

is an excellent laxative, especially for children.

Even the broken tacks are helpful in this utilitarian age; they are excellent for cleaning bottles.

LEMONS will keep fresh for weeks if covered with water. A small glass jar is a convenient receptacle.

For a slight cut bind on a piece of common brown wrapping paper such as butchers use for wrapping meats.

MILDEWED linen may be restored by soaping the spots and while wet covering them with powdered chalk.

PAINT splashes may be removed from window panes by a very hot solution of soda, using a soft flannel.

A TEA made by pouring boiling water over sweet flaxroot will relieve worm sickness in children and is also good for colic.

If dust has settled in the carving of furniture wash the wood with kerosene oil and dry well. The oil will not injure the wood.

TO REMOVE spots on velvet the trimming must be unpicked on one side and put over hot water to steam, then brush up the nap.

WHEN washing fine white flannels add a tablespoonful of pulverized borax to a pailful of water; this will keep them soft and white.

TO CLEAN paint so that it will shine like new mix whitening with water until it forms a soft paste; rub the mixture on with a cloth and then cleanse thoroughly with warm water.

TAKE blood stains out by saturating the spots with kerosene, then wash out with slightly warm water. Repeat the operation if stains do not come out easily.

PILLOW SHAM HOLDER.
A Convenient Little Article Which Any Woman Can Make.

Where to place the pillow shams at night is often a perplexing problem. Being of a slippery nature, they are very likely to glide from the chair-back on which you have so carefully arranged them, greeting your eyes in the morning a tumbled, crumpled mass. The accompanying illustration of a Little article which anyone may make for a few cents will relieve housekeepers of the difficulty and save washing as well.

Take a rod two inches longer than the width of the sham and cover it with a piece of dotted Swiss or scrim, slightly filled on and edged with a fall of lace two inches deep. To do this take a strip of the muslin one-fourth longer than the rod and wide enough to slip on easily when sewed in the form of a hem; sew the lace on this plain. Cover the rod first with a bit of muslin, red, blue or old gold, according to the predominating color employed in the furnishing of your room. Suspend with ribbon and place a ribbon bow at each corner. Screw in a little peg an inch long at the back on each end, to keep the rod out from the wall, in order to slip the shams over more easily. An old cane, the handle of an old broom, or a curtain pole can be used. If you take the latter it is very pretty without muslin or lace if enameled with ivory white Aspinwall paint. Screw on the ends the brass or wooden knobs belonging to it, and suspend with a silk cord or with picture wire.—American Agriculturist.

THE BORROWING HABIT.
A Vice Calculated to Make Its Victim Very Unpopular.

It is the easiest thing in the world to begin by borrowing a newspaper, then a pattern, then a recipe, then a book; some day a gown is borrowed to look at; another day one is borrowed to try on to see if it would be becoming; then a little note goes asking that a fan be lent; and the fan once borrowed it becomes the easiest thing in the world to get either a bodice, a bonnet or an embroidered petticoat. Now, when you began, if anybody had told you that you were a moral thief, you would have been most indignant; and yet that is just what you are. It would be much more honest to borrow your neighbor's money and never return it than to keep up a constant borrowing of your neighbor's belongings, getting out of them the wear that is not yours and the pleasure that is by rights your neighbor's.

What the mistress does, the maid does. In the kitchen they do not hesitate to borrow a patent coffee-pot, and never return it; a pudding-dish, a little flavoring extract, some baking powder, or some oil. If they were asked if they returned all this, they would answer: "Certainly not; why we would be just as glad to lend to them." And the result is that your servants, imitating your example, become systematic plunderers of your neighbors. My friend, do not get into the habit of borrowing. It is one of the most vicious you can possibly acquire. It makes you lose all respect for the rights of other people, and it can certainly give you none for yourself. The persistent borrower is a more or less well-spoken thief. The borrower does not hide her light under a bushel, for in time her friends and acquaintances grow to know of her weakness and avoid her. So stop at the book, and do not permit yourself to drift into what it is charity to call a very bad habit.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Sauce for Puddings.
One egg well beaten, add a cupful of white sugar, piece of butter the size of an egg, one tablespoonful of cornstarch, beat all together smoothly and stir into a pint of boiling water, which should be over a kettle of boiling water. Stir until it is well thickened. Flavor with lemon or vanilla when cool.

Way Off.
Dullpate (who prides himself on his abstracted air)—Did you ever notice what a faraway look I have sometimes?
Miss Spirituelle—Yes. Is that because you are a little off?—Good News.

