

HOSPITAL
ALL SECTS AND RELIGIONS IN A JERUSALEM CHARITY.

Turks, Christians, Jews and Greeks Unite in Putting the Sisters of Charity in Charge of the Building and Its Work—An Impressive Scene.

A most interesting article of The Journal des Debats describes a remarkable scene which took place in Jerusalem. The need of a municipal hospital for the reception of all the sick of the city had long been felt in Jerusalem. The pasha, an excellent man, has just carried out this important work, which had already been begun by his predecessor, Rahouf Pasha.

But whom to put in care of the sick? Jewish nurses—for half the population is Jewish, and 14,000 more Jews from Russia are expected. Or Mussulmans—for Mussulmans are also numerous. Or Greeks or Armenians, Copts or Catholics? The question long remained without a solution.

Finally the president of the municipal council, accompanied by two Effendis, presented himself before Sister Sion, superioress of the Daughters of Charity, and asked her to give some of her nuns for the service of the hospital. She at once asked from her superiors the permission to accept the invitation, and a few days later the municipality itself came to thank the sisters for their consent, and beg them at once to arrange the house for the reception of the sick.

There was no time to lose. In early May they received their notice, and on Sunday, May 10, the opening was to take place in presence of Ibrahim Pasha and the seraglio—that is to say, the council composed of a member of each nationality, the heads of all the religions and the municipal council.

THE PRESENTATION.

For three days and three nights the nuns had no rest. At midday on Sunday the nuns were all summoned in order to meet at 1 o'clock in the large reception room. At 1 o'clock the pasha arrived in state and all the dignitaries took their places. But the superior and the sisters, where are they?

A carriage is heard approaching. "Here they come!" At once a serenade began, and a thousand voices cried aloud, "Long live the Sisters of Charity!" The soldiers presented arms; the crowd pressed forward, so that the dragomans had difficulty in making a way for the sisters. But at length they ascended the main steps, preceded by the dragomans.

On their entry all arose. "You are welcome, sisters," said the pasha in excellent French. "I am too much astonished at the appearance you have given to this house, in which you have been working for only three days, to be able to congratulate you as I ought." "Your excellency, we have done our duty," said Sister Sion. "I am delighted," replied the pasha, "and we can only congratulate ourselves on our choice." The whole meeting testified to their profound sympathy and agreement. "Do you find anything wanting, gentlemen, or is everything as you wish?" said the pasha, turning to the authorities.

"For my part," said the grand rabbi, "the most beautiful thing I see in the hospital is the Sisters of Charity. For five years we have watched them at work, and they have never fallen short of their professions. They have been mothers and sisters to all, whosoever they might be."

AN INTERESTING SCENE.

"Long live the Sisters of Charity!" was the cry on all sides, in the wards, the corridors, etc. All were full of emotion. After the presentation the pasha returned to the divan to take part in a Turkish religious service. "Allah! Allah!" cried out the assistants, opening wide their arms and invoking blessings on the sisters and the sick.

The military doctor, on being presented to Sister Sion, said, "Sister, I beg you to employ all your influence with the pasha to obtain me eight beds, so that my poor sick soldiers may be properly nursed."

Sixteen doctors of the city who had been invited to the opening were presented by the physician of the hospital to the pasha and the sisters. The rabbis, the Mussulman and Schismatic chiefs came also to address their congratulations to them. Finally the president of the municipal council assembled all the personnel of the establishment before the sisters.

A moving scene then took place. He caused all to swear respect to the sisters—first of all the medical staff, then the pharmacists, the nurses, cooks, gardeners and porters. Each came up according to his rank and swore in his own language and manner what was asked.

When the last had retired the president said: "Sisters, I confide this house to you. You are at home. I need not beg you to act as mothers among your children."—Tablet.

A MONSTER VESSEL OF OLDEN TIMES.

Ptolemaeus Philopator, one of the ancient kings of Egypt, is said to have built a vessel 420 feet long, 56 feet broad, 72 feet high from the keel to the top of the prow, and 80 feet to the top of the poop. She had four helms of 60 feet; her largest oars were 56 feet long, with leaden handles, so as to be more easily worked. She had two prows, two sterns and seven rostra or beaks. On both prows and sterns she had figures of men and animals that were fully 18 feet high. She had 4,000 rowers, 400 cabin boys or servants, 2,820 marines to do duty on deck, besides being provided with immense stores of arms and provisions.—St. Louis Republic.

