MONDAY, MAY 27, 1891

THE Atlanta Constitution, in speaking of a colored woman, uses the prefix "Mrs.," which provokes the Chattanooga News to one of its broadest "befoh the wah" sneers.
It calls it "the Atlanta Constitution's new leap." It is time the News had turned a new leaf and learned some other word than "huzzy" or "the black wench." — Ex.

ENGLAND has agreed to disgorge that section of Africa which she snatched from Portugal because she was able to take it. This wasn't out of generosity however, but because the republicans of Portugal were taking advantage of the row created by the act of the British government to force the abdication of King Carlos. So to save the monarchy in Portugal Salisbury concluded to give the grab back. Anything to prevent the spread of republicanism in Europe.

Free Trader Cleveland.

The anglo-mugwump press is gradually dropping the term "tariff reform" and using the honest and flatfooted words, "free trade." The Evening Post quotes with approval the fact that French free traders have adopted a resolution offering their congratulations, "in the person of the eminent ex-President Cleveland, to the free traders of the United States." That is, they recognize Cleveland as the head of the free trade party of the United States.
And such he undoubtedly is.—New York Press.

AS OUR NEIGHBORS SEE US.

We also expect to see a democratic victory in 1892, but so much the better for the liberal programme of reciprocity. The democrats are the free traders of the United States, and they will go in for no sham reciprocity. There will be no reciprocity short of absolute free trade between the two countries.—Halifax Chronicle.

There are two statements here made, as our readers will observe:
(1) that the democrats of the United States are free traders, and (2) that the democrats will not agree to anything in the shape of reciprocity with Canada "short of absolute free trade between the two countries.—Halifax Mail.

TWO BEAUTIFUL YOUNG GIRLS.

Who Will Create a Furore in Newport This Summer.

Newport is to have a sensation this summer.

It is authentically stated that the beautiful and celebrated daughters of Lord Dufferin, Beatrice and Adelaide, are to grace this famous resort with their presence this coming season.

It will be remembered that Be-atrice's beautiful dark eyes have played havoc lately with the heart of Albert, the eldest son of the Prince of Wales. What it will amount to is as yet a matter of conjecture in England. The young ladies are acknowledged to be the most beautiful in all Europe, and there will be not a little excitement in the hearts of our American bellees over their coming. They are exquisite dressers, and their costumes will be marvels of curiosity.

Unlike most ladies, they know exactly what is suited to them. Some time ago they sent for the chief designer of the Paris house of The New York and Paris Young Ladies' Fashion Bazar, and selected forty costumes each, the cost of which will amount to thousands of pounds.

Through the courtesy of these young ladies we have been permitted to copy for the New York and Paris Young Ladies' Fashion Bazar two of their most exquisite costumes, which appear as figures 3 and 4 on the colored plates of the June number of this magazine, just out, and for which the publisher has issued, in the name of the American ladies, a card of thanks. It is rumored that the prince may follow the young ladies to Newport this summer. The New York and Paris Young Ladies' Fashion Bazar has the exclusive right to publish each month at least one or more of the costumes in which the ladies Beatrice and Adelaide will appear.

WHAT MIND READING IS.

NOTHING BUT CLEVER TRICKERY OR MUSCLE READING.

Dr. Gatchell Explains How Stuart Comberland and Washington Irving Bishop Performed Their Surprising Feats—The Scientific Explanation.

The credulity of the American people has often been imposed upon. The Locke "Moon Hoax" and the Cardiff giant have been followed by the modern "mind reader," who claims for himself powers of divination exceeding anything that has been known since the time of Christ. Mind reading, in the sense in which the word is used by those who pretend to possess the alleged power, may be defined as the transference of a thought—that is, a mental conception, or an idea—from the mind of one person to the mind of another, without the use of the known mediums of communication, which consist of the nerves of general sensation and those of special sense.
Mind readers claim that this feat is possible. In opposition to such claims, I submit that profane history contains no trustworthy account of its accomplishment. It never will be brought about so long as man remains constituted as he is at present. It is opposed to the principles of evolution and to all known facts of physiology. Notwithstanding all that may be adduced to the contrary, many believe that mind reading is one of the possibilities, even if it is not one of the actualities of life. But the belief, in every instance, is founded either on insufficient evidence or on faulty observation, or on a disposition to mistake the marvelous for the miraculous.

Many accounts of alleged mind reading are purely fictitious. Others are ex-aggerations of trivial incidents or misinterpretations of observed phenomena.
Others still are accounts of muscle reading. Those cases that do not belong to the classes named are accomplished by trickery.

NOT EVEN IN HYPNOTISM.

If there were any conditions under which thought transference might occur they would seem to be supplied by hypnotism. In the hypnotic state the mind of one person exerts over the mind of another an influence that surpasses anything with which we are acquainted under ordinary conditions. But the impossible cannot be accomplished even by the aid of hypnotism.

It must be born in mind that in the hypnotic state one's senses are intensely acute. That which ordinarily escapes the attention of the most careful observer is quickly detected by the sharpened senses of the hypnotist. It is impossible to make a motion that he does not see and interpret accurately. Thus, by virtue of his sharpened faculties, the hypnotist will sometimes divine, though he cannot "read" the thought of another.

Of modern mind readers the late Washington Irving Bishop was the best known in this country. Mr. Bishop was at the same time an expert muscle reader and a clever trickster. His most famous feat, the one from which he gained the greatest notoriety and eclat, was that of driving a team of horses, while he was ostensibly blindfolded, at break neck speed by a circuitous route through crowded streets and finding at a distant point an object or a name in a book, previously selected by a committee.

For the amusement of my friends I have several times performed this seemingly impossible feat, and in no instance have my methods been detected. Its successful accomplishment depends upon two things—the fact that one who is apparently blindfolded can see distinctly all the time, and the fact that the members of his committee are betrayed into becoming his unwitting accomplices.

HARDLY KNOW THEMSELVES.

The testimony of all muscle readers, especially during their first attempts, has been that they do not know what their methods are. Early success is a self surprise. It creates the impression that one is possessed of a weird power.
This was my own experience. But, after repeated experiment and close observation, I am convinced that the facts admit of rational explanation.

Primarily the results are all due to a single cause, but several different conditions enter into their execution. In making his way to the location of a hidden object the subject usually does not lead the muscle reader, but the muscle reader leads the subject. That is to say, so long as the muscle reader moves in the right direction the subject gives no indication, but passively moves with him. The muscle reader perceives nothing unusual. But, the subject's mind being intently fixed on a certain course, the instant that the muscle reader deviates from that course there is a slight, involuntary tremor, or muscular thrill, on the part of the subject, due to the sudden interruption of his previous state of mental tension.

The muscle reader almost unconsciently takes note of the delicate signal and alters his course to the proper one, again leading his willing subject. In a word, he follows the lines of least resistance.
In other cases the conditions are reversed —the subject unwittingly leads the principal. He becomes so much interested and his mind is so intently fixed upon the object of his search that he is oblivious of everything save the attempt to find it.
Subjects have led me in this manner, and I have seen professional mind readers enjoying a like benefit. Again I have had subjects who would give patent assistance at intervals and at other times leave me to my own resources. It must be said that this method of muscle reading is exceptional, the usual one is that first described.—Dr. Gatchell in Forum.

Orleans and Its Maid.

It was on May 7, 1829, that the English were driven out of Orleans and that Joan la Pucelle, known as Joan of Arc, entered the city at the head of the French hosts. In memory of this event the troops of the garrison of Orleans march out of the city every year on the 7th of May and re-enter at 8 o'clock.—
