Good News!

No one, who is willing to adopt the right course, need be long afflicted with boils, carbuncles, pimples, or other cutaneous eruptions.
These are the results of Nature's efforts to expel poisonous and effete matter from the blood, and show plainly that the system is ridding itself through the skin of impurities which it was the legitimate work of the liver and kidneys to remove. To restore these organs to their proper functions, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the medicine required.
That no other blood-purifier can compare with it, thousands testify who have gained

Freedom

from the tyranny of depraved blood by the use of this medicine.
"For nine years I was afflicted with a skin disease that did not yield to any remedy until a friend advised me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. With the use of this medicine the complaint disappeared. It is my belief that no other blood medicine could have effected so rapid and complete a cure."—Andrew D. Garcia, C. Victoria, Tamaulipas, Mexico.
"My face, for years, was covered with pimples and humors, for which I could find no remedy till I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Three bottles of this great blood medicine effected a thorough cure. I confidently recommend it to all suffering from similar troubles."—M. Parker, Concord, Vt.

CAREER OF DE ROHAN.

ADMIRAL DAHLGREN'S BROTHER A SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

An Early Quarrel Estranges Them for Life—His Services as Two Continents with Garibaldi—His Uncompensated Service for Victor Emmanuel.

Admiral William de Rohan, who died in this city, was one of the most remarkable men of this century, and a complete sketch of his life would read like a chapter from medieval history. He was of Norse descent, his father having been a Swedish nobleman, and he was born Dahlgren, his elder brother being Admiral Dahlgren, of the United States navy, whose services abroad during the war, as well as his advanced improvements in ordnance, make such a bright page in the history of our navy. Another brother, younger, Charles Dahlgren, took sides with the south during the war and was a general officer.

De Rohan was nearly six feet in height, broad, shouldered and deep chested, and in his prime of life must have been one of the most powerful men living. His head was Websterian in its proportions.

THE MOTHER'S FIGHT.

Away back in the forties, when William had grown to man's estate in years, Admiral Dahlgren, then a lieutenant, was stationed at the navy yard here engaged in the ordnance department, that made his name famous for the style and method of building the great ship guns that bore his name and that fought the naval battles of the civil war. One day Dahlgren, the elder son, saw fit to take William severely to task for something, and that brought on a storm of angry words on both sides that resulted in the younger man knocking the older brother into a corner of the room. Dignity forbade a personal altercation, and Dahlgren had an officer sent for.

Taken to the old City hall, William was silent and unrepentant, and though family and neutral friends tried to stop proceedings, Dahlgren pressed the case, and the offender was fined $100 for the assault. Then Dahlgren told the magistrate that if William would make a public apology for having struck an officer of the navy while in uniform he would be willing that the penalty be set aside.

"Never! Never!" said William. "I will never apologize nor even speak a word to you while God lets me live; and more, while you live I will never again bear the name that you do."

So they parted in the mayor's room at the City hall, and William assumed his mother's name of De Rohan, by which he was known thereafter at home and abroad to the day of his death. His mother was a member of the princely family of De Rohan, of France.

Going abroad, his family connections and ample means brought him into intimacy with persons of the highest rank in life, among them being Admiral Horburt (Pasha), of the Turkish navy, and with him he took service under the sultan, with the rank of captain.

HIS CAREER IN ITALIAN WATERS.

Leaving the Turks he went to the Argentine Republic—then Buenos Ayres —with Garibaldi, and commanded the naval forces of that country in the successful revolution that brought independence. After that, when Garibaldi came to this country, De Rohan went to Cuba and became admiral of the Chilean navy.

Late in the fifties he joined Garibaldi, with whom he was in constant correspondence, in Europe, and entered heart and soul with him in his plans for the unification and independence of Italy.
While the great liberator directed and commanded the land forces De Rohan was made admiral of the revolutionary navy, which was confirmed by Victor Emmanuel.

He was an admiral without a fleet, for they did not have a single vessel heavier than a coral fishing felucca; but he was energetic, and by a very liberal outlay of funds from his private purse and contributions by English and French friends he actually succeeded in purchasing and arriving three good sized merchant steamers, with which he escaped to Sardinia and reported to Victor Emmanuel.

It was on these vessels that the then king of Sardinia and such troops as he had were transported to the mainland of Italy, and history tells of the result.
During the siege of Rome Admiral De Rohan commanded the marine division under Garibaldi and supervised the artillery fire.

Other forms of government than republics are at times ungrateful, and it is so in this case, for, while Admiral De Rohan spent nearly $250,000 in providing the means that gave the throne of Italy to the house of Savoy, he never was repaid a penny, and died in Providence hospital here, cared for by charitable friends.

During a number of years he resided in England, where he became interested in the formation and workings of the British naval reserve, in which he was commissioned a commander by the admiralty. During the civil war he was intensely loyal to the north, but refused to take service in our navy lest he might at some time be brought under the command of his brother, Admiral John Dahlgren.

Put off by various excuses and neglected by Victor Emmanuel in his attempts to secure repayment of the immense sums advanced to Italy, he came home about 1871 and laid his claims before the secretary of state.

In the belief that something would at least be accomplished, De Rohan went abroad again, and for several years tried to work some mines he owned in Sardinia or Sicily, but he lacked capital for the work, and returned home to find his estate encumbered so negligently as though none in the state department had ever heard of it.

