

FROM THE EAGLE.

Miss Ola Thomas returned from her Kansas visit Monday. She says she saw only one hopper during her visit.

Worms have invaded a number of corn fields near here, and make clean work of the crop wherever they go.

J. Gilmore met with a bad fall Saturday evening while returning from the convention here. A rough place in the road was encountered near the home of Samuel Rector throwing him out of the vehicle. The concussion was so severe that Dr. Hungate was sent for, who found that his side was badly hurt, but with good care he will come out all right.

From the Weeping Water Republican.

Jack Smith brought a stalk of corn to this office that measured ten feet and two inches in height and has two good sized ears. Jack says any one wishing to learn how to farm can call on him.

Lot of drunks were to be seen on the streets Saturday night. With all due respect to the delegates, we will say it was after they had gone home. The drunks were probably democrats who came to look on.

Mrs. J. M. Beardsley was unfortunate enough to run a nail into her foot last Friday evening, and is just getting so she can bear her weight on it. We are glad to hear she is improving as such accident sometimes end very seriously.

How He Sold the Goods.

"Have you got any buff trimming to go with this stuff?" asked a flashily dressed woman of an assistant in a large draper's near Regent street the other day.

"I think so, miss," answered the polite young man, taking down a piece of goods and spreading it on the counter.

"Buff! Do you call that buff?" exclaimed the woman. "That's too dark for a buff."

"But, miss, that is—"

"It's too dark! I can see it is."

"Why, of course it's dark, madam," persisted the man. "It's blind man's buff—the new shade, you see."

He sold the goods.—London Tit-Bits.

A Boot and Shoe Museum.

One section of the great historical collection at Dresden is literally a museum of boots and shoes, being, it is believed, unequalled in the world as a repository for the footwear of celebrities. Among the things of interest shown are a pair of shoes worn by Martin Luther at the Diet of Worms, and the toilet slippers of the great Maria Theresa. In a sealed case are shown the boots worn by Napoleon at the battle of Dresden, and the jack boots of Peter the Great.—St. Louis Republic.

BAD ECZEMA ON BABY

Head one Solid Sore Itched awful Had To tie his Handsto Cradle

Cured by Cuticura

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema when he was four months old. We tried three doctors but they did not help him. When we used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions he began to steadily improve and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we saw using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows, it was also all over his face most of his face and small places on different parts of his body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others.

Wanted—An active, reliable man—salary $20 to $30 monthly, with increase, to represent his own section a responsible New York House. References. MANUFACTURER, Lock Box 1588, New York.

Mr. Gallagher, a ranchman from Renton. Mr. Gallagher has lived on the same place twenty years or more, taking up a section as a homestead from the government. By years of hard toil he cleared up and improved a splendid place, which, though secluded from the outside world, is a model ranch, of which the owner is justly proud.

Mr. Gallagher is not given to hunting and does not molest wild game of any kind, and to this may be ascribed the tameness of a number of animals which make the woods in that vicinity a home. One of these, a black bear, has for a year visited his stockyard almost daily and eaten with the cattle, lying down among the calves and displaying neither fear nor ferocity.

Mr. Gallagher goes among the stock and frequently passes within two or three feet of his bearship, not only in the yard but in the woods. He pays no attention to the bear and the latter never offers to molest him—the contrary, eats with evident satisfaction pieces of bacon and other scraps from the table that are thrown out to him. The bear is a handsome 300 pound fellow and appears to enjoy the company of the cattle.

Other pets are a pair of fawns that run around with the young stock on the place, eating with the calves and lying down among them as contented as though with their own kind. They evidently come from the vicinity of Cedar Lake, where considerable hunting is done and from which section game is being driven. Mr. Gallagher says he had rather part with the best cow on his place than one of the fawns.

This is the second time fawns have taken up their abode at this place, the first pair coming there about five years ago and remaining with his stock for two years, even going into the stables and being locked up over night. He gave them to a neighbor, who in turn presented them to friends at Snohomish and up the Skagit.

This sounds fishy, but not only is it vouched for, but it is further said that wild ducks and geese alight in his yard and show no fear in his presence, though the appearance of a stranger is the signal for flight. Mr. Gallagher never hunts and will not allow hunting on his place nor interference in any way with his pets, either quadrupeds or winged.—Seattle (Wash.) Press-Times.

Women Professors.

What is there so incongruous in a woman professor in universities, where men are educated with women? This is the question Mrs. M. Louise Thomas and others are asking, who are trying to raise funds to endow a woman's chair in a northern university. Why is it that a woman teacher is deemed so necessary through all the grades, from the primary to those of the graduating class of the high school, and yet she should be deemed so pernicious and disastrous in colleges? Whether these are good reasons or not, the experiment is to be given a fair trial, for very recently the bill providing for a woman professorship at the State University of Michigan has become a law.

Not far behind comes the news also that the University of Denver, which numbers about 800 students, has conferred on a woman the honor of naming an important professorship after her—that of literature—to be known hereafter as the Mary Lowe Dickinson chair of belles letter, which chair has just received an endowment from ex-Governor John Evans the sum of $50,000.—Brooklyn Eagle.

How the Hillmen Turn Tail.

It is possible that before our soldiers get to close quarters with the enemy they will see the latter "turn tail." Let them not be deceived. Turning tail is a different thing with the hillmen to what it is with us. The inhabitants of one group of villages, the Bengman, are noticeable for wearing a caudal appendage. This, of course, is not natural. It is fashioned of wood, eighteen inches long, curved upward, tapering to a point.

This is fitted to the back, being suspended from the shoulders and secured in position by a sash, which is tied tightly around the waist. This singular appendage is worn in battle, and is intended to signify defiance. The wearers turn their backs toward the adversary, and, by balancing the body alternately on either leg, wave the tail defiantly in his very face.—National Review.

Where Genius Tires.

At one of the table d'hote dinners of the Fellowship club one man said: "I know that your device might be the verse of Euripidus, 'Without ever being absent or saying I am tired.' You write five or six columns every day. Tell me this, is literary work tiresome or is it not?" The other replied: "Not to the mind. It is nothing to unroll the arabesques of fantasy, but the bending over one's paper and the guiding of one's pen give pains in the back." It reminded a third person of an interview with Sarah Bernhardt, when he asked, "In playing so many emotions, in affecting so much suffering, don't you feel terrible pains in your heart?" "Oh, no," she said sadly; "it's in the legs."—New York Times.
