Rest Is Necessary. A man who has so much to do that he will work nights and Sundays as well a week days is not likely to do as much in the long run as the man who rests a God's appointed times in order to f himself for effective work between these times. Many a busy man broad down a great deal earlier than he need to, because he insists on working when rest is his first duty. And many a man who observes God's law of the night and the Sabbath, written in man's venature, accomplishes far more in a seriof years than he could have wrong with any violation of that law. Mr. Gladstone, speaking not long as of his own experiences in busy life, so will be a remarkable event, but of the high privilege of "Sunday rest. "Personally, I have always endeavore so far as circumstances have allowed, to avail myself of this privilege, and now that I have arrived near the goal of a laborious public career of close on fitty seven years, I attribute in great part to this practice the prolonging of my life and the preservation of my faculties. bottle and fine book on "Nervous A true man can do more in six days that he can in seven, week by week, as he can do more in sixteen hours than in twenty-four, day by day, for a lifetime -Sunday School Times.

Mail in Early California Days. A Californian tells this story of boom times in San Diego. The general deliv ery window of the postoffice was always crowded. One week the mails were delayed for several days, and when they were at last distributed the line of in. quirers at the general delivery window of the postoffice extended for six blocks. A man who fell in line in the early morning got to the window and received bay.-Exchange. The "Fall." I have seen it stated over and over again that "fall"-autumn- is an Americanism. I am not sure that I have ever seen it contradicted. I myself learned long ago that to a Dorset rustic "fall" was the word of native speech, "a'tumn" a mere high polite exotic. (Is it so still, 1 wonder, in this day of board schools?) However, here is a passage from a book of the Seventeenth century, in which set man might speak: "And this I doe, not so verie expreshe by occasion of my contingent health, though still, if I secure not from some decaies this spring, I may chance do it lesse happile in the fall."-Notes and Queries.

He Gently but Firmly Refused. "Reginald," exclaimed an up town bride of two months, as she returned from a shopping tour, "I saw the love-Needles, oils and parts for all kings of liest diamond necklace imaginable today; and so cheap, too; it can be bought for a mere song." Then she paused to hear what remark Reginald would make. "My darling," quoth he, "you know how gladly I would grant you every wish; but I grieve to say that in this case I am unable to do so. Nature has not endowed me with the power of producing vocal melody. I could not sing though I should be promised a solitaire for every note."-Lockport Journal.

In case of a person choking from something sticking in the throat or windpipe, try and dislodge it with the fingers, or a blunt pointed scissors may be used. A hairpin with a loop on its end is also useful. Holding the person with the heels in the air and vigorous thumping on the back is also of frequent service. When children swallow marbles or coins it is a mistake to give a purgative. The strange matter will find an escapement without effort.

The newspaper requires the very best of the brains and brawn of its followers. The newspaper man is a soldier in a great army. Always ready must be his motto. It is not for him to reason why. It is for him to obey-to do or die. And who ever knew him to hesitate?

Lord Aberdeen is one of the most popular noblemen in Great Britain. He is a democrat by sympathy as well as principle, and has been known to ride down to his club in a milk wagon when a cab was not handy. He is much sought after in Edinburgh society.