He was thoroughly disappointed, and for the first time in his life his high courage failed before his misfortunes, and his health gave way. He was then nearly seventy years of age, and when a stroke of paralysis followed he failed rapidly in a hospital.—Washington Post.

THE DAY FOR ME

A brilliant sky, a fine bare tree, Softly and his heart down the
The sun shines full of life and hope—These all one's heart with gladness
This is the day for me!

A warm, sweet noon, with flowers round,
And insects happy in the sun,
With green things rising from the ground,
Their higher life not long begun, Hail! blossom, bird and bee,
This is the day for me!

A richer sky, a deeper green;
A happy sense of well-earned rest;
A summer landscape full of cheer,
The world at its brightest, sweetest, best,
A sweet rest in a tree—
This is the day for me!

The glowing woods in splendor stand, (Their wealth is hid from careless sight)
The eye may feast on every hand;
To be alive is pure delight.
Oh, autumn, wait not long to pass,
Some must be rainy, cold and drear, Canst thou wait so long?
This is the day for me!

Be not so fast, joy pulsing heart;
These ideal days make not the year.
They only turn its perfect part,
Some must be rainy, cold and drear,
Canst thou wait so long?
This is the day for me!

—Annie Isabel Willis in Boston Post.

Rest Is Necessary.

A man who has so much to do that he will work nights and Sundays as well as week days is not likely to do as much the long run as the man who rests.
God's appointed times in order to himself for effective work days, these times. Many a busy man has down a great deal earlier than he to, because he insists on working when rest is his first duty. And many a man who observes God's law of the sabbath and the Sabbath, written in man's nature, accomplishes far more in a series of years than he could have wrought with any violation of that law.

Mr. Gladstone, speaking not long ago of his own experiences in busy life, said of the high privilege of "Sunday rest":
"Personally, I have always endeavored, so far as circumstances have allowed, to avail myself of this privilege, and now that I have arrived near the goal of a laborious public career of close on fifty-seven years, I attribute in great part to this practice the prolonging of my life, and the preservation of my faculties." A true man can do more in six days than he can in seven, week by week, as he can do more in sixteen hours than in twenty-four, day by day, for a life time.
—Sunday School Times.

Mail to Early California Days.

A Californian tells this story of his times in San Diego. The general delivery window of the postoffice was always crowded. One week the mails were delayed for several days, and when they were at last distributed the line of in-quirers at the general delivery window of the postoffice extended for six blocks.
A man who fell in line in the early morning got to the window and received his mail about 8 o'clock in the evening.

One old lady, who had plenty of time on her hands, took with her a camp stool and her lunch basket, and camped right there on the line. She received no letter, and turned away apparently happy, although she waited in line for seven hours. When this mail accumulated the postmaster made no attempt to distribute the newspapers. They were simply piled up in one corner, and finally a wagon load of newspaper mail was carted away from the postoffice. To be distributed?
Oh, no; to be dumped into San Diego bay.—Exchange.

The "Fall."

I have seen it stated over and over again that "fall"—autumn—is an Americanism. I am not sure that I have ever seen it contradicted. I myself learned long ago that to a Dorset rustic "fall" was the word of native speech, "autumn" a mere high polite exotic. (Is it so still, I wonder, in this day of board schools?) However, here is a passage from a book of the Seventeenth century, in which "spring and fall" are spoken of as a Dorset man might speak:

"And this I do, not so verie expreslie, by occasion of my contingent health, though still, if I secure not from some decades this spring, I may chance do it lesse happilie in the fall."—Notes and Queries.

He Gently but Firmly Refused.

"Reginald," exclaimed an up town bride of two months, as she returned from a shopping tour, "I saw the loveliest diamond necklace imaginable today, and so cheap, too; it can be bought for a mere song." Then she paused to hear what remark Reginald would make.
"My darling," quoth he, "you know how gladly I would grant you every wish; but I grieve to say that in this case I am unable to do so. Nature has not endowed me with the power of producing vocal melody. I could not sing though I should be promised a solitaire for every note."—Lockport Journal.

In case of a person choking from something sticking in the throat or windpipe, try and dislodge it with the fingers, or a blunt pointed scissors may be used. A hairpin with a loop on its end is also useful. Holding the person with the heels in the air and vigorous thumping on the back is also of frequent service.
When children swallow marbles or coins it is a mistake to give a purgative. The strange matter will find an escapement without effort.

The newspaper requires the very best of the brains and brawn of its followers.
The newspaper man is a soldier in a great army. Always ready must be his motto. It is not for him to reason why.
It is for him to obey—to do or die. And who ever knew him to hesitate?

Lord Aberdeen is one of the most popular noblemen in Great Britain. He is a democrat by sympathy as well as principle, and has been known to ride down to his club in a milk wagon when a cab was not handy. He is much sought after in Edinburgh society.

In Corea every unmarried man is considered a boy, though he should live to be 100. No matter what his age, he follows in position the youngest of the married men, despite the fact perhaps of having lived years enough to be their father.

A Wonder Worker

Mr. Frank Huffman, a young man of Burlington, O., states that he had been under the care of prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be consumption and incurable.
He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds and was not able at that time to walk across the street without resting. He found, before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued using it and is today enjoying good health. If you have any throat, lung or chest trouble try it.
