TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1891

The threat foreshadowed in the W. H. of Omaha, that the democratic party in the legislature will join the alliance and throw out all the state officers elect if the supreme court should upon trial find Boyd ineligible to hold the office of governor of this commonwealth, is too puerile and offensively childish for consideration. Truly the democratic party is a great organization in this state as well as in the nation. It is organized for office. It is willing to ride in the republican judicial chariot just so long as that vehicle runs in the Boyd rut; and it shouts itself hoarse over the righteous judges when a decision is made which gives the Omaha gang an advantage; but it threatens, if the court does not continue, right or wrong to decide in Boyd's favor, it will commit hari-kari and join the pesky alliance procession. The supreme court has not yet decided the Boyd Thayer contest. It has only out of a decent respect for itself and the people, ordered the democratic governor to answer as to his citizenship. Surely no decent democrat ought to object to that. It is a matter the people have a right to understand, and if the old bull-mooring party, made famous by its fight on the side of treason, now wants to join the alliance on this account, no one will suffer except the alliance.

The threat is tantamount to saying the present state officers can control the supreme court and keep Boyd in office wrongfully. It is in order for the HERALD to say right here, that the supreme court of Nebraska is not controlled by any gang of politicians, be they alliance, democrat or republican. If that tribunal makes up its mind that Jim Boyd is not a citizen, it will say so, and there is no power on earth that can avert it. Play ball, gentlemen, and don't cry before you are hurt.

THE PRACTICAL SIDE OF THE MCKINLEY BILL.

Messrs. Hind & Harriman, another plush manufacturing firm from England has located at Clark's Mills, Oneida county, New York.

Cleveland & Co., pearl button manufacturers of France, have transferred machinery worth $75,000 to this country. It was the only way in which they could hope to hold their American trade.

Two of the latest linen mills to purchase machinery extensively and embark in the manufacture of all kinds of linens, is the Eau Claire Linen Mills, Minn., and Sioux Falls Mills at Sioux Falls, S. D.

An extensive plush factory is going in at Utica, New York, while another one has moved over from Manchester, England, and is ready to begin operations at Bridgport, Conn. The McKinley bill is getting in its work all over the United States and by the time it has been in force two years, all the powers of Hades will be unable to dislodge it. The McKinley bill has come to stay and its practical workings are proving not only the wisdom and patriotism of the republican party, but it is starting such an era of industrial activity and development, that two years of democratic misrule will be unable to stop our national progress.

The democratic press is howling about the extravagance of the last congress. The press does not, however, mention the fact that it took an appropriation of the princely sum of $50,000,000 to pay the deficit that had been made by the pretended economy of the former democratic congress. In other words, the democratic congress, on the false claim of economy, lacked $76,000,000 of appropriating enough to pay for the usual running expenses of the government; consequently, the succeeding congress must be called extravagant for remedying the neglect of its predecessor.

The office of governor must be a momentous affair with the democratic ringmasters who threaten to turn around and join the alliance if Boyd is not kept in office. We will wager a red apple that the alliance managers are too particular about the company they keep to consent to such a proceeding. It would be a fine exhibition of principle. "The republicans have acted in bad faith," say the Boyd advocates. Who has acted in bad faith? The court, if it ousts Boyd? We reckon the democratic machine will not have the effrontery to say it had any understanding with the supreme court.

WHO PAYS THE TARIFF?

We are indebted to the New York Press for the following:
These laws, as the one of the heaviest imposts and primary support of woollens in such cases the price to Boston states that as co. sumers of all arts soon as his present contract is imported a d sub tract with foreign market to duty, by no quarters expires, he is the sum paid for has been promised a such duty. Green's resolution in press to Cleveland's message as meet the advanced President of the United States of duty now applies to Congress, applicable to the new tariff revision of the tariff schedule of his important laws, Dec. 6, 1887. (Circular Bulletin, Feb. 28, 1891.)

A Cataract in Labrador.

The interior of Labrador undoubtedly is the largest unexplored area on this continent. Up the Grand river, which empties into the Atlantic ocean at Hamilton inlet, are the Grand falls, which, if everything is true about them that is reported, are the most stupendous falls in the world. They are only about 160 miles up the river, but only two white men have ever seen them. Mr. R. F. Holme three years ago went from England to visit the Grand falls.

He organized a little party to accompany him inland, and arrived within about fifty miles of the falls, when he was compelled to return on account of the failure of his provisions. The Labrador Indians say these falls are haunted, and they carefully avoid them, believing that they will die if they look upon them. The two white men who have seen them are Mr. Maclean, who, as he was ascending the river in 1839, was stopped by the falls, and Mr. Kennedy, who over thirty years ago had charge of Hudson Bay post, in Labrador. Mr. Holme says the height of the falls is not certainly known, but in some respects there is little doubt they are the greatest in the world.—Geographical Magazine.

Rousseau the Landscape Painter.

As we stand before a great landscape by Rousseau like the "Ravines of Apremont," lately in the collection of M. Marmonet, or of the "Bear Frost," in that of Mr. Walters at Baltimore, one must call up a powerfully built man of middle size with a full brown beard; a wide, high forehead, which his friends declared Olympian; a sharply, straight nose; hair worn rather long after the fashion of forty years ago; direct impudic gaze from eyes of unusual largeness and grayish blue color, and a mouth whose lines indicate the absorbed man and the reticent. He was an extremely thoughtful man, not by any means smileless and the furthest remove from stupid; he was one of those who are hard to win for a friend, but once a friend, eminent in the pursuit of a worthy study. There is the sympathetic man who talks, and the sympathetic man who is silent. Rousseau was the latter. Yet he could talk, and talk well, on nature, art and music, and he wrote a charming letter. —Charles De Kay in Century.

Small Farms.

One of the mistakes of the times is the popular belief that everything in a business way must be big. The idea has grown out of our haste to grow wealthy and from superficial calculation, such as, if one acre is worth $100, 100 acres would pay $10,000. Men seldom make such money out of very large orchards, and while a source of envy to small holders they are often, in fact, just holding on or are running ahead on borrowed capital. The men who make money and are getting rich out of horticultural pursuits are those who do not attempt more than they can look after personally. From ten to eighty acres are the sized tracts which pay the highest percent of profit, if they are properly conducted. The idea that a living cannot be made out of small place has retarded many from going into a business in which they might now be making an independent living.—California Fruit Grower.

When Pluck Was Slang.

This word affords an instance of the way in which slang words in the course of time became adopted into current English. We now meet with pluck and plucky as the recognized equivalents of "courage" and "courageous." An entry in Sir Walter Scott's "Journal" shows that in 1827 the word had not yet lost its low character. He says (vol. II, p. 30), "Want of that article (unusually called pluck) is his origin is obvious. From early times the heart has been popularly regarded as the seat of courage. Now, when a butcher lays upon a carcass he divides the great vessels of the heart into through the windpipe and then plucks it out, and the word pluck, as a verb, means to pluck, and he plucks the heart, and the pluck is the heart."—New York Ledger.

Anecdote of Michael Angelo.

Michael Angelo, at a time when Italy paid so much attention to ancient art that modern had no chance of being favored fairly, had, it is said, recourse to a stratagem to teach the critics the fallacy of judging their judgments by fashion or reputation. He sculptured a statue representing a sleeping beauty and breaking off an arm buried it in a place where excavations were being made. It was soon found and lauded by critics and the public as a valuable relic of antiquity, far superior to anything done for centuries. When Angelo thought it had gone far enough he produced the broken arm, and to the great mortification of the critics, revealed himself as the sculptor.—New York Ledger.