The Duty of Every Teacher.
A teacher of science ought also to be an investigator, were it only for the inspiration that his example might give to the pupils in his charge. To impart knowledge is a good thing, but to reveal the sources of knowledge is better; and in that revelation is found the educational value of research regarded as a part of the teacher's essential duty.—F. W. Clarke in Popular Science Monthly.

Paint Instead of Clothing.
The annotta plant has seeds coated with a red, waxy pulp, which is dried and made into cakes. It is much employed by the South American Caribs for painting their bodies, paint being almost their only article of clothing. As a commercial article it is mainly utilized as a coloring for cheese, butter and inferior chocolates.—Washington Star.

When to See an Oculist.
Should any of the following symptoms be experienced, an oculist of repute should be consulted: Spots or sparks of light floating before the eyes; quivering of the lids or sensation of sand in the eye; perceptible fatigue or the requirement of strong light in reading; the holding of objects at arm's length or close to the eye; squinting one eye or seeing objects double; dizziness or darting pains in the eyeballs or over the temple; perceiving a colored circle around the lamp; sensitiveness of the eyeballs or contraction of the visual field; blurring of the vision or being unable to see objects distinctly at a distance; watering or redness of the eyes or lids; running together of the letters when reading, or seeing the vertical better than the horizontal lines.—Exchange.

The First Born.
Young Father—I am amazed, shocked, my dear, to hear you say you intend to give the baby some paregoric. Don't you know paregoric is opium, and opium taints the growth, enfeebles the constitution, weakens the brain, destroys the nerves, and produces rickets, marasmus, consumption, insanity and death?
Young Mother—Horror! I never heard a word about that. I won't give the little ducky darling a drop, no, indeed. But something must be done to stop his yelling. You can carry him awhile.

to make twelve people in all, on account of the number of pieces of china in each course of dinner service. Heavy white damask is used for the tablecloth, and this should be hem-stitched all around. The fashionable patterns in damask are small figures, and these mostly in the form of fine ferns, fine flowers, single rosebuds, pinks, chrysanthemums, carnations and long grasses. In the center of the table is placed the piece of dainty linen beautifully embroidered in colored silks, representing national flowers in all their brilliancy.

Upon this centerpiece is placed the bouquet or flowers, or the large candelabra. The smaller embroidered pieces, which are used under separate dishes and condiment jars, should be exact imitations of the centerpiece, and if that is square, all the small pieces should be square; if round, the same rule holds, and if the edges are serrated the edges of all must be cut in the same shape.—Fashion Journal.

Submarine Telephones.
The difficulty of submarine telephony over great distances is the fact of considerable electrostatic capacity in the cable, the result of this being retardation and deformation of the electrical impulses transmitted. If a line could be made of very, very low resistance, so that the electric current would have the freest possible discharge, the evil effect of this capacity would be in part done away with. The relation between these two things has been determined in a somewhat empirical way. Calling the total resistance of a telephone wire R and its total capacity in microferads K, successful speaking, with our present instrument, is really an impossibility when the product KR of the resistance of the line in ohms by its capacity in microferads is greater than about 10,000. In the very best Atlantic cable KR equals somewhere near 3,000,000, so that unless there should be some totally new developments in telephony we can see at once that successful telephoning across the Atlantic is very improbable on account of the enormous cost of a conductor of low resistance and capacity, if for no other reason.—Electrical Engineer.

A New Use for the Ring.
Whatever the measures adopted, the principle of isolation is the essence of all genuine disinfection. Its efficiency for this purpose was well shown at Epsom common. One of the children in a gypsy encampment having been taken ill with scarlet fever, was, along with its mother, very successfully separated from the rest of the community by the simple expedient of a ring fence made of rope drawn around the infected tent and regularly watched.

The result was that the slow progress of convalescence was passed through and disinfection completed without further extension of the disease. The surgeon, Mr. Harding, is to be congratulated on the success of his novel and effectual maneuver. The satisfactory result thus easily attained is of obvious importance, and the simple method employed deserves to be remembered in case of emergencies of a similar kind.—London Lancet.

Head one Solid Sore Itched awful Had To tie his Handsto Cradle Cured by Cuticura

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema when he was four months old. We tried three doctors but they did not help him. When we used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions he began to steadily improve and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears most of his face and small places on different parts of his body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands held to the cradle and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others.