An English gentleman, not a poet and not recently deceased, always wore in a braided necklace about his neck the long, beautiful hair which he cut from his wife's head during her illness. The doctor insisted that the hair must be shorn, and the husband allowed no one to cut it but himself, that he might preserve each shining strand.

HISTORICAL DISPLAY.
The World's Fair will have the Greatest Aquarium ever Constructed.

The fish exhibit at the World's Columbian Exposition is to be a wonderful one, and not the least interesting portion of it, naturally, will be the aquarial or live fish display. This will be contained in a circular building, 135 feet in diameter, standing near one extremity of the main Fisheries building, and in a great curved corridor connecting the two.

In the center of the circular building will be a rotunda sixty feet in diameter, in the middle of which will be a basin or pool about twenty six feet wide from which will arise a towering mass of rocks covered with moss and lichens. From clefts and crevices in the rocks crystal streams of water will gush and drop to the masses of reeds, rushes, and ornamental semi-aquatic plants in the basin below. In this pool gorgeous gold fishes golden ides, golden trench, and other fishes will disport. From the rotunda one side of the larger series of aquaria may be viewed. These will be ten in number and will have a capacity of seven thousand of twenty-seven thousand gallons of water.

Passing out of the rotunda by the entrances a great corridor or gallery is reached where on one hand can be viewed the opposite side of the other a line of tanks and somewhat smaller, ranging from 750 to 1,500 gallons each in capacity. The corridor or gallery is about fifteen feet wide. The entire length of the glass fronts of the aquaria will be about 555 feet or over 3,000 square feet of surface. They will make a panorama never before seen in any exhibition, and will rival the great permanent aquariums of the world not only inside but in all other respects.

The total water capacity of the aquaria, exclusive of reservoirs, will be 18,725 cubic feet, or 140,000 gallons. This will weigh 1,192,425 pounds, or almost 600 tons. Of this amount about 40,000 gallons will be devoted to the marine exhibit. In the entire salt water circulation, including reservoirs, there will be about 80,000 gallons. The pumping and distributing plant for the marine aquaria will be constructed of valcanite. The pumps will be in duplicate and will each have a capacity of 3,000 gallons per hour. The supply of sea water will be secured by evaporating the necessary quality at the Woods Hill station of the United States Fish commission to about one-fifth its bulk, thus reducing both quantity and weight for transportation about 80 per cent. The fresh water required to restore it to its proper density will be supplied from Lake Michigan. In transporting the marine fishes to Chicago from the coast there will also be an addition of probably 3,000 gallons of pure sea water to the supply on each trip.

Specimen Cases.
S. H. Clifford, New Castle, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven bottles Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by F. G. Fricke & Co.

WONDERFUL CAMPBELL DOG.
I want to speak of a rather interesting example of animal sagacity I saw out in Campbell this week. As the performance was of such a rare nature, and simply demonstrated the affection dogs will sometimes have toward horses, I will speak of the case. A groceryman owns a horse and a remarkably intelligent canine, and every time the horse is hitched to the delivery wagon and it starts the dog is sure to follow in the rear. In the case I refer to I noticed the wagon stop in front of a residence, and as soon as the driver had left the vehicle the dog commenced to crop grass. He got under the horse's head, reared on his hind legs and transferred the grass to the horse's mouth. Wonderful dog.

FIFTEEN BEARS IN ONE TREE.
A McCloud river woodsman, while making shakes at Black Cox mountain, cut down a big five-foot sugar pine, which proved to be hollow for forty-five feet and full of hibernating bears. There were five black, seven cinnamon and three grizzly bears in the hollow tree, and the man nailed slabs over the open end of the log and started it down the mountain toward town, where it arrived safe and sound and is now on exhibition.—McCloud Pioneer.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach and are of little consequence. Fricke & Co., who guarantee and recommend Dr. Miles' unequalled new Heart Cure, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, fluttering, pain or tenderness in the side, arm or shoulder, irregular pulse, fainting, smothering, dropsy, etc. His Restorative Nervine cures headache, fits, etc.
