Good News!

No one, who is willing to adopt the right course, need be long afflicted with boils, carbuncles, pimples, or other cutaneous eruptions. These are the results of Nature's efforts to expel poisonous and effete matter from the blood, and show plainly that the system is ridding itself through the skin of impurities which it was the legitimate work of the liver and kidneys to remove.

Freedom

from the tyranny of depraved blood by the use of this medicine. "For nine years I was afflicted with a skin disease that did not yield to any remedy until a friend advised me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. With the use of this medicine the complaint disappeared. It is my belief that no other blood medicine could have effected so rapid and complete a cure."

SWEET SCENTED FLOWERS.

Llewellyn Moore's the Recognized Headquarters for the Artistic and the Beautiful.

Aquilegia chrysantha, coreopsis lanceolata, chrysanthemum maxima, antirrhinum, platycodon and celastus make up a partial list of Mr. Moore's grand plants, that are perfectly hardy and are not injured by a Nebraska winter. Mr. Moore has a fine stock of geraniums, coleus and some of those richly colored French cannas, also a fine line of bedding plants. In roses he makes a specialty of the following hardy varieties: General Jacqueminot, Mt. Pleasant, Parke's Excelsior, together with the standard La France, and that Queen of the rose family, the American Beauty, which under favorable circumstances has produced roses 8 inches across, bright red and of a most delicious fragrance. No collection of flowers is complete without some of these hardy roses. Mr. Moore has the reputation of being the best rose grower west of Chicago; he never forces his plants, thus making them tender but gives them every requisite to make them hardy and strong. This spring is an unusually good one for setting out plants and should be improved by our people. Remember the place where plants and prices will suit the most exacting is at Llewellyn Moore's on West Locust street, and call at once. If

A Mystery Explained.

The papers contain frequent notices of rich, pretty and educated girls eloping with negroes, tramps and coachmen. The well-known specialist, Dr. Franklin Miles, says all such girls are more or less hysterical, nervous, very impulsive, unbalanced; usually subject to neuralgia, neuralgia, sleeplessness, immoderate crying or laughing. Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved. From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet them in heaven. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles; it has cured me and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at F. G. Fricke & Co's drug store, regular size, 50c and $1.00.

IS LYING NECESSARY?

An Experience in Truth Telling That Wasn't a Gaudy Success.

A great many persons pretend to sadly deplore the fact that society is ever telling a great many little white lies. Frankness is strongly recommended and people are praised for saying just what they think.

Frankness appears very admirable in theory, but it is quite another thing in practice. A certain amount of deception seems really necessary for the welfare of society, and the man or woman who tries to get on wholly without it is likely to have few friends and many enemies.

It is said that the minister of a certain Chicago church became disgusted with the untruthfulness of mankind and preached a vigorous sermon in denunciation of society falsehoods. He declared that lies told out of politeness were just as wicked as those told with deliberate intention of deceiving. In fact, these society lies get folks into the habit of lying, and they readily pick up the other kind.

The sermon made a great impression upon the hearers. Many of the congregation resolved to reform then and there. Coming out of church Deacon Jones said to Judge Badger, who sat in front of him, "Judge, I hope you didn't mind my putting my feet under your pew?" The judge was about to reply, "Oh, certainly not," but he thought of the sermon and answered: "I did, though; your old boots took up all the room and were a fearful nuisance."

"Well," said the deacon, "the hair oil you use smells so it nearly forced us to leave the pew." They glared at each other, and just then Mrs. Badger and Miss Jenkins came along. Miss Jenkins had asked: "How do you like my new bonnet?" "Oh, I thought it just lo—" began Mrs. B., and then she thought of the sermon and continued: "No, I didn't either. It is a horrid thing, and I wouldn't be seen with it on."

While these honest conversations were going on Mrs. Smith had said to her next door neighbor, Mr. Murray: "I hope the crying of our baby last night didn't disturb you?" And Mr. Murray replied: "No—that is—yes, I wanted to brain the brat." And then Mrs. Smith called him a wretch and wept. Then the minister came out and asked young Symonds how he liked the sermon. Symonds said: "It was a grand one—er—No, parson, it was blamed nonsense."

"Sir," said the parson, and he drew himself up very indignantly. Just then Smith and Murray, after being real frank with each other and telling a few plain truths, clinched, and Deacon Jones was trying to hold Miss Jenkins from scratching Mrs. Badger. It took tremendous efforts to stop the rows and prevent a scandal, and as it was, every one went away mad with everybody else.

The minister went home and meditated in a gloomy frame of mind for three hours, and finally concluded that society lying was wicked, but he would not preach against it again. It was altogether too handy and necessary a sin to be given up.—Chicago Herald.

A Peculiar Fate.

The supporters of the much disputed theory of spontaneous combustion have received fresh grounds of belief from the case of Milton Hardcastle, of Baltimore, whose remains were found nearly consumed in his shanty on the outskirts of that city.

Hardcastle was an old negro of unknown age, enjoying a small monthly income left him some years ago by his former owner, Colonel Eustace Hardcastle. It is said that the negro consumed a gallon and a half of whisky a day, and would often buy and drink the pure alcohol in large quantities, often for days at a time partaking of no other nourishment.

He lived alone, being of a singular, taciturn disposition, so that it was some days before he was missed, but his shanty was observed to remain closed, and search being instituted he was found in his bed burned nearly to a crisp, while the mattress and clothes were only slightly scorched.

The room was in perfect order, and no trace of fire was found on the hearth, which was swept clean, and as Hardcastle was known to have been unique among negroes in never smoking the whole affair seemed shrouded in mystery. Dr. Everhardt was called upon by the authorities to make an investigation, and gave as his opinion that it was a case of spontaneous combustion. In this he has been supported by several other prominent physicians, who agree in declaring the circumstances admit of no other explanation.—Exchange.

A Hint to Teachers.

Don't give up the boy who sits in the back seat and wears his coat collarless, his hair non a la Pompadour, and his finger nails in mourning,—who won't learn his lessons and who will get into mischief. I knew a teacher who had a pupil just like him. She showed interest in him; she visited his parents, and didn't act as if their language and manners made them devoid of all fine feeling. She asked him to help her about some work after school one night, and said: "By the way, John, we know each other pretty well now. I like you and I hope you like me. I want you to do something for me, will you?" "If I can," was the answer.

I have the day long far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
