold, in most cases, is a dry, loud cough and sneezing. The cough is soon followed by a profuse watery expectoration and the sneezing by a profuse watery discharge from the nose. In severe cases there is a thin white coating on the tongue. What to do? It is only necessary to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in double doses every hour. That will greatly lessen the severity of thy cold and in most cases will effectually counteract it, and cure what would have been a severe cold in one or two days' time. Try it and be convinced." 50 cent bottles for sale by F. G. Fricke & Co., druggists.
