REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.
 The republican electors of the state of Nebraska are requested to send delegates from their several counties, to meet in convention in the city of Lincoln, Thursday, September 24, 1891, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for one associate justice of the supreme court, and two members of the board of regents of the state university, and to transact such other business as may be presented to the convention.

THE APPOINTMENT
 The several counties are entitled to representation as follows, being based upon the vote cast for Hon. Geo. H. Hastings, for attorney-general in 1890, giving one delegate at-large to each county, and one for each 150 votes and the major fraction thereof:

FREE TRADE AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

It is announced that the English exhibitors at the World's Fair intend putting up a list of prices in two columns. The first column will give the cost to the purchaser in Great Britain; the second will give the cost plus the duties to the American consumer. The English exhibitors hope they will in this way render valuable assistance to the free traders in their fight against the protective policy. The theory is that the thousands who will visit the World's Fair will be so struck by the difference in the prices that they will return to their homes determined to join the ranks of the free traders.

There is no doubt that this scheme of helping on free trade in America would work to perfection if there were not two sides to this question of cheapness. If the thousands who will visit the World's Fair were simply consumers who had a settled income, the price-list of the English exhibitors would undoubtedly make such an impression that there would not be the ghost of a chance for the protective policy at the polls. But, unfortunately for the success of this plan of booming free trade, a very small percentage of those who will read the English price list will belong to the unfortunate few who are consumers without at the same time being producers.

Parallel columns giving the average wages in Great Britain and the average wages in America would make the vast majority of the visitors to the World's Fair lose all interest in these English price lists. Americans are too sensible not to know that cheapness of the English sort cannot be obtained as vast majorities of them are wealthy producers of some kind they will not feel much attracted by the sort of cheapness that would require a considerable paring off of their wages.—Irish World.

It is reported that Major Jacques of Plattsmouth, late of Weeping Water, was the smoothest man on the floor at the alliance convention Saturday, as he voted the whole town of Plattsmouth without resorting to proxies or credentials.

If, as the democrats insisted, it was the tariff that brought about the low price of wheat, corn and farm products last year, it must be the McKinley bill that has caused an increase in the price of these commodities this year.—Beatrice Republican.

"The world do move." A prominent Texas paper, the Austin Statesman, in a leading editorial, declares that "the pistol must go." That is the voice of civilization. Not one time in twenty does the pistol hit or kill the right party. The practice of carrying one in the pocket is cowardly and the results usually disastrous.

SIXTY new boys may be admitted to West Point this year. This is the finest military academy in the world, and now is the time for the contests to be had to see who may enter. Another year it is more than likely that all these boys will be appointed by the different senators without an examination, which will make it easier to gain an admittance to this great school.

THE alliance convention at Weeping Water was composed of a representative body of men, that in appearance would have compared favorably with any other party in the county. Their deliberations were marked with an earnestness and zeal that could not be misunderstood. There were a few political hucksters and floppers present, but they composed a very small minority.

COLONEL BRICE, the chairman of the democratic national committee, buys a convict's labor in Tennessee a whole year for from $80 to $90. He doesn't work them any "eight hours" either, but from sun up to sunset. He makes millions and gives largely to the campaign, and such little side speculations have to be winked at for the good of the party. The fact remains, however, that a felon has displaced an honest worker, and his family must be left to hustle or starve so that a few millionaires can double up on their millions.

As vast and important as is the War Records series now publishing by the government, there is to follow a war atlas that will transcend anything of the kind ever undertaken by the government. There is just completed the plate for the first battle of Bull Run, one of the most perfect in details ever made. In fact, it is all but a photograph of the field. It is prepared from a carefully finished map by General Beauregard and one by General McDowell. The big atlas will contain about 100 maps. The War Record is published at a phenomenal rate. A 1,000-page volume appears every three weeks. Sixty-five volumes are now out all relating to battles and campaigns. A second series will follow containing all correspondence between the states and the federal government; a third will treat of prisoners of war.

SINCE the Alliance ticket was put in the field last Saturday at Weeping Water, Republican stock has been steadily raising in the market.
